Polls for SGA Elections Open Today, Tomorrow

Polls opened at 8 a.m. today for Student Governing association general elections and will be open all day tomorrow.

Voting is for a student body president, a board of student publications, and 19 student council representatives. A proposed constitutional amendment to allow freshmen representation is also being referred to the students for their approval or disapproval.

Polling places are in Eisenhower hall for arts and sciences students, Calvin hall for home economics majors, Veterinary hall for those in vet medicine, Seaton hall for engineers, and Waters hall for agriculture students.

An additional polling place is in Anderson hall for all students.

Graduate students may vote on any ballot. However they must vote for only one representative from Graduate school, their choice for student body president, and three choices for the student publications board. Undergraduate students may not vote for a graduate representative.

Less than 1,900 students voted in the general election last year. Only 850 voted in the primary election last Friday.

If freshman representation is to be passed, at least 2,000 students must vote and two-thirds of this vote must be affirmative.

It has been estimated that this proposed amendment, an additional political party, and increased enrollment may bring the number of voting students to a new high.

Mobile Mike To Transmit KSC Show

A new mobile broadcasting unit belonging to radio station KMAN, Manhattan, began a show "College News," this week to be on the air each weekday from 9 to 9:05 a.m. It will feature a resume of news items taken daily from the Collegian.

Allen Collier, KMAN announcer, will be in charge.

The mobile unit is a 1956 stationwagon complete with transmitter and will be parked in the loading zone in front of Fairchild during the program.

The program will report any campus news seen in progress and at times will interview groups on the spot. People with important news items may walk up and report them.

In addition to the college items and news bureau releases, they will report fires and accidents and other news in the making, plus other features, according to Collier.

SIGNS, SIGNS, EVERYWHERE! This is just an example of what the campus looks like as signs are placed for candidates for Student Governing association, Mock Political convention, and Home Ec council, and such other events as chariot relays.

Name Omitted by Error in Ballot

An error in the general election ballots lists Sandra Mueller, Clo Jr, as a candidate for Board of Student Publications. She is a candidate for Student Council from the School of Home Economics.

Miss Mueller's name also has been omitted from the list of candidates for Student Council. Not until late this morning had some of the polling officials begun to write in her name on the ballots where it had been omitted.

In Assembly Tomorrow

Washington Writer Is Hospitality Day Speaker

Doris Fleeson, outstanding woman journalist, will give a kick-off assembly speech for the annual Hospitality Day at an all-College assembly tomorrow at 9:30 a.m.

Miss Fleeson's topic, "Cast Your Ballots," coincides with the theme of the Hospitality Day—"Home economics campaigns for better living."

Miss Fleeson was born in Sterling and graduated from the University of Kansas. Living now in Washington, D.C., she is a columnist for United Features Syndicate.

Miss Fleeson was on the staff of the New York Times at one time, worked for Woman's Home Companion as a war correspondent during World War II, and has been with Bell syndicate.

She twice has been awarded the New York Newspaperwomen's Club prize for distinguished reporting.

Theta Sigma Phi, journalism honorary for women, presented its "Headliner" award to her in 1951. A member of Women's National Press club, Miss Fleeson was the organization's president in 1937.

MPC Farm Plank Includes Soil Bank

By RAY LIPPE

A plan to voluntarily take out of production land that is producing surplus crops—thus reducing surpluses—is a top issue of the Mock Political Convention's farm plank.

"To compensate the farmer for not planting the crop, the farmer would receive payment according to the productivity of his land," Don Scoby, chairman of the farm plank subcommittee, said.

"For instance, land that is run down will not receive as much money as a piece of land that obviously could produce much more," he added.

Keeping the land out of production would save the land for future generations, the subcommittee thinks. The program also is figured to help the little man.

As part of a long-range plan, the subcommittee favors a program to back farmers' sons in their college expenses.

The idea is to get farm youth to college, educate them, and send the best-trained men back to the farm. Others could fill vacancies in dairying, engineering, and other professions.

Included in the long-range program is a plan to induce banks to make small long-term loans. At present, the farmer must renew his loan every few months, if the loan is small and if he can't pay it off soon.

Graves, Wilkerson Vie for Student Body Prexy

Voting today and tomorrow will decide the fate of the two student body presidential candidates, Jim Graves and Pat Wilkerson.

Graves, New All-College party candidate, running on the Progressive party platform, is from Wichita. He has a 2.4 grade average and received Phi Kappa Phi freshmen recognition. He has been president of the Arts and Sciences council and was a winner of the Larry Woods Speech contest.

Graves is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity and is chairman of the Mock Political Convention platform resolutions committee.

Wilkerson, Integrity party's candidate running on that party's platform, is from Kansas City, Mo. He has a 1.87 grade average and is a member of Alpha Kappa Psi, business honorary; Delta Sigma Phi, social fraternity; Young Democrats; and Newman club.

Wilkerson was recently chosen chairman of the Big 7 conference. While a member of Student Council, he didn't miss a meeting.

Both are members of the present Student Council and both are business administration juniors.

According to Graves, "Pat is a very well-meaning and sincere individual and Student Council benefited greatly from his presence during the last year."

Graves adds that "there is considerable evidence, however, pointing to the fact that Pat's actions on the council display a degree of conservatism and regard for diplomacy which prevents him from effectively sponsoring student interests.

Jim Graves

"He promotes vigorously a philosophy which says the Council should check the administration's opinion before taking action on any problem related to the administrative policy and not endorsing any proposal contract to the view point of the administration for fear that such a proposal might be turned down."

Graves said he feels that any Council which does not have an occasional recommendation turned down by President McCain is not doing its utmost to uphold the interests of the student body.

Wilkerson offered no comments about his opponent.

According to Wilkerson the Integrity party, during the past year, has made available instructors' names and classes to students before they enroll and has brought freshmen representation on Student Council to a student vote.

"The Integrity party has also reduced replacement of an activity ticket from $7.50 to $.50, set up a system of primary elections, eliminated the freshmen matriculation fee and senior graduation fees, and increased general scholarships by $3,600."

A big issue in the candidates' campaigns is the structural setup of the Student Governing association.

Pat Wilkerson

"SGA should be reorganized structurally to accomplish several ends," Graves said. "There is a real need for more Student Council members to provide a more direct basis of representation.

"A functional reorganization is necessary to direct the council's attention to its primary realm of responsibility, that of student affairs. Far too many of the Council's real duties in this field are being carried out by appointed committees instead of elected representatives," he said.

According to Wilkerson the present SGA constitution was adopted November 7, 1951, and has been kept up to date by revisions since then.

"The present constitution was adopted after two years of extensive study of other school constitutions," he said. "I think if a change is made it should be made only after more study. If I am elected, I will write to the National Student association for information on other constitutions before proposing any changes."

"I do not feel that we should throw away a constitution that took years of work and adopt a plan that was worked up over night."

'Heartbreak Hotel' Is Top-Selling Disc

By CLANCY SLOAN

ELVIS PRESLEY, the rock-and-roll cowboy, is leading the top ten tune survey this week with "Heartbreak Hotel." Here is this week's list of the top ten tunes in Manhattan:

1—"Heartbreak Hotel," Elvis Presley
2—"Blue Suede Shoes," Carl Perkins
3—Theme from "Man with the Golden Arm," Elmer Bernstein
4—"Lovely One," Four Voices
5—"Rock Island Line," Lonnie Donnegan
6—"Why Do Fools Fall in Love," Gale Storm
7—"Ivory Tower," Cathy Carr
8—"Forever Darling," Ames Brothers
9—"Hot Diggety," Perry Como
10—"Long Tall Sally," Pat Boone

NEW RELEASES which are picked as coming hits are:

- "Moonglow," theme from "Picnic," George Dunning
- "I Was the One," Elvis Presley
- "Standing on the Corner," Four Lads

New album releases the past week include a pair of top records by jazz groups. The newest by the Dave Pell Octette is worth listening to. This outfit is made up largely of musicians from Les Brown's band, and provides very smooth jazz.

The other platter is Bobby Dukoff's "Sax in Silk." Dukoff is a great interpretive musician and has a good group behind him.

ANOTHER ALBUM of that very popular mood music by Percy Faith entitled "Amour, amour, amour." We've decided not to tell you what mood this music is for. Can you guess?

The Ink Spots have a new album out full of old songs. The titles read like a hit parade of yesteryear and include all the hits that this group is famous for.

This week's Saturday Evening Post, following a recent trend, has done a story on Mitch Miller, "the shaggy genius of pop music." We'll go along with the theory that he is pretty shaggy, but in the opinion of most people connected with the musical world, he is undoubtedly the worst thing that ever happened to American music. He gives his formula for producing hit records. "Keep it sexy. Keep it simple. Keep it sad."

AS AN EXAMPLE, take his most recent hit, "The Yellow Rose of Texas." The ararngement wasn't exactly simple, it cretainly wasn't sexy, but we'll subscribe to the theory that it was certainly sad.

Miller, it must be granted, uncovered a lot of talent in recent years. His discoveries, to name a few, were Johnnie Ray, Frankie Laine, Tony Bennett, Guy Mitchell, Rosemary Clooney, and Jimmie Boyd. He also had a good background, as probably the world's greatest oboist.

About five years ago Miller recorded with his own orchestra a song called Napoleon, and did a good job with it. Some of the trumpet arrangements were great. But the record just didn't sell.

EVER SINCE this time Mitch has gone out of his way to be different, perhaps unique, and this has been his downfall. As the head of Columbia records, he is in a position to continue this nonsense, but the public will eventually wise up to the fact that they are being taken.

Nobody remembers that Miller is the man who sold Sinatra down the river a few years ago. Frankie Lane is no longer selling like he used to, thanks to Mitch's material.

It will be interesting to see what does happen to Columbia.

'Stay Out of Middle East,' Eden Will Warn Russians

By UNITED PRESS

LONDON, April 19—Prime Minister Anthony Eden will deliver a sharp warning to Russia today not to meddle in the explosive Middle East, informed sources said.

Eden was prepared to submit the warning to Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev at their first formal meeting this afternoon the sources said.

They said during their talks during the next eight days Eden will warn the Soviets of the risks of big powers becoming embroiled in the Middle East fight, demand they explain exactly their "peaceful coexistence" statements, and ask whether the Russians now are ready to break their iron curtain barriers.

EDEN INVITED Bulganin and Khrushchev for their present visit during the height of the "Geneva Spirit" days when the Big Four met last in Switzerland.

But he was reported approaching Bulganin and Khrushchev with a new-found wariness based on later developments that included a complete breakdown of the Geneva spirit and the opening of a new Soviet cold war offensive in the Middle and Far East.

Minor incidents plagued the Russians for the second straight day as they left their hotel and laid an immense wreath at the centotraph, a memorial to British war dead.

A WOMAN WAS arrested outside the hotel as she shook her fist from behind police lines and shouted, "Mr Bulganin, I want to speak to you." There was a short scuffle.

A 12-year-old boy carrying an air rifle was led away by police from Buckingham Palace where the Russians signed the visitors book. However, they will not be presented to Queen Elizabeth until Sunday.

Police fought to hold back crowds surging forward toward the cenopath after the Rusisans left in fear they would destroy the wreath. However, they only wanted to read the inscription hailing the war dead of both countries.

HUGE CROWDS including American tourists watched the Russians. There was no cheering.

The Prime Minister plunges today into the first of a series of "little summit conferences" with the visiting Russians. Altogether he will meet them seven times across the conference table.

Diplomatic circles said the Russians seemed anxious to get formal talks started as soon as possible. They already had begun their visit with a spectacular new "peace offensive" apparently designed to influence British public opinion and cast Bulganin and Khruschev in the role of peace emissaries.

IN A QUICK follow up, Bulganin announced on his arrival here yesterday that "the Soviet Union is a peaceful country."

"I hope our visit here will contribute to a relaxation of tension, better mutual understanding and better relations," he added.

The British press eased off on its bitter criticism of the touring Russians and coupled front page stories of the subdued reception given the Rusians with editorials pointing out the importance of the high level talks.

Colorado Car Ban Ups Frosh Grades

Ann Weathers

LAST SEMESTER, an experiment began at the University of Colorado to ban freshmen from having cars while at the University. The idea was to see if the freshmen could bring up their grade average by removing the temptation of a handy car.

According to the dean of men, the banning of freshman cars has played a "significant part" in the .219 raise of freshman men grades this year. Big deal!

Tears and Biscuit-Dough Often Mingle in Foods 1

By JUDY WILLIAMS

TEARS AND biscuit-dough often mingle in Foods I class in Calvin food laboratory.

Out of all other foods prepared, biscuits always seem the hardest to make, Prof. Iva Mullen, one of four Foods I instructors, said.

Pie crusts, thought by many to be more difficult, turn out much better than the biscuits, she said.

THE GIRLS WORK in eight 2-girl kitchens decorated in soft spring colors that range from mint to bittersweet. Each girl must section a grapefruit, make custard, an omelet, a butter cake, pie crust, muffins, and biscuits, by herself.

During the first part of the course individual dishes are prepared and set out to be judged by the instructor. The last half of the semester each girl plans, prepares, and acts as hostess at a breakfast, lunch, and dinner for four. At each of these meals her partner plays the role of host and assists her. A critic who judges everything in the meal from conversation to skim on the cocoa is invited. The hostess also invites one guest for each meal.

NINETY CENTS is allowed each girl to use in breakfast for four; $1.15 for lunch; and $1.55 for dinner, Professor Mullen explained.

"Breakfast is the hardest meal to fix because it is the first one. The 'cooks' have a tendency to have things done and ready to serve before they should be," she said.

Under the tension of preparing meals some shaking things have happened to the young cooks.

"One girl several years ago couldn't get her ice cream to freeze until we discovered that she was turning an empty freezer," Professor Mullen said. "It seems that in her haste she left the ice cream mix setting on the cabinet."

WHILE THESE mishaps turn some girls to tears, others are undaunted by their mistakes. One girl, who accidentally put powdered sugar into her sponge cake instead of cake flour, took the hardened mass out of the oven, broke it up with the rolling pin, added some fruit and miscellaneous ingredients, and served it to her critic, guest, and host.

After the meal, the critic complimented her on 'a most unusual dessert'," Miss Mullen laughed.

LASTLY, the girls plan, prepare, and carry out together, a tea to which faculty and friends are invited.

This semester 90 girls are enrolled in Foods I. Teachers are professors Browning, McMillan, Schoneweis, and Mullen.

You Name It, This Machine Can Do It, MacCreary Says

By JOHN TOMS

YOU NAME IT, this machine can do it!"

These were the words of Frank MacCreary, games manager of the Student Union. He was speaking of the selectomatic record player in the Union's music room.

The machine is capable of starting or stopping electrical appliances 24 hours from the time it is set. It can also be used to "pipe" music to any building on the campus, MacCreary said.

THE $2,500 RECORD-player is a hybrid, he said. The Bird Music company converted the 3-year-old "Seeburg 78" to play 33⅓ r.p.m. records; because the music library contained that type records.

"There are few around like this one," MacCreary said. "We could get it only by special order."

"We used the nearest thing to polkadot paint, black Plextone, on the original maple finish," MacCreary said. Small pieces of metal in the compound give a finish the appearance of white on black to the machine.

MacCREARY SAID he sees no reason why "study music" can't be piped to the dormitories if the students want it.

"Oklahoma university reports that morale of the students towards studies has improved since the dorms and other organizations have used this service," he said. "We should have enough money ahead in another year to offer this service on our campus."

The machine has a capacity for 100 records, 50 more than an average machine, MacCreary said.

The only problem with the machine is a pickup noise when the gears select a record. It can be heard by critical ears, MacCreary said.

"IF IT DOESN'T improve, we'll replace the fiber conversion gears with chrome to eliminate the sound," MacCreary said.

Clanging of College Bell Quickens Staters' Paces

By ESTALEE VAN SICKLE

THE CLANGING of the College bell has quickened the paces of K-State students since 1882.

According to College records, the bell was first used at Bluemont Central college to signal the start and ending of classes. Its loud peals could be heard from five to six miles away. The September 1882, Industrialist said that in the morning, its ringing was "warranted in two strokes to lift a sleeping urchin ten feet from his bed.

Mr. Joseph Ingalls of Swampscott, Mass., donated $250 to buy the bell.

WHEN BLUEMONT college was transferred to the campus, the bell was placed on Mechanics hall.

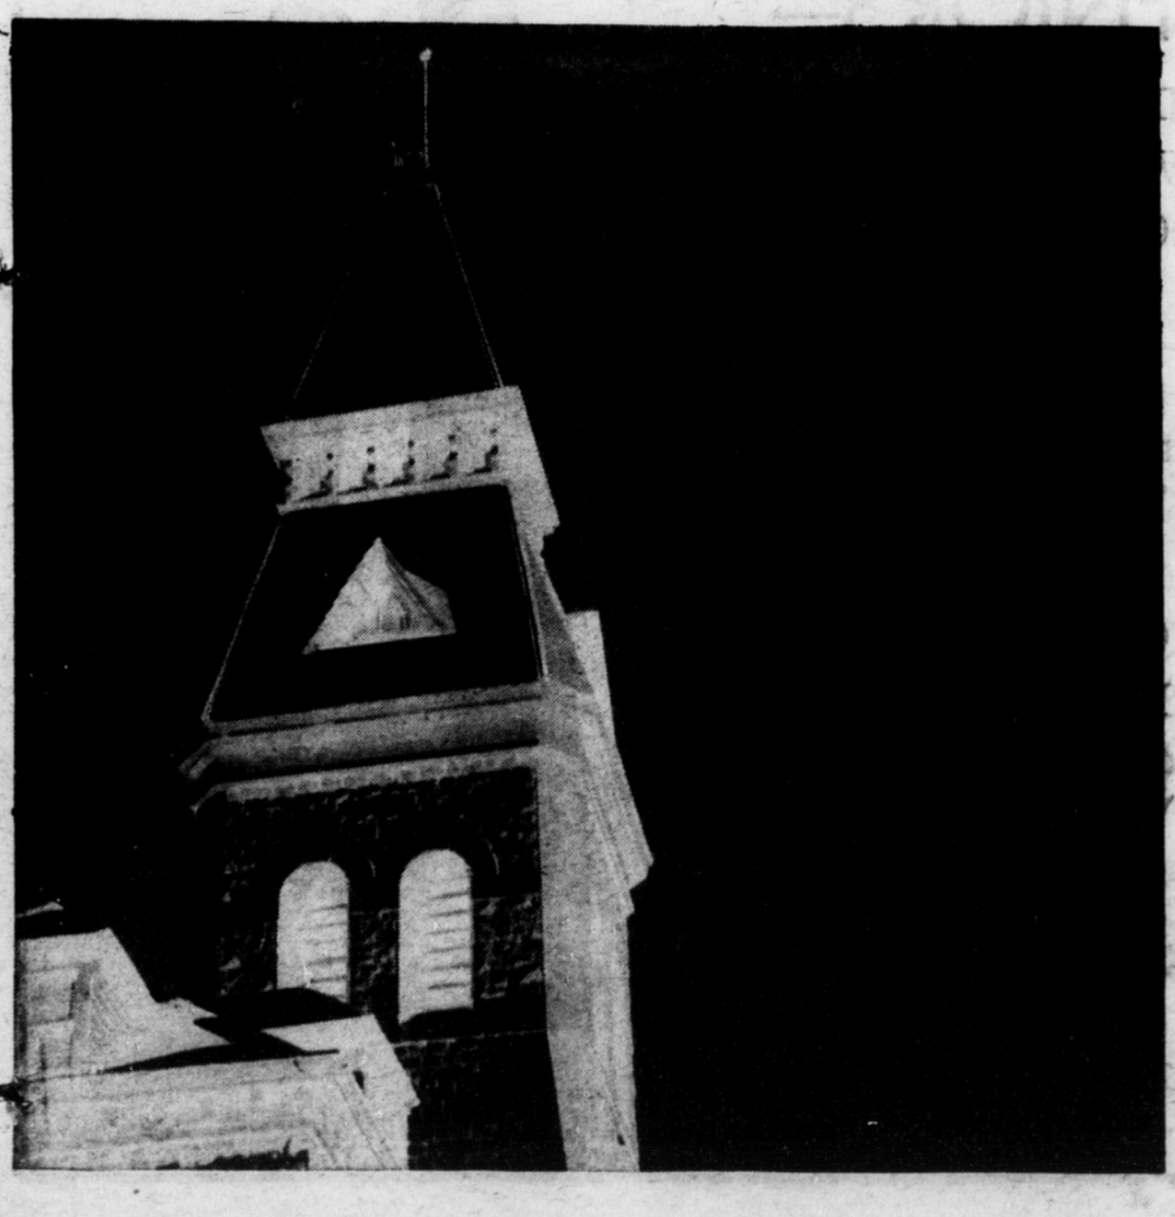

It was moved to its present location in the belfry in Anderson on September 5, 1882. Since then, the bell has been used continuously to mark time for major college activities. According to R. F. Gingrich, superintendent of the physical plant, it rings before 8 and 1 o'clock classes, before assemblies, and before graduational processions.

"It's not hard to ring, because once it starts swinging, it almost rings itself," says Herman Hackerott, an employee of the custodian department. Hackerott rings the 513-pound bell.

FROM A VANTAGE point 10 feet from the bell, Hackerott receives the full impact of its peals.

"It's so loud it is almost deafening," he said.

Records show, like many other college bells, it has been rung by unauthorized students. Once the clapper was taken by several sophomore students who wanted a text for their class book, "The Bell Clapper." Next morning, the bell was late, and had to be rung by pounding it with a hammer.

Wildcat Linksmen Lose to Jayhawks

K-State golfers bowed to KU linksmen 7-5 in a match at Lawrence yesterday.

The Cats won two of the four matches, but were outpointed by the Jayhawks, who were playing on their home course.

Sophomore Dave Smith (74) topped KU's Bob Richards (75), and Jerry Smith carded a 74 to top Jim Davies who shot a 78. Both Smiths outpointed their men 2½ to ½ to score K-State's only points.

In the other matches, Bob Saylor (KU) beat Dave Pfuetze 3-0, with Saylor carding a 76 to Pfuetze's 82, and Ed Magee (KU) beat Ron Young 3-0. Magee shot a 76 to Young's 80.

K-State will host the Oklahoma A&M golf team Friday in a non-conference game. The Oklahoma Aggies are expected to give a good account of themselves, according to Golf Coach Mickey Evans.

"Oklahoma should be pretty tough, they will probably be fourth or fifth in the nation this year," Evans said.

We have several boys that are pushing pretty hard for third and fourth positions on the team," he said.

"Hayes Walker and Max Richardson may see some action before the season ends," he said.

A change in the Cats' schedule has been announced by Coach Evans. The match with KU scheduled for May 11 will be played on the 12th. This is to allow the team to rest from the match at Missouri on May 10.

Yanks, Boston Score Wins

By United Press

The New York Yankees pounded out a 9-5 triumph over the Senators at Washington yesterday in winning their second game of the two-day-old 1956 major league baseball season.

The four run margin win made a total of 19 runs in two days against the hapless hurlers of Cholly Dressen.

Billy Martin drove in four runs as the Yanks bombarded five Washington pitchers in coasting to their win in the nation's capitol. Johnny Kucks was the victor although he needed relief help from Jim Konstanty.

The Boston Red Sox cashed in on a six run rally in the fifth inning in which 12 men came to bat to beat the Baltimore Orioles 8-4. Jim Piersall drove in two Boston runs in the big inning with a single and four other Boston batters batted in a run apiece.

In the only National league game played yesterday the New York Giants beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-4 on the strength of a ninth inning single by Willie May.

The Kansas City Athletics-Detroit Tigers game at Detroit was postponed because of cold weather.

Fishing Derby To Start In Manhattan Tomorrow

A Fishing Derby for the Manhattan area is scheduled to begin tomorrow and last through May 12, with about $150 in prizes to be awarded to winners in the various divisions.

The event is being sponsored by the K-State Conservation club in conjunction with the Riley County Fish and Game association. Prizes are being donated by several Manhattan merchants.

Prize lists and entry blanks can be obtained from Neil Scott or Fred Henley, co-chairman of the event.

To be eligible, all catches must be within a 50-mile radius of Manhattan and must be caught in accord with Kansas Fish and Game laws, according to Conservation club president Neil Scott.

The contest is open to all persons living in the 50-mile radius, including K-Staters and Fort Riley personnel.

K-State Bowlers To Compete In National Tourney

K-State's bowling team will compete in national championship bowling tonight at 8:30 on Student Union alleys 5 and 6.

The 6-man team, previously qualified in preliminary tryouts, will send scores recorded tonight to Washington university where they will be in competition with 41 other college team scores.

Recorded will be high team score, high team series score, high team single-game score, high individual series score, and high individual single-game score.

Five bowlers will pace the team in tonight's tournament, according to Pete Patchin, chairman of the union games committee. Pacers will be used to give the team a sense of competition, he said.

Tonight is the first of four scheduled meets. Next Friday the team will bowl at the KU Invitationals and meets are scheduled for Saturdays of the two following weeks.

Tonight's bowling tournament is sponsored by the Association of College Unions and handled through Washington university.

K-State's team are all experienced bowlers, Patchin said. "If the team has a good night, they stand a good chance of placing high enough for awards," he said. The team has been averaging a score of 175 a line per man, Patchin said.

The six regular team members competing tonight will be Bill Jardine, BA Soph; Roy Young, Psy Soph; Stuart Dworkin, PrV; Andy Sorkin, CE Fr; Max Shull, PrV Fr, and Jack Dorward, Soph transfer student from Nebraska.

Cat Baseball Hopes Rest on Sophomores

When Kansas State's baseball team jumps into Big Seven play Friday against Nebraska U. at Lincoln the Wildcats will be banking on sophomore infielders.

Wildcat coach Ray Wauthier has put together a starting lineup that contains only three lettermen from last year's team. With them he will use three sophomore infielders, two junior college transfers, and a letterman from 1954.

"Our hitting is definitely stronger than last season," Wauthier said. "Our defense is better too, particularly in the infield. And before the season is over we could develop some all-important pitching help."

"We are stronger for sure," Wauthier added, "but so is every other Big Seven team. Baseball is coming up fast in the conference—getting noticeably stronger every season. We have a big rebuilding job underway here at K-State. We'll be leaning on sophomores. Maybe they can't come through this season, but they might."

Hurt by lack of early-season games (two contests were rained out), the Cats will meet Nebraska with only three games behind them. They split a double-header with Wichita and won a single game from Memphis Naval Air Station.

Nine Cat Matmen To Get Letters

Nine K-State wrestlers will be awarded letters for their 1956 mat action, according to Fritz Knorr, Wildcat wrestling coach.

Bovinian Clubs Continue to Push Leaders

Kefauver Fans Get Caps

Coonskin caps will be the trademark of Kefauver backers for presidential candidate at the Mock political convention next week.

The senator from Tennessee is being backed by the recently organized Kefauver club. The club is printing posters, planning demonstrations, and planning a float using the coonskin cap for the theme.

One of Kefauver's major stands is in favoring integration in opposition to other Southern states' segregation policies.

Adlai Fans Set Platform

"Believe in Steve and do away with mental neuters," is one of the issues pushed by Stevenson club fans.

Illinois, Indiana, and Iowa are the states backing Adlai Stevenson in the Mock Political convention. They are for doing away with moral and religious vacuumized robots created by mass manipulation, and developing more distinctive personalities.

The club is planning a car wash for this aftenoon 12:30-5 p.m. to raise funds for campaign expenses.

College Operators Handle Thousand Calls Each Day

"Could you tell me the name of a professor about 6 feet tall, of average build, with dark wavy hair? He usually wears a grey flannel sports suit."

This is a sample of some of the calls received by the Kansas State college operator, according to Mrs. Al Venburg, supervisor of the College switchboard.

The College is now operating 575 business telephones. Probably the busiest phones are those in the new Union, she said. Other busy phones are those in the comptroller's office, the registrar's office, and student personnel offices.

Nineteen lines are available for the placement of calls. Eleven are used for city calls, and seven for long distance. One is a direct connection to Topeka and KU and is used for official business. Approximately 1,000 calls are handled per day, Mrs. Venburg said.

Although student directories are distributed to all the students, only about one-third of those placing calls give the number.

The office is located on the second floor of the Power Plant and provides employment for two part-time and two full-time operators. They work from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. on week days and from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. on weekends. Emergency service is available for the other hours, but not by regular operators, Mrs. Venburg said.

Candidate Clubs In Rally Tonight

A political rally is planned this evening to give Mock Political Convention candidate clubs an opportunity to present a summary of their candidates' views.

It will begin on the east side of Anderson hall at 7 p.m. and an hour later move on in front of the dormitories.

It was the first time in the 15-year history of the group that the president of the group was elected from the same school as his predecessor.

At the convention Dr. Forrest J. Whan, head of the radio section of the department of speech, was elected an honorary member of the student organization for his work in the field of radio and TV.

Explosion Rocks Mine; Four Workers Trapped

By HARRY MACHIN JR.

SUNNYSIDE, UTAH (U.P.)—Rescue crews struggled all night in the dim, cramped quarters of a caved-in mine in an attempt to reach four men trapped under tons of coal and rock by an internal mine explosion.

Veteran miners worked in relays inside the No. 2 mine of the Kaiser Steel company yesterday when an abrupt compression of mine gases rocked floors and walls of the cavern like an earthquake.

An official directing the rescue efforts said there was small chance the men would be found alive.

Three of a seven man crew ran to safety when the rumbles signaled the cave-in.

Luce, Johnson Backers Battle At Political Convention Rally

DOESN'T SOUND SO GOOD—A group of Claire Booth Luce supporters crowd around a Lyndon Johnson for president loudspeaker seemingly unimpressed with the speil being delivered by Tom Bowman (in car). This group and others gathered in front of Anderson last night for a spontaneous rally for various candidates for president, one of whom will be nominated at the Mock Political Convention, Monday and Tuesday.

"When Luce Goes Marching In" and "The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You" were competing songs last night as students gathered on the lawn east of Anderson hall in a rally concerning Mock Political Convention activities.

The rally gathered momentum as students came from all over the campus to participate. Johnson supporters circled the Luce group which was parading and singing for her.

Even a brass band took part in the rally by leading students through the Union.

Impromptu speeches were made by supporters. "A woman's place is in the home," opponents of Clare Booth Luce supporters responded to cries of "We want Luce."

Kay Eplee, Clo Fr, who climbed on the bumper of a car to make a speech for Luce, was interrupted by Jerry Thies, Ent Soph.

"And who's supplying the timber for that sign you're carrying, Washington and Senator Wayne Morse?"

The rally led by the band moved from the lawn to the Union where it finally disbanded.

Do we want Luce? Do we want to be united? Do we want to be free from the South's domination?" Miss Eplee asked the crowd. "No," answered Johnson supporters, but their voices were soon drowned out by the Luce supporters.

David Nuttle, AH Soph, was boosted to the shoulders of Johnson supporters. In a Southern drawl he spoke about the merits of his candidate.

A snake dance, parade, band, and speeches highlighted the rally.

Politics Are Noble, Columnist Asserts

People who degrade politics as a profession are risking not only their own necks but the necks of everyone, said Doris Fleeson, Washington journalist for the United Features.

"Politics is not a dirty business but the foundation for the success of the Democracy. The South has given some of the finest politicians to the nation because they respect their political leaders and consider politics a fine and noble profession.

Miss Fleeson advised the audience to keep their eyes on politicians and watch all political happenings. In this way the American people can remain well-informed and be able to make firm decisions on political matters.

It is her job, along with all journalists, to keep the public well-informed. "I do not think that anything is more important today than the recording of the news. We have learned that the mere citing of fact is not quite enough anymore." There must always be a place for the people to read about the news and to form opinions, she added.

Kansas State's Oldest Alumnus Died Yesterday

Mrs. Nellie Sawyer Kedzie Jones, 1876 K-State graduate, died yesterday at her home in Madison, Wis.

Mrs. Kedzie Jones, who was K-State's oldest living graduate, was prominent in the early history of the School of Home Economics, which is one of the oldest in the world.

After her first husband, Prof. Robert F. Kedzie, died, Mrs. Kedzie married Rev. Howard M. Jones and continued her work in home economics.

Much of the appropriation for Kedzie hall was obtained through Mrs. Kedzie Jones' help. It was the first building built in this country for the sole use of home economics departments.

SGA Elections To End Today

More than 1,000 students voted yesterday in the SGA elections, according to Bill Johnson, election committee chairman.

Polls will be open until 5 p.m. today in Anderson, Calvin, Veterinary, Seaton, Eisenhower, and Waters halls.

Students must present their activity tickets in order to vote.

Eisenhower, Johnson, Stevenson Seem To Be Front-Runners For Bovinian Presidential Nomination in Mock Convention

By LANCE GILMORE

WITH THE AIR clearing only slightly after last night's numerous smoke-filled conferences, the Dwight Eisenhower, Lyndon Johnson, and Adlai Stevenson groups appear to be front-runners for the Bovinian party Presidential nomination on campus.

Deals and more deals complicated the picture as candidates jockeyed for delegate strength for the Mock Political convention to be in Ahearn Field House Monday and Tuesday.

Pat Roberts, TJ Soph, and coordinator of the candidate clubs, concurred that Ike, Lyndon, and Adlai seem to be the big three at the moment.

"I FEEL THAT it is almost definite the nominee will come from one of these three men," Roberts said.

Many of the candidate clubs met last night to rally support for their man. The big question mark in both camps was who the club would support for the vice-presidential nomination. Groups were hesitant to name any definite delegate strength because they were still trying to agree on a running mate that would bring strong delegate support.

The Eisenhower group seems to be split at the moment on whether to support Richard Nixon as previously planned, or try to run Clare Booth Luce as Ike's partner. Luce might assure them of a 96-delegate bloc from New York. There was also an implication that the Luce suporters had formed a coalition and brought their strength to nearly 200, which would make them highly sought after as a vice-presidential affiliate.

LYNDON JOHNSON'S camp was mum on its present strength but stressed that Johnson is definitely running as a presidential candidate and is not considering a vice-presidential nomination. One estimate outside the Johnson group placed his strength at nearly 400 delegates.

The Stevenson group also was silent on its present delegate strength, and as did all other candidate clubs, went on record as endorsing its candidate's views in actual politics.

There are nearly 20 groups supporting favorite son candidates. It is expected that these will switch over to the top-running candidates after the first or second ballot at the convention Monday and Tuesday. Who the bulk of these votes will switch to is only speculation but might well determine the eventual nominee.

THESE FAVORITE son and darkhorse groups are supporting such men as Estes Kefauver, Stuart Symington, "Soapy" Williams, Wayne Morse (presently supported by an 80 to 90 vote coalition), Thomas Dewey, and numerous others.

"The Mock Political convention is aimed at giving the student body a look at politics in action and showing students how they can make their weight felt in political affairs," Mel Baughman, temporary chairman of the convention, said.

The first concrete action for the formation of the convention came in December when its founder formed an executive committee and apointed subcommittees. They had weekly meetings and the convention evolved to its present state, according to Baughman.

Hospitality Day Invitation

ONCE EACH YEAR it is our privilege to extend an invitation to all K-State students and faculty, high school students, and other guests to participate in our Home Economics Hospitality day. A great deal of planning has gone into the preparations for our 26th annual open house.

The exhibits and program have been designed to better acquaint you with the type of work done in home economics. We hope you will take this opportunity to learn more about our theme, "Home Economics Campaigns for Better Living," and why we feel it is appropriate.

A SPECIAL invitation has been extended to K-State students from other countries, and to the high school girls in Kansas to attend this event.

Our thanks go to all those people who have helped to assure the success of this year's Hospitality Day.

Comments— Wise and Otherwise

SOONER OR LATER, I keep telling myself, someone is bound to replace the recordings on the record machines in the Union. It's practically a cinch—the law of averages are all in favor of it.

●

WHILE ON THE subject of the Union, a pat on the roof for its acoustical qualities seems appropriate.

For instance, not long ago two groups were living it up in the Union ballroom. The ballroom had been divided into two sections by the simple expedient of closing the folding doors.

One group was in the midst of a dignified ceremony, the other group was dancing. That's where the excellent acoustics entered the picture.

The first group's ceremony was enriched by the strains of "Rock Around the Clock," which were coming in loud and clear from the next room.

●

THIS LITTLE story was considered unfit for use on the society page, but it seemed too good to throw away so it naturally ended up in this column. Only the names have been changed to prevent angering anyone.

"Coffee was served at the Tau Tau Tau house last Sunday. Charley Dunkle and Alvin Apfelsaft poured."

Well!

●

BUT THAT STORY was about as important as this one, which got top play in most dailies this morning:

"Their serene highnesses, Prince Rainier and Princess Grace, sailed highly unserene Mediterranean seas to his hideaway at Cape Ferrat Thursday to spend the first portion of a month's honeymoon."

I'm impressed.

●

COMMENCEMENT commences early for members of the K-State Dames club. The poor Dames, who have scrubbed floors, washed clothes, babysat, worked in offices—and brought home paychecks—will be awarding their PhS degrees.

PhS, translated into the vernacular, means "Putting Hubby Through School."

●

A NOTE FOR sports fans. This simple formula, if computed accurately, is said to be sure-fire for figuring who will win the big-league pennant races.

Here it is:

$$\frac{B - ESnETn - NETnSn}{(ETn)z - NETn^{L}}$$

$$\frac{A = ESn - BETn}{N}$$

$$Sn + 1 = A + BTn + 1$$

According to it, Detroit will win the American League race, Brooklyn the National race.

Ike May Beat Adlai Before Election

By UNITED PRESS

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower had to await election day to defeat Adlai E. Stevenson in 1952. He may lick Stevenson this year in the Democratic national convention.

The way some political experts see it is like this:

Mr. Eisenhower has borrowed heavily from some parts of the Roosevelt and Truman deals to construct the foundation of his own administration's policy.

IN WELFARE legislation there isn't a great deal of difference between Mr. Eisenhower's approach and the approach of his immediate predecessors. This is true in the fields of minimum wages, school subsidies, social security, farm subsidies and such, somewhat less so with respect to public housing. On farm subsidies, for example, the difference between the administration and the Democrats was less how than how much.

Mr. Eisenhower has been moving the Republican party at least to the middle of the road on such matters and, perhaps, a bit to the left of center. Stevenson has been moving in the other direction. Stevenson announced his intention to seek renomination last autumn and followed up with a speech in which he said:

"It is a time for catching our breath. Moderation is the spirit of the times."

Profits from "Fun for Funds," Union dance scheduled for tomorrow evening, will go to the United Drive fund, according to Conrad Smith, Union dance committee head.

Matt Betton and his orchestra will provide music for the "stag-drag" affair. It will be in ballrooms A and B from 9 p.m. until midnight. Dress is casual.

Political Campaign Theme Highlights Hospitality Day

The atmosphere of a political convention will dominate Hospitality Day tomorrow, carrying out the theme, "Home Economics Campaigns for Better Living."

Elephants and donkeys will decorate the colored name badges each visiting high school girl will receive.

Nearly two thousand girls are expected to register in the Student Union lobby between 7:30 and 9 a.m., said Delaine Smith, HEA Sr, general chairman.

Colored "convention banners" will decorate the auditorium for the opening assembly at 9 a.m. Each girl will sit under the banner of the color she is assigned at registration.

"Carmen Coed," the winning Y-Orpheum skit by Alpha Delta Pi, will be presented at the assembly. Doretta S. Hoffman, dean of the School of Home Economics, and Delaine Smith will welcome the visitors.

The varsity cheerleaders will teach the girls K-State cheers. Shirley Suderman, HDA Jr, will lead group singing.

"The exhibits are open to the public, and can be visited any time between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.," said exhibits chairman Gavona Michaels, HT Jr. Elephant-shaped signs will point the way.

The Tau Kappa Epsilon quartet and an acrobatic act will entertain the girls at a box lunch in Nichols gymnasium between 12 and 1 p.m., said program chairman Phyllis Randels, DIM Sr.

"High school girls will have time to tour the exhibits and the campus between 1 and 2 p.m.," Miss Smith said.

Each girl may vote for her favorite exhibit on a ballot given her at the fashion show from 3 to 4 p.m. The first place exhibit will be announced.

Home Ec Council Guides Eight Departmental Clubs

Hospitality Day and the Snowball dance are the main events sponsored by the Home Economics council, which is the coordinating body of eight small departmental clubs.

Presidents of the eight departmental clubs and three elected officers make up the Council. Kathy Burns, HT Sr, is president; Gavona Michaels, HT Jr, is vice-president; and Jeanette Fry, DIM Sr, is secretary-treasurer.

The Home Economics-Teaching club plans to decorate the wards at Fort Riley hospital this month. Besides donating food baskets to needy families at Christmas and Thanksgiving, members held a weiner roast in the fall.

Martha Helmers, HT Sr, is president of the club, which is the largest of the eight.

The Home Economics-Art club sponsored the art exhibit for the Student Union opening and plans another exhibit for April 30 to May 7.

Members headed by president Delaine Smith, HEA Sr, sold student-designed Christmas cards and decorated for the Snowball, annual home economics dance.

The Home Economics Journalism club tours the Manhattan Mercury office and radio station KMAN each year. Women in various fields of journalism speak at monthly meetings. Gaye Fryer, HEJ Jr, is president.

The Clothing and Retailing club is sponsoring the Hospitality Day fashion show tomorrow. Members gave a radio program on club activities last month and plan a picnic in May. Marjory Bearg, Clo Jr, is president.

Home Economics-Nursing club members took a field trip to the KU medical center in Kansas City, where nursing students spend two and one-half years.

Club president Liz Grimble, HEN Soph, arranged a tour of Riley County hospital. Staff members from KU medical center speak at club meetings.

Dietetics and Commercial Demonstration club members enjoyed a dinner featuring foods from foreign countries this fall. A trip through the kitchens at Fort Riley was another highlight.

A hobo-style picnic is planned for May. Jan Boster, DIM Sr, is president.

Extension club members sold cookies in Anderson and Waters halls last month to raise money for a gift to the proposed home economics building. The girls, headed by Ardella Rusk, HDA Sr, plan a picnic in May.

Child Welfare club members help children with creative activities in Manhattan's Saturday recreation program. Members sometimes care for children whose parents are at church meetings. Betty Straub, ChW Sr, is president.

Odds Say 'No' But 3 Miners Escape Death

SUNNYSIDE, UTAH (U.P.)—Three Utah miners—tired and hungry—came "back to life" today from the coal-walled cavern two miles inside the Kaiser No. 2 mine here where they had been trapped by a cave-in Wednesday and once "given up as dead."

Luck—experts said the odds were "a million to one"—was with Lavell M. Golding, Lloyd A. Heath and Joseph A. Archuletta. Attendants at the hospital where they were taken after their ordeals of 38 to 42 hours said they were "okay and in good spirits."

As the three survivors came out, their section foreman—Joe Otterstrom, 58-year-old father of seven children—was still "missing."

Yesterday afternoon, rescue workers were so convinced that hope for all four was gone that they used dynamite to fight their way into the clogged entry.

Families of the entombed men had left the Sunnyside tunnel portals and gone home to prepare memorial services—or await recovery of the bodies.

Sewing, Millinery Classes Are Start of HEc School

By SHARI SHELLENBERGER

Sewing and millinery classes in 1873 were the first to be offered in the K-State home economics curriculum. They were taught in the chapel of Bluemont building, the original home of Kansas State college, located on Bluemont Hill.

Mrs. H. C. Cheseldine became the first K-State home economics instructor in 1873, and taught three classes in sewing, millinery, and dressmaking. Recognized as the "head of the sewing department," Mrs. Cheseldine was replaced in 1875 by Mrs. Mary Crips, whose title was teacher of household economics, hygiene, and superintendent of sewing.

The old chemistry building was the first on the present campus to house home economics classes. According to the College catalogue for 1875, a kitchen laboratory was opened in the chemistry building, and students were "instructed in household economics by lecture and kitchen practice."

In 18882 Nellie Sawyer Kedzie became instructor in the department, and in 1884 the faculty was increased to two members by the addition of a sewing instructor.

Largely through the efforts of Mrs. Kedzie, the legislature appropriated $16,000 for the erection of a building "for work in domestic economy." In that year Kedzie hall, which now houses the journalism department, became the first building in the nation provided wholly for work in home economics.

"Household economics" became one of the four separate curriculums of the College in 1897. (The other three were agriculture, engineering, and general.)

In 1897 Mrs. Helen Campbell succeeded Mrs. Kedzie, and became superintendent of the domestic science department. Under her direction, facilities were placed in the basement of Kedzie to serve lunches, at 10 cents each, to students and faculty members, and to provide practice for home economics students.

Mrs. Henrietta Calvin became head of the department in 1901, and resigned in 1908, the same year in which Calvin hall was built at the cost of $70,000 to house the home economics department.

Also in 1908 Mary Pierce Van Zile became both head of the home economics department and Dean of Women. President Nichols appointed the departments of domestic art, domestic science, and physical training for women to come under Dean Van Zile.

The College was formally organized in definite divisions in 1912 under President Waters, and Dean Van Zile, responsible for continuing the work in home economics, was made dean of the home economics division.

A cafeteria was organized on the first floor of Kedzie in 1915 to provide instruction in institutional management.

A department of "emergency home demonstration agents" was formed in 1917, and by the next year the College Extension division had employed a state director and ten assistants for work in home economics.

In 1918 Dean Van Zile concentrated completely on the office of Dean of Women, and Dr. Helen B. Thompson became head of the division of home economics. Under Dr. Thompson, the division was divided into two departments (domestic art and domestic science), home economics instructors received better salaries, and electives in various home economics classes were introduced.

Margaret M. Justin became Dean in 1923, and under her guidance a home economics "Open House" was inaugurated in 1931. The open house featured departmental exhibits, contests among high school girls, a tea, and a banquet.

The event became "Hospitality Week" in 1932, and in 1937 was changed to "Hospitality Days."

Dean Justin served as dean of the School of Home Economics until 1954. She was succeeded by Dr. Doretta M. Hoffman, who is presently serving her second year as dean.

Child Care Program Shown by Mannikins

A live guinea pig named Clara and three life-sized mannikins will occupy a model of the child development lab in Calvin 208 for Hospitality Day.

The child mannikins will illustrate finger painting, modeling with clay, and other activities typical at the actual child development lab at 314 North 14th where girls in child development courses work with real children.

"Clara, who is expecting, is used to teach the children science and the care of pets," said exhibit chairman Phyllis Evans, ChW Sr.

A typical family scene with father mannikin reading, mother and sister mannikin cooking, and little brother mannikin playing blocks will be in the other half of Ca 208.

Exhibit hostesses headed by Kathy Barton, ChW Jr, will explain the department courses and the activities in the child development laboratory.

The department courses will be listed under the slogan "Department of Family and Child Development Campaigns for Better Living." Booklets explaining the curriculum will be distributed.

Convention Parade To Be Tomorrow

Beginning tomorrow at 10 a.m. in the student parking lot, a parade of floats and convertibles will move down through Aggieville and into the city park as part of the mock political convention.

The floats will be made by the 48 delegations, some combined, and will be judged for the best and second best.

The rules of the contest are that each float shall be no bigger than a pickup and be pulled by a car or pickup.

Dances, Songs Will Entertain At Box Lunch

The Tau Kappa Epsilon quartet will serenade high school girls at a Hospitality Day box lunch in Nichols gymnasium tomorrow.

Master of ceremonies Barbara Winter, HEc Sr, plans to interview several visitors to find out which exhibit is most popular.

Barabra Duncan, Eng Soph, and Dixie Roberts, HEA Soph, will sing "Blue Moon" and "Yours."

An acrobatic dance by Linnea Brown, ArE Soph, will close the program.

Nightclub Features Dancers, Drummer

"Broadway Highlights" will be the floor show attraction tonight at 10:30 p.m. in the Union nightclub.

The nightclub will open at 9 and remain open until 12 for dancing. Music will be furnished by the Dream Airs from Junction City.

Allen Swings Again At 'Knights of Purity'

Kansas City, Kan. (U.P.)—Dr. Forrest C. (Phog) Allen swung again today at the national AAU, and along with it warned against excessive optimism over U.S. chances in the Olympic basketball championships in Australia.

Allen, who is retiring as head basketball coach at the University of Kansas, said there was no "greater asininity" than assuming the United States basketball team would go to Melbourne on the $15 a day allowed each player by AAU rules.

Allen's new blast at the AAU, his prime target, charged the group should change its name, since "it's not amateur, not athletic, and not a union."

Cardinals Sign Hilliard

Chicago, (U.P.)—A former Kansas State guard, Bob Hilliard, was signed yesterday by the Chicago Cardinals for the 1956 National Football league season.

Managing director Walter Wolfner said Hilliard, from Kenosha, Wis., was recommended by the Cards' veteran defensive end, Tom Bienemann.

By DON MILLER

Defending 400-meter hurdles champion Gene O'Connor will compete in the annual Kansas Relays tomorrow along with 13 of his teammates.

The Wildcats, who are entered in 12 events, have already competed in three major multi-team relays at Oklahoma A&M, Texas, and Southwest Louisiana, and will compete in two others later this season.

O'Cononr's only 400-meter hurdle loss was to Fort Hays State's Don Dwyer in the 1955 Missouri Valley AAU. He reversed that finish by beating Dwyer in the meet record time of 53.4 at the Aggie Preview March 26.

Coach Ward Haylett said he also expects good results from hurdler Ray Russell, who finished second at Lawrence last year in intermediate hurdles. Russell and O'Connor will not be without competition, however.

Dwyer, of course, will be there along with 1954 400-meter Kansas Relays champion, Jay Chance of Oklahoma Baptist. Compton California's Willie Atterberry and Rice's Roy Thompson will also be on hand to offer competition.

Wildcat polevaulter Paul Miller served notice he was to be reckoned with when he set a new varsity record of 14-2¾ at the Colorado invitationals earlier this year. Karl Lindenmuth will give K-State added strength in the polevault, Haylett said. Lindenmuth, a sophomore, tied for 1st at Louisiana with a mark of 13-6 and according to Haylett is capable of 14 feet.

Joe Powell, cager turned trackman, is entered in the javelin and high-jump, Jim Delker also in the high-jump, and Ralph Willard in the javelin and shot put.

Kenny Nesmith and Ray Beikman are broad-jumpers and Mike Cornett is entered in the 120-yard high hurdles, Haylett said. Ray Fritzmeyer will throw the discus for the Wildcats.

K-State's sprint medley team, composed of O'Connor, Henry Renollet, Marvin Chiles, and Dolan McDaniel, will offer some competition in the meet, Haylett said. Chiles and McDaniel are also entered in the open 100-yard dash, he said.

"We have good depth in the distance and sprint medleys, but we lack over-all balance," Haylett said.

Four Basketball Powers On Cats' 1956-57 Slate

Big Duel!

Chisox Top Indians 1-0; Shantz Shines for A's

Into that very special niche reserved for classic pitching duels went the memorable battle of Jack Harshman and Herb Score today, and despite the tingling tenseness of the double two-hitter, the White Sox lefty figured all the way to beat Cleveland's sophomore southpaw.

Last year, when Harshman won 11 games for the season, five of his victories were over the Indians and each was a standout performance. And Score, who won rookie of the year honors with 16 victories, lost three times to the White Sox. There were only two clubs, the White Sox and Yankees, that he didn't beat. In his 1955 triumphs over Cleveland, Harshman never yielded more than two runs and he had a three-hitter, a four-hitter, and three five-hit jobs. On two other occasions he was beaten, being kayoed early.

In Thursday's battle Score had visions of a no-hitter, even after Chicago scored the only run of the game in the seventh on a walk to Minnie Minoso, a two-base wild pitch, and Larry Doby's sacrifice fly. It wasn't until the eighth, when Walt Dropo opened with a single, that the spell was broken. Luis Aparicio followed with another single and that was it.

Oddly, the two hits yielded by Harshman also were in succession to Bobby Avila and Al Smith in the fourth. No runner got beyond second. Harshman struck out five, walked only two. Score struck out 10 but walked five.

There was fine pitching elsewhere in the American League. At Detroit Bobby Shantz, another lefty, gave Kansas City a heartening performance when he held the Tigers to five hits and a 4-1 triumph that indicated his arm is sound again.

Young Tom Brewer two-hitted the Orioles at Boston in a 4-2 triumph and Chuck Stobbs, one of two pitchers left on the Washington roster who beat the Yankees last season, turned in a seven-hit 7-3 win over them.

But it was mainly a hitter's day in the National, especially at Cincinnati where there were eight homers in a 10-inning 10-9 triumph for the Redlegs over St. Louis. The Dodgers pounded out a 5-4 come-from-behind triumph over the Phillies in 10 innings at Jersey City and the Pirates edged the Giants, 3-2. Bob Buhl pitched Milwaukee to a 3-1 triumph over Chicago.

First Home Baseball To Be Next Friday

K-State athletes have a full slate in spring sports next week with ten events on tap.

Baseball tops the list with four Big Seven games on the slate. The diamond crew travels to Lawrence to meet KU in a two game series Monday and Tuesday.

The home baseball season will open Friday and Saturday when the Wildcats host Missouri. Both teams are undefeated in non-conference play.

The track team is entered in both the Drake and Colorado relays Friday and Saturday. The squad will probably be split to compete in both meets.

Golf and tennis teams have a full weekend with matches scheduled for Friday and Saturday, both at home.

The linksmen will play the Iowa State golf team Friday and tee off against Omaha Saturday.

The tennis teams also play Iowa State Friday and Omaha Saturday.

Sportsmen Impressed With Grace's Wedding

By OSCAR FRALEY

New York (U.P.)—The sports world, dewy-eyed and devastatingly emotional, wrung out its red bandannas today and settled almost back to normal in the wake of the Grace Kelly-Prince Ranier wedding.

Of course, it will be a while before they all fall into stride. As the boxing guys allowed, as result of the various investigations, "This thing shook us up pretty good."

So here are some of the sporting quotes, and slightly paraphrased quotes, on the trans-Atlantic Philadelphia story:

Yogi Berra: "I sincerely hope that nobody infers any Freudian overtones, but to me this is a modern conquest for eros in what unquestionably is a veritable present-day repetition of the classic of Tristan and Isolde."

Mickey Mantle: "Ugh!"

Duke Snider: "For some reason or other, I never received an invitation."

King Clancy: "Me neider."

Lou Little: "You might not win as many titles, but you can make more ground with the Statue of Liberty play."

Philadelphia Phillies: "We wish everybody would come back home while we're still in the first division."

Moe Berg: "Tou jours, loch heim and on those tables the visiting team doesn't have a chance."

Sam Snead: "Them thar mountains shore would be a fine place for a feller to bury his tomato cans."

Eddie Arcaro: "A boat race, pure and simple."

Gorgeous George: "Weren't the clothes simply devine?"

Casey Stengel: "Well, one time in Kaycee, there was this here feller, and in Boston another guy named Kelly won the marathon, so whatta ya gonna do with two on base and nobody out? So why not?"

Canada Invites Landy To Run

John Landy, the world's mile record holder, has been invited to compete in Vancouver in May by the British Columbia Olympic and British Empire Games association.

R. F. Osborne, secretary of the association said there was a possibility that Landy might be able to compete in the annual sports day May 25. He added that an earlier date will be arranged if Landy is unable to make it for the sports day.

This is a Lunch?

Des Moines, Iowa (U.P.)—The Iowa employment security commission ruled yesterday that mice and snakes in a worker's lunch are not grounds for unemployment compensation.

Worker Allen A. Rodenberg, of Spencer, Iowa, said he quit because he found a live mouse and a dead mouse in his bucket and a garter snake curled around his lunch.

Political Theme To Be Used In Hospitality Style Show

Candidates for the best-liked fashions will be nominated by high schol girls from over the state when they attend the Hospitality Day style show Saturday.

The style show, modeled after the Mock Political Convention, will feature fashions designed and modeled by home economics majors, according to Sandra Mueller, Clo Jr, chairman.

The show will be narrated supposedly by a mouse listening in on the convention and relating what he sees to the girls. Joyce Lester, FdN Jr, will imitate the mouse.

Fashions for formal wear, night wear, sports wear, class wear, church, and afternoon teas will be modeled by the girls. They will carry convention signs carrying out the theme of voting and selecting favorite fashions.

The dress which Joyce Cheatham, HT Jr, will model was inspired by the movie, "Love Is a Many-Splendored Thing." The Chinese sheath dress has a black luminous background behind red brocade.

Betty Winkley, HT Jr, will model a suit which she made in applied dress design. The black hip-length jacket and pencil-slim skirt were inspired by a design in a French magazine.

Candy-striped shortie flannel pajamas with bloomers to match will be modeled by Connie Benjamin, HEN Sr.

Maurine Schrag, Clo Soph, will model a Pendleton-style jacket and skirt which she designed in fundamentals of clothing. Fashioned for either spring or fall days, the jacket is made of a Botany wool fleece plaid matched with a wool heather skirt. She will wear a dark red sweater and a strand of poppit pearls.

Joyce Rust, HEc Soph, will model a full-length beige formal. The top layer of the skirt is shirred into long scallops to give it a bell-shaped appearance. Four layers of taffeta, horsehair, and tulle are underneath the scalloped layer.

Many different colored toppers can be worn with the navy, yellow, and green plaid slacks which Judy Hopp, HEB Fr, will model. She has chosen a navy jersey blouse with three-quarter length sleeves to wear with the washable slacks.

Barbara Lowe, FdN Fr, made the red and black plaid skirt she will wear. She will also model a black turtle neck sweater.

The K-State Singers will sing during intermission, and K-State Players will assist with the lighting.

You'll be pleased with a Collegian want ad.

'Mugwump' Shirts Vie For Top Fashion Vote

By MARY BECKMEYER

"Mugwump" shirts are on the ballot this spring to collect votes of approval. They offer new all-college and progressive fashion ideas in men's wear and should be purchased with integrity.

These shirts are not for the political mugwump who cannot decide on which side of the fence to leap, but for the fellow who cannot decide whether he wants stripes, checks, plaids or solids.

These sport shirts remove all need for personal decision because two or more patterns are combined in one shirt.

Bold stripes are halved with solid colors to form one style. Plaids and checks combine in the Mugwump shirt to make stripes.

Substantial evidence is building up for the case of the bold sport shirt. Out of circulation for some time, it now appears to be staging a comeback. A realistic view on sport shirts is that no one type does the job; it takes a variety to meet all occasions. Louder patterns are this season's contribution to the sport shirt wardrobe.

Plaids and checks in chicken-wire patterns of all sizes are popular, proving sport shirt fashions are louder than ever this spring.

In contrast to the novel Mugwump shirt, there is a fantasy collection of Far East sportswear. Shirt designs feature the subtle feeling for the flair and flavor of all the world from Honolulu to the Himalayas. Celanese acetate gives the Far East collection of subtle luster and lightness of authentic pongee.

Perma-pressed cottons which are wrinkle-resistant and need little or no ironing are the favorite fabrics for sport shirts.

Geometric prints on fine Egyptian cotton are also a top seller among shirts.

Shirt designers can assure even the Mugwump that every sport shirt will be a winner if it is novel, realistic and bold. With such a wide selection of shirts this spring's fashions sounds like a golden opportunity for the "dark horse" shirts hidden in college men's closets.

LDS Traces Family Trees

Someday you may be able to find out who your ancestors were by going to a historical library and tracing your family tree.

This is being made possible by the church of the Latter Day Saints. The members are making a study, called genealogy, of the data on the tombstones in cemeteries of the United States, according to Jay Peterson, VM Jr, chairman of the Manhattan Genealogical committee.

In the study, each committee records the data from the cemeteries in a district, which usually includes about five counties. This data is sent to Wichita, which is the center of the central Kansas area. There it is compiled, and on the completion of a county, a book is made on the data from that county.

These books will be sent to historical and genealogical libraries around the U.S. One copy will be sent to the LDS library in Salt Lake City.

These books will be available to anyone interested in this sort of thing.

"The main reason we are interested in this study is because we believe one must be baptized to be accepted in the kingdom of heaven. Therefore, we are interested in tracing our ancestors back, thus to do the work by proxy for those who didn't have the opportunity for baptism," Peterson said.

Peterson said the cemeteries they are most interested in are the old ones or the small ones that are not well kept up, and others that may be neglected or covered up by new construction.

"The cemeteries we are particularly interested in now are the ones that will be covered with water when Tuttle Creek dam is completed," he said.

RWF Banquet To Be Saturday

Plenty of Home Ec Jobs Are Available to Grads

College graduates in the field of home economics should have little difficulty in locating jobs as there is a far greater number of job openings than there are people to fill them.

In the field of home economics and teaching there are still plenty of job openings left, according to Chester Peters of the Placement bureau. As of now the bureau has records of about 75 unfilled home economics and teaching jobs. About 50 more such jobs should be available before school is out this spring, Peters said.

In the field of child welfare the job openings far outnumber the number of graduates available to fill them, according to Mrs. Louise Langford, professor in family and child development.

Child welfare job openings include such possibilities as work in both physical and mental health centers, pediatrics, kindergarten and other teaching, private and cooperative day care centers, college teaching, parent education, and other social work.

Clothing retail majors may usually find jobs along such lines as research in clothing, the business side of clothing retailing, demonstrating clothing in stores, fashion coordinating, buying clothing for firms, and actual designing of clothing.

Art and home economics offers several job openings. Among the many possibilities are fashion illustrating and advertising work. Here, too the job openings outnumber the applicants.

Household equipment work is an up and coming field according to Richard Morse, head of the household equipment department.

Those interested in the household equipment line may find jobs in budget consulting, demonstration work in service companies, meat packing companies, home management supervision work in colleges, and teaching on the college level.

Foods and nutrition job openings are not difficult to find at this time according to Dorothy L. Harrison, head of the foods and nutrition department.

Job possibilities here include business jobs, work in electric companies, home service demonstration work, recipe development, commercial work for food companies, test kitchen work, research laboratory jobs and many others.

Home demonstration agent jobs are available for the home economics major interested in this type of work.

Another home economics field is home economics and journalism. In addition to job possibilities in the fields described, writing jobs may also be secured in connection with most of them.

HE's Ballot for Council Officers

Voting for officers of the Home Economics Council will end today at 5 p.m. in Calvin hall. All Home Economics majors may vote.

Gavona Michaels, HT Jr, and Verlene Sobke, HT Jr, are candidates for president; Mary Lou Ficke, ChW Soph, and Sylvia Gaddie, Clo Soph, for vice-president; and Marilyn McNelis, FdN Jr, and Sue Tucker, HT Jr, for secretary-treasurer.

N.H. Representative To Speak at 7 p.m.

Politics will be the major issue on the campus for the next two days as students take over the Field House for the Bovinian mock political convention.

Convention activities will begin at 7 o'clock tonight when the convention is called to order by the national chairman, Mel Baughman, Hst Sr.

Speeches will be made by the keynote speakers, Chester Merrow, Republican congressman from New Hampshire, and David Bunn, national president of Young Democrats, from Denver.

Welcoming talks will be given by President McCain, Attorney General John Anderson, and Charles Arthur, city commissioner.

The seating of delegations and election of permanent officers are also on the order of business for tonight.

Tuesday afternoon's activities include debate and adoption of a platform and reports on the credentials and rules committees.

The highlight of the convention will come Tuesday night when nominations for president and vice-president are made and the balloting begins.

Registration begins at 3 p.m. today in the main lobby of the Union. Only delegations chairmen are required to register for their groups.

Pre-convention activities included a parade Saturday morning through the business district of town and a Convention Ball Saturday night in Nichols gymnasium.

Prizes were awarded Northwest hall and Pi Kappa Alpha-Chi Omega at the dance for the two winning floats. Northwest's float represented Clare Booth Luce, and the Pi Kappa Alpha-Chi Omega float represented Eisenhower.

Ex-Entomology Head Dies at 1 a.m. Today

George A. Dean, one of America's foremost entomologists and for 30 years head of the K-State department of entomology, died at 1 a.m. today at a Manhattan rest home.

Dean was 83 years old. He had been in ill health for several years.

Funeral services will be at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning from the First Congregational church in Manhattan, with the Rev. William F. Keeney in charge. Interment will be in Sunset cemetery.

Dean joined the K-State faculty in 1902, and was a member of the department until his retirement in 1943. He became professor and head of the K-State entomology department in 1913.

Sigma Chi Charioteers Win, Set Record

THUNDERING ACROSS the finish line as winners of the Chariot Relays Saturday are Dave Burton and Stan Drevets, members of the record-breaking Sigma Chi team. The Sigma Chi team set a record of :51.9 seconds in edging the Betas in a first-round race.

Sigma Chi chariot team set a new track record of 51.9 seconds in the quarterfinals of the second annual Chariot Relays Saturday and followed with a :52.8 in the final heat to cop first place.

Kappa Sigma took second in the event, covering the 440-yard course in :55.2 in the final race, and Delta Tau Delta was third in :57.0.

Sigma Chi's record run in the quarterfinals came against Pi Kappa Alpha and Beta Theta Pi, defending champion and holder of last year's top mark at :53.4. Riding the victorious Sigma Chi chariot was Emily Douthit from Southeast hall.

For the second straight year, Kasbah, with a replica of a model T, won the trophy for the most unique chariot. Honorable mention for most unique was won by Alpha Kappa Lambda, whose rider was strapped on a torpedo-shaped canvas.

Rider of the second-place Kappa Sigma chariot was Marcia Hesler of Delta Delta Delta. The third place Delta Tau Delta chariot was ridden by Pat Schnelle of Clovia.

The top three fraternities and the residences of their riders all received trophies, as did the houses of the most unique chariots.

Winning the 35-inch trophy for Sigma Chi were Butch Bullock, Lee Peterson, Stan Drevets, Dave Burton, Jack Bash, and Vernon Gaylord. All three heats the team ran bettered last year's winning mark of :53.4.

Don Parrish, general chairman of the relays, estimated that nearly 2,000 persons attended the event. The Relays are sponsored by Lambda Chi Alpha and all proceeds go to scholarship fund at K-State.

President McCain was honorary referee at the event, which was filmed for later use on television.

In each race, two men would run a chariot the first 220 yards, and then two more would relay it the final 220 yards.

The first and third heats of the Relays had to be rerun when an error was discovered in the distance the chariots were staggered at the starting line. The second heat was not run again because the winner, Delta Tau Delta, was the chariot at the greatest disadvantage.

Winners of the first round quarterfinal heats were Sigma Nu, Delta Tau Delta, Tau Kappa Epsilon, Sigma Chi, Kappa Sigma, and Beta Sigma Psi.

The Beta Sigs won when their only opponent, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, lost a wheel brace and had to withdraw while in the lead.

In the first semifinal heat, Sigma Chi came out on top, barely edging Kappa Sigma. In the quarterfinal heat in which they set a record, the Sigma Chis beat out the Betas by only a tenth of a second.

The second semifinal heat was won by Delta Tau Delta. This put Sigma Chi, the Delts, and Kappa Sigma, who had the best second-place time in the two heats in the finals.

Seventeen chariots were entered.

Bridey Murphy Story Similiar to Hindu Beliefs, Indian Says

(This is the eighth in a series of stories about foreign students attending K-State.)

By PAT ROBERTS

"I THINK that the story of Bridey Murphy is quite logical and is similar to the Hindu belief of re-incarnation," said S. S. Attri, foreign student from India.

"According to the reports she was re-incarnated from an Irish woman to her present day life in Colorado. I think it is just possible that it happened through our beliefs," Attri said.

Attri explained the Hindu belief in re-incarnation this way:

"THERE ARE 8,400,000 forms of life in the Hindu religion. Of these 200,000 have been recognized by Biologists. The Hindu believes the soul leaves one body and enters another. What body the soul enters is determined by the actions of the person in this world. God has a record of all vices and virtues and sends the soul to the proper place after life is over.

"Man's birth and form is the highest achievement in the re-incarnation cycle. It is attained after much hardship and trial by the soul in other lives. Man can realize God. If he does not act in God's way he may not become man again for millions of years. He could go back to the most primitive form of life. However, in the case of Bridey Murphy the cycle apparently was not that extreme," he said.

"I NEITHER believe nor disbelieve in the theory. You cannot tell because the soul has never been physically isolated," Attri said.

Attri said that the main problem of India right now was to raise the standard of living. He said that India was doing this through a number of five-year plans.

He went on to explain the functions of the five-year plans in the following manner:

"We have many things included in the five year plan. Some of them are:

1. TO URBANIZE many of our backward areas. A commission for this study has made many suggestions to the government.

2. How the resources of my country can be utilized to meet the standard of living we desire. We have enough resources to feed and clothe our people; the problem is how to utilize them.

3. To build 150 hydro-electric projects. Water can be used for irrigation and then for electricity. If this is done on a national scale the standard of living in terms of income per capita will at least double.

4. To have 100 per cent literacy. This will be accomplished through a compulsory education. We are doing much work in the field of colleges and universities.

5. TO BUILD hospitals and help rid the country of disease.

6. To establish a complete system of all-weather highways.

"The five-year plans cover every aspect of life in our country. The plans started in 1950 after we received independence from Britain. Our country already is self-sufficient in food whereas in 1947 we had to import much of our food. Progress in other fields of improvement have been very satisfactory and the prospects are very good."

Attri said that the infamous caste system of India was on its way out. He said that modernization and western influence has done a lot to make it slowly disappear. He explained his feelings on the caste system:

THERE ARE FOUR castes that still exist in India. The priests, the soldiers, agriculturists and tradesmen, and servants or untouchables.

However, the untouchables are not regarded as such any more.

The history of the caste system, as he see it, is something like this:

When the Aryans came to India they had trouble in establishing their society so they formed divisions of labor. It was meant for specialization and at that time was very flexible. Later the system became rigid and the people of the upper classes refused the lower people any mobility. It finally grew into the Indian caste system.

WHEN ASKED why the cow is sacred in India, Attri said that it stemmed from tradition and custom that was very old.

"When the Aryans came to India they found that they depended on the cow for many things. It was a docile animal and as time went on proved very essential to their lives. It finally became so important that they thought life and prosperity depended upon the animal. They decided to spare its meat and revere it. Thus the sacred cow came into being.

"However more and more people are eating meat in India but the belief of the sacred cow is very strong and is based on much tradition," he said.

ATTRI SAID that the racial problem in America was actually simple. He said that in his country they had four caste levels and over 200 languages to be done away with. He pointed out that America had only two levels and one language. "We did it, why can't you," he said.

Attri said he expected Communism would not function in India. Education will play an important part in the failure of Communism, he said.

"My people prefer democracy to communism; they think that a democratic form of government is best. India has two types of people; the uneducated and the educated. The educated consider a democracy more desirable than a Communist state. Through the five-year plans we will educate more people and the feeling against Communism will grow," he said.

Attri had two reasons for coming to K-State. He wanted to live in a different civilization for he felt that one's education is never complete without living with people of another culture. He also wanted to try the American way of education and K-State offered a very good agriculture school. Attri is working on his MS degree and hopes to receive his PhD in the future.

"I like K-State very much; the students are friendly and the professors helpful," he said.

Due to Disqualified Ballots Frosh Amendment Fails

ABOUT ONE-SIXTH of the 1,991 K-Staters who voted in the general elections Thursday and Friday weren't smart enough to vote in the correct manner. A total of 361 ballots were disqualified because students 1) voted for both graduate and undergraduate candidate, or 2) failed to mark their ballots with an "X."

This probably proves something. Perhaps it proves that one-sixth of those who voted can't read simple instructions. Perhaps it proves that those 361 persons soon will flunk out of K-State. Maybe it proves only that those persons were in too much of a hurry to read the ballot.

At any rate, those 361 perhaps were responsible for the failure of the freshman representation amendment. One-third of the student body or approximately 1,900 persons had to vote before this amendment could become law. Enough persons voted, and the amendment appeared to be carrying by the necessary two-thirds vote.

However, after the 361 votes were thrown out, there were not eough acceptable ballots for the amendment to carry.

●

WITH THE Integrity party in power on campus, a copy of the Integrity platform has been pasted onto a wall in the Collegian newsroom. George Vohs, next fall's editor, says he'll be watching with interest to see if the Integrity party can carry out its platform.

Personally, I think that, if the Integrities fail in their attempt to fix up the road to Bluemont hill, they should be turned out of office by an irate studentry.

AN INTERESTING sidelight of the elections last week was that a ballot box was stolen by several K-Staters, who just wanted to prove that it could be done. They had possession of the ballot box and accompanying ballots for about 15 minutes, and had ample opportunity to stuff the ballot box.

Before the election committee gets shook and decides to run a new election —there were several witnesses to the fact that the box wasn't tampered with.

●

NOW THAT THE local elections are finished except for the grumbling, K-State politicos can switch to local politics with a national flavor. In simpler terms, the Mock political convention begins tonight.

Though it seems impossible at this point to predict who'll win the Bovinian nomination for President, the Southern faction is pushing hard for Lyndon Johnson. The Stevenson club also is working hard, and we've been hearing a lot about Luce supporters.

The whole Mock Political convention is a question mark. It's the first of its kind around these parts, and no one knows exactly how it'll turn out. But a lot of talented people have been working hard on it and, if everyone gets behind it, there's no reason why it won't be a big success. The only crimp in plans so far came when students weren't excused from classes for the Tuesday afternoon session.

I expect to go to the sessions, and I expect to learn a lot.

—Darrel Miller

Union Finance Committee Sets Policy

THE POLICY and function of the Union Finance committee was decided Saturday when the committee met for the first time.

"We will act as a subcommittee of the Union Governing board and do some of the financial ground work for them," Lee Ruggels, committee chairman, said.

The committee listed the following functions for it's policy.

1. Review the monthly financial statement of the Union.

2. Report to the Union Governing board on Union finances.

3. Review budget proposals submitted by the director.

4. Develop and make recommendations concerning financial policy.

5. Present proposed budgets to the Union Governing board and make recommendations for action by the Board.

LOREN KOTTNER, Director of the Union said that the first financial report should be ready by the end of the week. He said that the committee would have something to study and work with after that time.

Members of the committee are John Watt, VM Soph, Lee Ruggles, TJ Sr, and Professor Thomas Keim. Dean Herbert J. Wunderlich, and Kottner were also present as advisers.

Spankings Lead To Massacre; Boy Kills Family

MANSFIELD, CONN., (U.P.)—An 11-year-old boy told psychiatrists today how he killed his mother, his father and his brother with a single-shot rifle in revenge for spankings.

Robert A. Curgenven, who wears glasses because of defective vision in his right eye, wiped out the entire farm family Saturday with seven shots from a single-action .22 caliber rifle.

He ate a meal of frankfurters and beans and slept the night soundly before he confessed the slayings Sunday to a neighboring farmer.

"I planned this deal for a week," the boy told police. "My parents had spanked me. I planned to kill them."

Robert was taken to Norwich mental hospital for 30 days observation. A child under 16 cannot be tried for murder in Connecticut.

What young people are doing at General Electric

Young chemical engineer works on new ways to make silicones

Silicones are a new class of man-made chemicals with very unusual properties. Made from sand, they assume the form of rubber, grease, oil and resin. Under extremes of heat and cold, the rubber stays rubbery, the oil oily. Silicones added to fabrics make them exceptionally water-repellent. Silicone makes waxes spread easier . . . paints almost impervious to weather.

One of the men responsible for finding new ways to produce silicone products is 26-year-old Frank V. Summers.

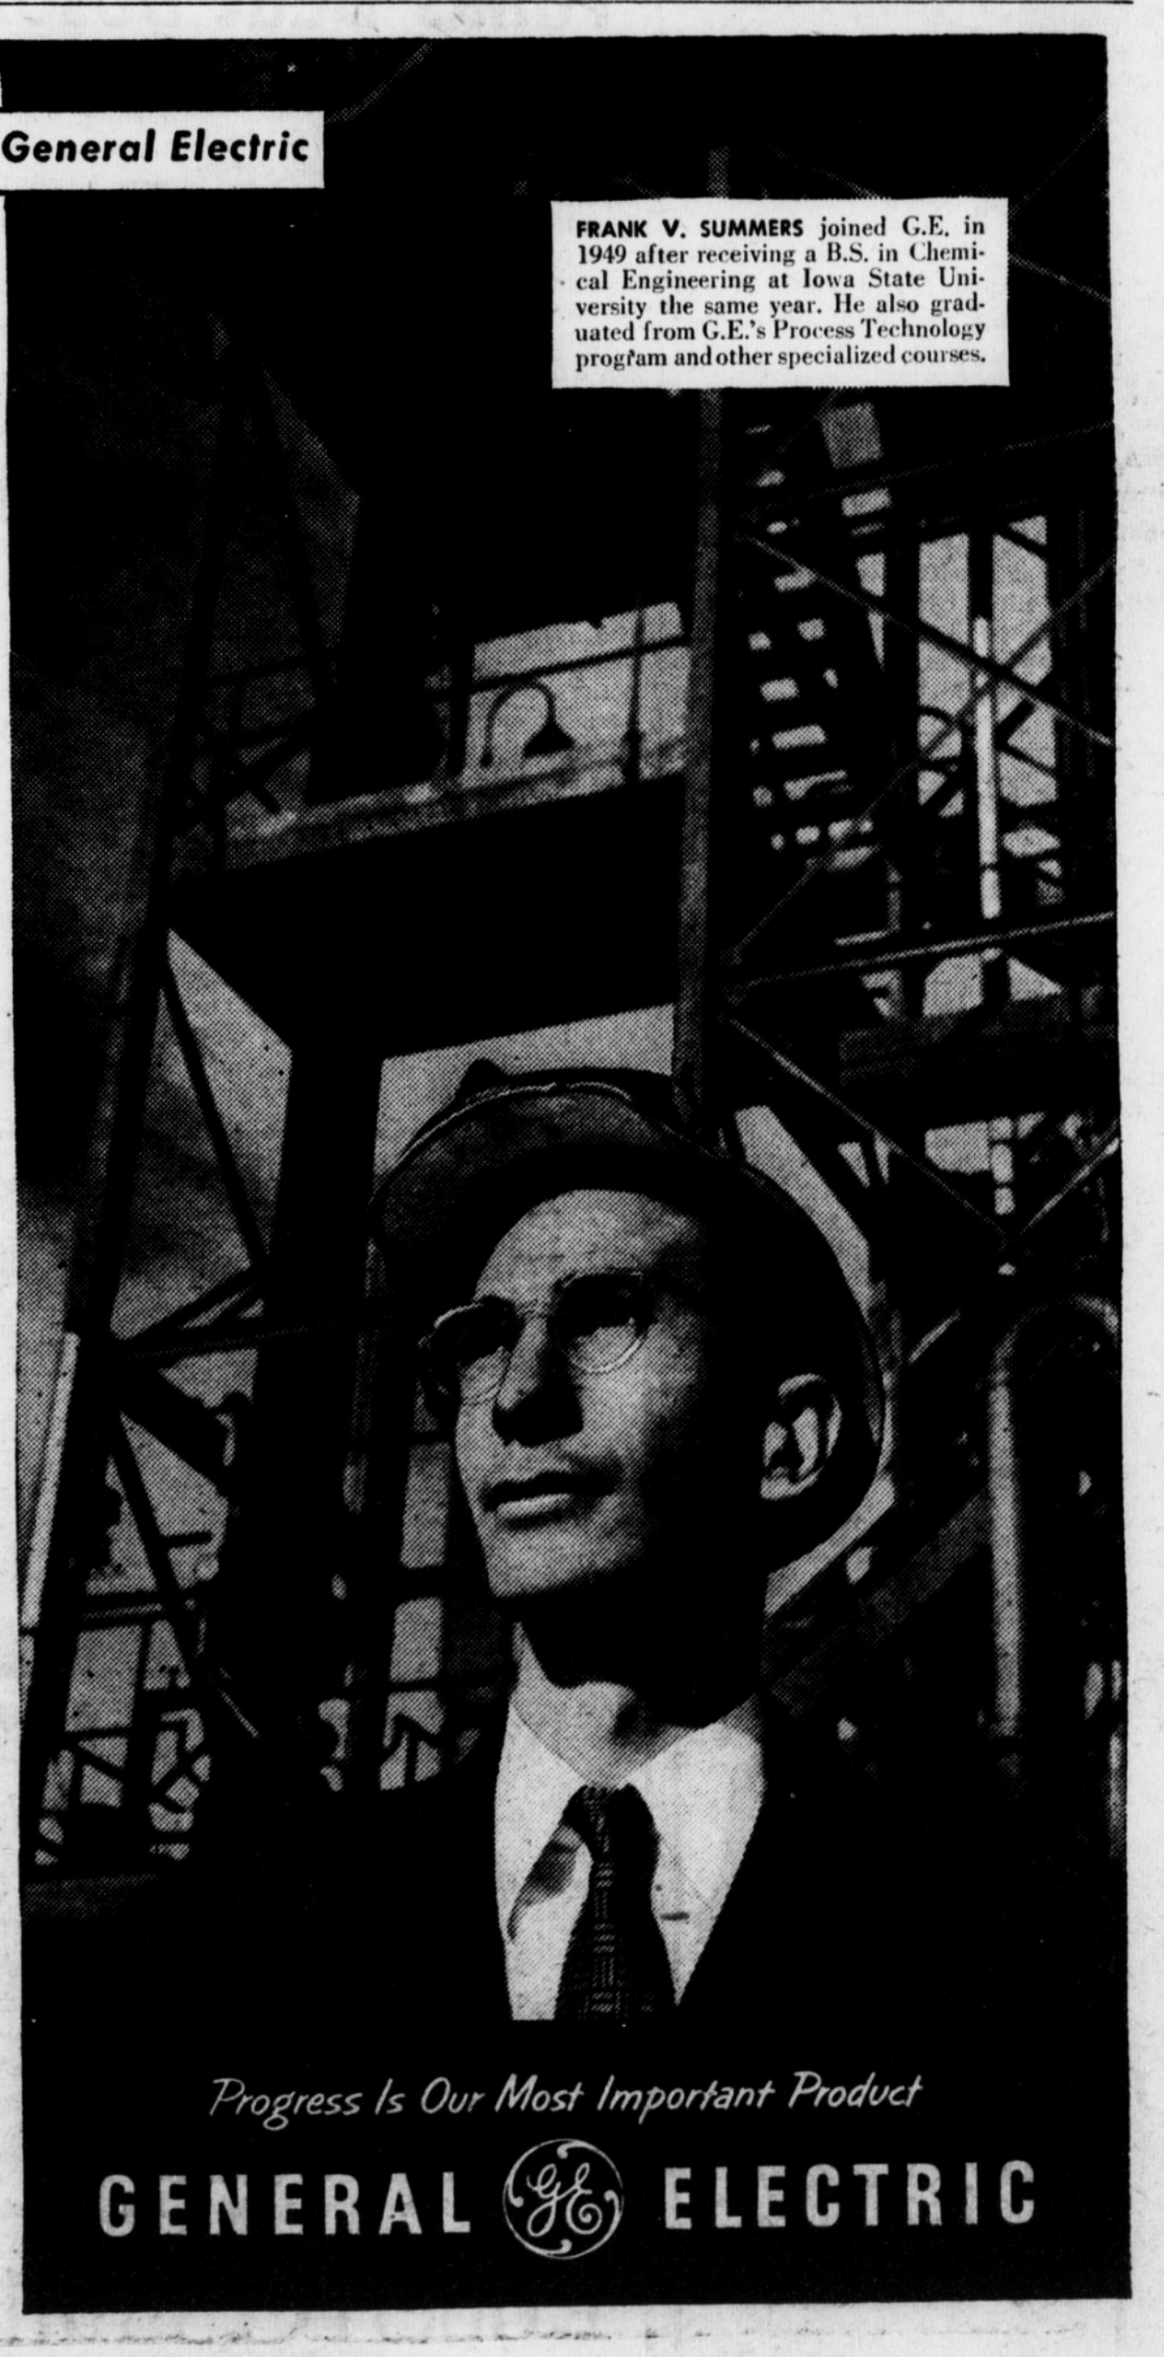

Summers' Work Interesting, Important

As process engineer of the Silicone Products Department, Frank Summers first compares the results of small-scale, pilot-plant experiments with the production methods in actual use. Then, using his own knowledge of chemical-engineering principles, he designs faster, more efficient and more economical methods of producing silicone products. Frank Summers' excellent training, diversified experience and outstanding personal qualifications make him a valuable contributor to this engineering team.

When Frank Summers came to General Electric in 1949, he already knew the kind of work he wanted to do. Like each of our 25,000 college-graduate employees, he was given his chance to grow and realize his full potential. For General Electric has long believed this: Whenever fresh young minds are given the freedom to make progress, everybody benefits—the individual, the company, and the country.

THE K-STATE tennis team scored an easy 6-1 win over the Wichita university Wheatshockers here Saturday to bring their season's record to 3 wins and 2 losses.

The win was almost a duplication of the 7-0 lacing the Cats handed Wichita earlier in the season.

Other singles results:

Dick Circle, KS, defeated Dan Bailey, 6-0, 6-2.

John Deam, KS, defeated Marion Shropshire, 6-1, 6-3.

Hanson-Andler defeated Bailey-Doze, 6-2, 6-4.

O'Connor Skims To New Record

Gene O'Connor skimmed to a new record in the 400-meter hurdles in the KU Relays at Lawrence Saturday.

O'Connor topped the timbers in 52.2 seconds, breaking the 52.5 record set by Lee Yoder of Arkansas in 1952.

K-State won 4th place in the 880-yard relay, won by Baylor university in the record-breaking time of 1:24.6.

Parry O'Brien, world record holder in the shotput, got away a toss of 60 feet, 2⅛ inches to out-distance KU's Bill Nieder whose best throw was 59-7⅞. Nieder won actual relays competition because O'Brien was competing on an exhibition basis.

KU scored a sweep in the weights events as Nieder won the shot, Al Orter won the discuss with a 170-2 effort, and Les Bitner took top honors in the javelin with a toss of 214-6⅝.

Emporia State's Billy Tidwell clocked a 4:17.8 anchor mile in the college distance medley to bring Emporia home ahead of the field in 10:18.4.

Golfers Lose to Aggies

K-State golfers fell to Oklahoma A&M linksmen here Friday 15½-2½.

Bob Goetz led the Aggies with a five under par 65. This was just one stroke over the Manhattan Country club all-time course record.

K-State now holds a 5-5 record for the season and the Aggie golfers have won eight and lost one.

K-State Baseballers Lose 2 at Nebraska

Wildcat baseballers opened their quest of the Big Seven baseball crown Friday and Saturday and suffered two setbacks at the hands of the Nebraska Cornhuskers.

In the Friday afternoon contest the Cats were shutout 4-0. K-State outhit the Cornhuskers 6-5 but committeed 6 errors to practically nullify the sextet of safeties.

Dale Blume went the distance for K-State giving up 4 runs, 5 hits, walking 7, and striking out 4. He also served up one wild pitch.

In the Saturday game K-State was bumped for 6 runs in the first inning and went on to lose the contest 15-6.

K-State's big Saturday splurge came in the eighth inning. Paul Clark led off with a walk, Jim Raffety singled and Bob Boyd singled. LaVern Billinger followed suit with a single and Eldon Zeller tripled to clean the bases. Hugh Nethercutt singled to keep the rally going and five runs crossed the plate before an out.

K-State will venture to Lawrence this afternoon to play KU today and tomorrow in hopes of improving on their 2 won, 3 lost record.

White Sox Top A's 3-0; Yanks Beat Bosox 13-6

Kansas City, Mo., (U.P.)—The Kansas City Athletics, who lost two but won the big one, 15-1 from Chicago, today named Arnie Portocarrero to face Detroit in an opening with the Tigers tonight.

Detroit nominated Paul Foytack to oppose him. Both are 0-0 this season.

Nellie Fox finished off Chicago on a winning streak yesterday with an eighth-inning round tripper over the right field wall and a 3-0 win. The A's won 15-1 the day before and lost 6-3 in the opener with the Sox.

In other American league action the New York Yankees seemed to be trying to duplicate the flying start the Brooklyn Dodgers got last year. The Yanks swept their three-game series from the Boston Red Sox by blasting the Sox 13-6 behind the pitching of Don Larsen and reliefer Bob Grim.

Grim got the win for New York and Frank Sullivan absorbed the loss for Boston.

Two American league twin bills resulted in splits. Detroit whacked Cleveland 5-2 in the opener, but the Indians came back to take the second game 6-4 behind Bob Lemon's nine-hit pitching.

Baltimore rookie southpaw Fred Besana gained credit for a 7-3 opening win over the Washington Senators although he needed help from Harry Dorish in the seventh inning. Camilo Pascual pitched the Nats to a 4-1 win in the nightcap.

In the National league Brooklyn beat Pittsburgh 4-1, in a single game limited to six innings by rain, to give Don Newcombe credit for a three-hit victory.

Milwaukee clung to a half-game lead by splitting with the St. Louis Cardinals. The Cards took the first game 10-4, but the Braves rebounded to cop the nightcap 13-5.

Robin Roberts got the best of Johnny Antonelli to give the Phils a 3-1 win over the Giants in the first game, but the Giants took the second game 9-7.

Solly Drake, Monte Irvin, and Ernie Banks socked homers to give the Chicago Cubs an opening 5-4 win over the Cincinnati Reds. The second game was called because of darkness after the seventh inning with the score tied at 1-1.

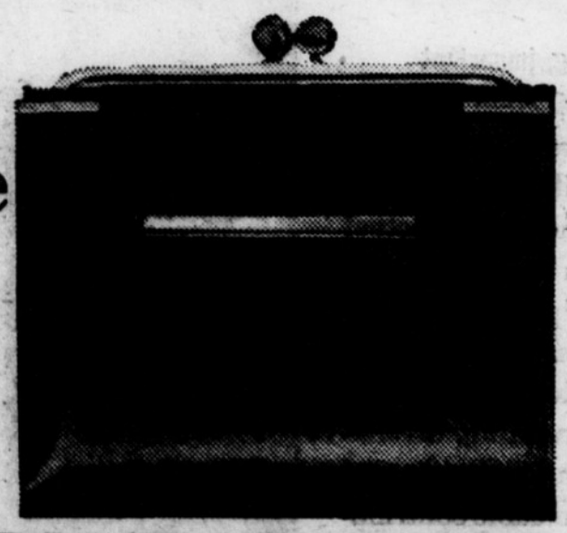

Six Games Played In Friday IM Play

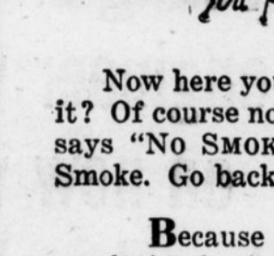

Sigma Chi exploded for eight runs to shut out Lambda Chi Alpho, 8-0 in last Friday's intramural softball action. In other games, Sigma Phi Epsilon beat Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 7-5; Alpha Gamma Rho won 13-8 over Phi Delta Theta; Acacia dropped a 7-5 game to Theta Xi; YMCA beat DSF, 7-3; and House of Brec lost to the Jones Boys, 12-1.

Today's schedule pits Signa Phi Nothing against House of Brec at 4:15, park-SW; West Stadium against Wesley Foundation in another 4:15 contest, park-NW; and OK House plays Kasbah at 5:15, park-SW.

IT'S LATER THAN YOU THINK!

All year long you've been promising yourself to go there. Now summer vacation is just around the corner and you still haven't set foot in the place. Shame on you!

But it's not too late. Right now, this very minute, before you weaken, lift up your head and forward march to the place you have been avoiding ever since school began. I refer, of course, to the library.

"You pinned or anything?"

Now here you are at the library. That wasn't so bad, was it? Of course not! Go inside. What do you see? A sign that says "No Smoking." Go outside. Light a Philip Morris. Smoke. Go back inside.

Because now you are ready. Now your trembling resolution is rigid. Now your pulsing psyche is serene. You have been gentled by gentle Philip Morris. You have been tranquilized by a smoke that dotes and pampers and caresses, that lifts the fallen, repairs the shattered, straightens the bent, unravels the knotted, rights the askew, and fastens the unbuttoned.

In the center of the library you see the main circulation desk. Look in the card catalogue for the number of the book you want, write the number on a slip, and hand it to the efficient and obliging young lady at the desk. The efficient and obliging young lady then gives the slip to an efficient and obliging page boy who trots briskly back into the stacks, curls up on a limp leather encyclopedia, and sleeps for an hour or two. Then, puffy but refreshed, he returns your slip to the efficient and obliging young lady at the desk, who tells you one of three things: (a) "Your book is out." (b) "Your book is at the bindery." (c) "Your book is on reserve."

Having learned that the circulation desk hasn't the least intention of ever parting with a book, let us now go into the periodical room. Here we spend hours sifting through an imposing array of magazines—magazines from all the far corners of the earth, magazines of every nature and description—but though we search diligently and well, we cannot find Mad or Confidential.

Next let us venture into the reference room. Here in this hushed, vaulted chamber, we find the true scholars of the university—earnest, dedicated young men and women who care for only one thing in the world: the pursuit of knowledge.

Let us eavesdrop for a moment on this erudite couple poring over heavy tomes at the corner table. Hush! She speaks:

SHE: Whatcha readin', hey?
HE: "The Origin of Species." You ever read it?
SHE: No, but I seen the movie.
HE: Oh.
SHE: You like readin'?
HE: Naah.
SHE: What do you like?
HE: Hockey, licorice, girls, stuff like that.
SHE: Me too, hey.
HE: You pinned or anything?
SHE: Well, sort of. I'm wearin' a fellow's motorcycle emblem.... But it's only platonic.
HE: Wanna go out for a smoke?
SHE: Philip Morris?
HE: Of corris!

And as our learned friends take their leave, let us too wend our way homeward—a trifle weary, perhaps, but enlightened and renewed and better citizens for having spent these happy hours in the library. Aloha, library, aloha! ©Max Shulman, 1956

The makers of Philip Morris, who sponsor this column, could write volumes about the gentleness of today's Philip Morris, but we will only tell you this: Take a leaf from our book. Enjoy Philip Morris.

IFC, Pan-Hel Plan Region Conference

Representatives from 14 colleges will attend a regional Interfraternity-Panhellenic conference at K-State Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. The conference will be held in the Student Union.

President James A. McCain will speak at the opening banquet Thursday night.

The Big Seven colleges and others—Drake, Oklahoma A & M, Tulsa, Colorado A & M, Washburn, Baker, and Fort Hays—will be represented.

The president of the National Interfraternity Council, Horace Nichol, will speak at the Friday evening banquet.

Conference chairmen are Charlene Bell, EEd Sr, president of the K-State Panhellenic council; and Vergil Wright, Sp Sr, president of the K-State Interfraternity council.

Small discussion groups are planned for all day Friday and Saturday morning so that delegates can pool information and discuss problems.

A business meeting will be held Saturday morning to discuss rules changes and to set a date for future conferences, Wright said.

Tom Bowman Selected Mock Party Chairman

Tom Bowman, ChE Soph, was elected permanent chairman of the Bovinian party last night before about 2,600 students gathered in the Field House for the opening of the mock political convention.

Gerry Day, VM Sr, who had been nominated from the floor, withdrew his nomination.

Other officers, who were elected by acclamation along with Bowman, were Jim Graves, BA Jr, permanent vice chairman; Denretta Joy, EEd Jr, permanent secretary; and Warren Keegan, ME Soph, permanent treasurer.

The Bovinians reconvene at 1 p.m. today to debate and adopt a platform. Reports will be given during the afternoon by the credentials, rules, and platform committees.

The convention will come to a climax tonight when nominations for president and vice president are made and the balloting begins.

Favorite sons will be favored on the first ballot, convention officials believe. As the second and third ballots come around, delegations will merge to get certain candidates into office.

The convention will be carried over until Wednesday night if balloting isn't finished tonight.

View expressed by delegates reflect the interests of the states represented and are not necessarily the personal views of the delegates.

Last night the opening of the convention was delayed about a half hour because of the noisy demonstrations for Clare Booth Luce, Johnson, and Eisenhower by candidate clubs.

Keynote speakers, David Bunn, chairman of the Young Democrats from Denver, and Chester Merow, Republican congressman from New Hampshire, were received with mixed emotions—cheers and boos.

The loudest demonstrations came when Bunn said Truman will always be remembered "as one of our greatest presidents."

President McCain extended greetings to the students and faculty and commended them for carrying out the convention.

A welcome from the city was given by Charles Arthur, city commissioner.

Greetings from the state were extended by Attorney General John Anderson. He gave special greetings to the Kansas delegation "because Kansas is the home of the greatest leader in politics—President Eisenhower."

KSDB To Carry Mock Convention

KSDB-FM will give complete coverage of the Bovinian Mock Political convention, Wayne Smith, station manager, said.

Broadcasting today will begin at 3 and continue to 5 p.m. The final session will begin at 7 p.m. and last until the close of the convention.

This is the largest operation KSDB has ever attempted, Smith said. Microphones will be placed at the voting booth, speaker's table and two on the convention floor.

Keynote Speakers Draw Cheers, Jeers

Democrat David A. Bunn said that the present foreign policy of the US "has no more imagination than a peanut," in a keynote speech at the Mock Political convention last night.

Republican Chester Morrow said that a balanced budget is the first of the major accomplishments of the Eisenhower administration.

Bunn, president of the national Young Democrats club from Denver, advocated a "food bank" to channel farm surpluses to needy countries as an instrument of foreign policy.

"Countries such as India cannot purchase enough food. We should help pay for production of goods in India through the use of the 'food bank'," he said.

Bunn traced the Democratic presidents from Jefferson to Truman, drawing mingled cheers and jeers from the crowd of 2600 delegates and alternates, when he said that Truman "would go down as one of our greatest Presidents."

Bunn charged the administration of showing undue concern with big business and said that of the tax reductions claimed by the Republicans, big business got 73 per cent of the total amount.

The Democrat party would welcome any person into their ranks because they stood for government for and by everyone, he said.

He cautioned the convention delegates to weigh carefully every plank in the Bovinian platform from the point of every citizen instead of special groups and to approach it from the stand-

Merrow, US congressman from New Hampshire, cited peace and prosperity as Republican accomplishments in the past three years and pointed with pride to a "balanced budget for the first time in years" under Eisenhower.

The second greatest accomplishment of the Republicans has been the halting of inflation, he said.

"If you will look at the records you will find that taxes have been reduced by $7,500 million by the Eisenhower administration."

He declared that none could criticize the present administration for not making an excellent record in foreign affairs.

The convention will continue this afternoon, with the adoption of a platform, and tonight with nominations for president and vice president.

AWS To Discuss Need on Campus

A meeting of the president of all women's organized houses to discuss plans for AWS will be held next Tuesday. The meeting will be at 7:15 p.m. on the fourth floor of the Student Union.

The meeting was planned at a brief Women's council meeting last night, according to Marilyn Clark, EEd Soph, temporary chairman.

House presidents are urged to attend the meeting to discuss the ned and purpose of an AWS organization of the K-State campus.

Last year, Beta Theta Pi and Kappa Delt won first place honors for their individual classes.

"PUT 'ER THERE." Mel Baughman, Hst Sr, (left), Bovinian national chairman, congratulates Chester Merrow, New Hampshire congressman, Republican keynoter for the Mock Political convention last night. Merrow was presented a gavel as a memento of his appearance.

Students Devise Answer To an Age-Old Question

By Ann Weathers

HAS SOMEONE ever asked you, "Well, you went to college, huh? Why? What do you do?" For those of you who can't think of an answer off-hand, the Dakota Student has devised a simple outline of a year at college and based it on time, to make it universal.

"First the academic year is nine months long. By the students it has been divided into two periods, (1) before Christmas, and (2) after Christmas. The adminstration, taking a somewhat grouchy view, prefers to call them, (1) the first semester, and (2) the second semester. Each of these semesters ends in a panic called examinations."

BOTH STUDENTS and faculty are agreed on the next subdivision, termed "six-weeks." The first semester has three six-week periods, and so does the second semester, leaving us a grand total of 6 six-weeks.

Next the students subdivide these into weekends starting Saturday noon, extending until 8 a.m. Monday, which represents a veritable milestone in the academic year.

Between weekends, there are assorted days—take your pick.

By now it must be evident that students lead a day-to-day existence. Also, they are a fairly poor lot, on the whole.

So here is your answer to that eternal question—"Students live from day-to-day, and from hand-to-mouth."

●

ONE HOPEFUL candidate at the University of Texas was doing much the same as our candidates to various offices were doing the other day, and making the rounds of the organized houses, delivering his campaign speech. To a particular fraternity that had a reputation for throwing rolls at a political speaker, he said:

"I called over this afternoon to ask if I could speak tonight and you said 'Hell, no'. But here I am anyway, proving the courage with which I will tackle my job if elected. Thank you."

●

STUDENTS AT Indiana university were slightly puzzled lately at the appearance at one of the busiest street intersections near the college of not the conventional stop sign, but a "stop and go" sign.

An obliging senior finally explained that absent-minded professors are inclined to stop when they see an octagonal sign and forget to go, causing a traffic jam. It's to remind them to move on out.

Sounds plausible, anyway.

●

THEN THERE was the fine arts professor for TCU who, upon sighting one of his more haughty associates crossing the campus, growled, "There, but for the grace of God, goes God."

●

THE PERFECT squelch of the week comes from an eight-year-old visitor at Baylor university. One of the students had her little sister visiting her over the weekend. The little girl sat with her older sister at the director's desk while she was working. A senior boy came in to buzz for his date and while waiting for her to come down, conversed in lordly senior tone to the young miss.

Finally, he began playfully drawing pictures on the sign-out book, when it became evident that his date might be ready by dawn's early light, but not before. The little girl watched him a while, then asked the dignified senior, "What are you going to do when you grow up?"

Montgomery Lifts Bus Seating Plan

By UNITED PRESS

MONTGOMERY, ALA.—A bus company suffering the financial strains of a long boycott by Negro passengers today defied local law and custom to abandon segregated seating regulations in compliance with a U.S. Supreme Court decision.

The action had no immediate effect on the boycott, touched off last December after a Negro was ordered out of the front section of a bus. Negroes, elated over the breakdown of one racial barrier, still were pressing for another demand—Negro drivers on predominantly Negro routes.

The first non-segregated buses rolled down the streets of this state capital city "without incident" this morning, although the few Negroes riding the buses voluntarily took seats at the rear as usual.

THE POLICE department reported that "everything is quiet" although the first buses started making their routes shortly before 5 a.m. (CST).

Only a few Negroes were riding the buses as result of the four-and-a-half-month old boycott. However, several Negroes were seen seated at the rear of buses as the bus came into town.

R. C. Mills, assistant superintendent of transportation for the Montgomery City Bus lines, said "everything is going along fine. We aren't expecting any trouble from our Negroes here. If we have any trouble it will be from outside agitation."

THE REV. Martin Luther King, Negro boycott leader, said that no decision to end the boycott will be reached until it is ratified by the city's Negroes in mass meeting, tentatively set for Thursday night.

King said the bus line had complied with two of the three demands imposed by Negroes for ending the strike—elimination of racial barriers and driver courtesy.

"I think we will still hold for Negro bus drivers on predominantly Negro routes," King said.

"I WAS VERY happy to hear the bus company is complying with the Supreme Court ruling. All people of good will will welcome the decision. But it is necessary that we do not allow emotions to run wild and reason and calmness must prevail among both races.

"We must not sacrifice our basic principles, and the difficulties of adjustment must be recognized."

The busline's decision followed swiftly yesterday's Supreme Court decision to leave standing a lower court decision in South Carolina which upheld integrated buses on intrastate routes.

THE ACTION, effective at 6 a.m. today, defied a state criminal law that requires Negroes to sit in the rear of public transportation vehicles.

"I repeat! The meeting will come to order!"

New Cheerleaders' Plan Dispels Group Favoritism

By CAROLYN SNELL

A NEW SYSTEM of electing cheerleaders has been adopted by the newly-appointed Cheerleader's Advisory board and included in the Cheerleaders' Constitution, Phil Stiles, Bot Sr, head cheerleader, said.

This new plan, used last week to elect cheerleaders for next fall, features a 5-category system with a maximum of 25 possible points for each contestant.

Five points can be given to each tryout by the Board for each of the 5 categories. The categories are personal appearance, knowledge of yells, co-ordination, enthusiasm and pep, and ability.

MEMBERS OF THE Board judge each contestant personally and rate them on individual blanks of paper. The points in each category are totaled for the contestants and those with the highest total scores get regular cheerleader positions. Alternates are elected from the remaining group of contestants on the basis of total scores.

The new system was designed to give all contestants an equal chance to be elected, Stiles said. "Before it wasn't how good they were but what organization they belonged to that determined who was elected," he added.

Under the old system, cheerleaders were elected by the vote of all members of the three pep clubs that were present at tryouts, he said. If one organized house turned out full force, a contestant belonging to it would have a great advantage over another for votes, he said.

THE CHEERLEADERS' Advisory board makes it almost "impossible" to elect anyone by group favoritism. When the contestants try out, they are referred to only by number and not by name. Unless the heads of all groups of the Board belong to the same organization, it won't be possible to elect by favoritism, he said.

Before tryouts last week, the Board and pep club presidents approved the 25 point system, Stiles said.

The Cheerleaders' Advisory board consists of two members from each pep club totaling six; two members of the Student Council; the president of the student body; the Dean of Women; a representative from the Alumni association; a representative from the Registrar's office; Bob Alexander, cheerleader adviser; a representative from the Athletic office; a representative from the Dean of Students' office; and the Head Cheerleader, if he is a graduating senior.

Demos Charge Ike With Farm Crisis

By UNITED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson charged in a nationwide radio-TV address last night that "the Republican party now is pushing us into a third farm depression."

Johnson's charge was the Democratic party's formal answer to President Eisenhower's recent radio-TV talk explaining why he vetoed the Democratic-sponsored farm bill. The Democratic measure would have junked the administration's flexible price support system and restored supports at 90 per cent of parity.

The President said he vetoed the bill because it was "contradictory and self-defeating." He said rigid high supports would only lead to greater farm surpluses which depressed market prices for farm goods in the first place.

BUT JOHNSON, a possible contender for the Democratic Presidential nomination, denied this. He used recording of the President's own voice and TV image in an effort to show that Mr. Eisenhower himself promised the farmers 90 per cent of parity supports in the 1952 campaign.

Johnson accused the President of favoring high supports in "election years and low supports in non-election years."

He noted that in vetoing flat 90 per cent supports, the President conceded the need for higher government subsidies to farmers and announced he was using his own authority to raise supports on basic crops up to a range of from 82½ to 87 per cent of parity. But Johnson said this will not be enough to get farmers out of their financial plight.

Plenty of Action

Spring Sports Slate Is Full This Week

All four Kansas State spring sports teams are busy both Friday and Saturday of this weekend—baseball, tennis, and golf playing at home and the Wildcat track team dividing forces to enter the Colorado and Drake Relays.

The K-State baseball team, disappointed in two Big Seven games against Nebraska last weekend, hosts Missouri U. Friday and Saturday. The Tigers will come into the action with a perfect 2-0 loop reading after taking a two-game sweep from Iowa State.

The Wildcat tennis team, with 2 wins, 2 losses, and a tie on its 1956 record, entertains Iowa State Friday and Omaha U. Saturday.

Turned back by Colorado U. in the only previous Big Seven competition, the Wildcat netmen have picked up strength with the return of John Deam, 1955 letterman. Deam, a vet medicine senior from Manhattan, was missing from early matches because of the press of scholastic work.

Rounding out the three-sport weekend at Kansas State, Wildcat golfers host swingers from Iowa State and Omaha U. K-State has a 5-5 record in golf this season, owning a 1-1 split against the two conference teams faced. The Wildcat linksmen defeated Nebraska and lost to Kansas—both matches on foreign courses.

Dividing forces between the Drake and Colorado Relays has become a Wildcat track custom in recent seasons. This time Coach Ward Haylett will bank on K-State relay talent at Colorado with Wildcat hurdlers, polevaulters, and javelin thrower going to the Drake event.

The K-State entry at Colorado will include 14 men spread over five relay races, broadjump, 100-yard dash, javelin, and shotput. At Drake seven Wildcats will vie in the shuttle-hurdle relay, polevault, javelin, and 440-yard hurdles.

Cats Top KU 2-1, Stone Pitches Win

Lawrence, Kan. (U.P.)—Pitcher Dick Stone allowed Kansas only four hits yesterday in a Kansas State college 2-1 victory that snapped the Jayhawks' victory string at seven.

It was the Big Seven opener for Kansas coach Floyd Temple's team.

Bob Shirley, who pitched for the losers, allowed seven hits. Stone walked only one man and struck out ten.

The two teams tangle here again today to conclude a two-game series.

Landy To Race In California Meet

(U.P.)—Australia's John Landy is a good bet to come through with the first four-minute mile ever run in the United States when he competes in a special race at the UCLA-Southern California dual track meet in Los Angeles May 5.

Landy may better his own world mark of 3:58. He has bettered four minutes in four of his last five mile races.

IM Softballers Fox Elements

Intramural softball teams foxed "ole mother nature" yesterday by playing a full schedule of games despite overcoat weather, intermittent rain, and wet diamonds.

Signa Phi Nothing slugged their way to a 12-1 victory over House of Brec. Pitcher Arnold Hildebrand held House of Brec to two hits, while Signa Phi Nothing batters slugged three homers.

O. K. House beat Kasbah 10-7, with Neal Porter batting a homer with two men on.

Ernest Randel, Kasbah right fielder, ended up in Student Health with a badly sprained ankle which he suffered while rounding third base during the game.

Beta Sigma Psi's Dick Frohberg pitched a one-hit game to lead his team to an 8-1 victory over Phi Kappa Tau.

Sigma Chi lost to Sigma Alpha Epsilon 7-4, as Bob Merten connected with a homer off the pitching of Sigma Chi's Melvin Smith.

House of Williams squeezed past the Rho Alphs by a score of 5-4.

Pi Kappa Alpha outscored Phi Delta Theta 8-4 with Roger Bruton hitting a homer for the winners in the second inning with the bases loaded. Ken Heintz hit two homers with a man on each time to account for the Phi Delt's scores.

West Stadium forfeited to Wesley Foundation, 2-0, and the Theta Xi-Alpha Tau Omega game was postponed.

Today's schedule: 4:15—Beta Theta Pi vs. Delta Tau Delta, Park-SW. Tau Kappa Epsilon vs. 1834 Club, Park-NW.

5:15—Delta Sigma Phi vs. Kappa Sigma, Park-SW. Alpha Gamma Rho vs. Acacia, Park-NW. Farm House vs. Alpha Kappa Lambda, Mil. W. YMCA vs. Rho Alphs, Mil. E.

Dodgers Rap Phils 6-1 On Drysdale's Pitching

By UNITED PRESS

Don Drysdale, youngest pitcher ever to win a regular job with the Brooklyn Dodgers, shaped up today as the chap who may make the world champions forget world series hero Johnny Podres.

The 19-year old sidearmer, a native of Van Nuys, Calif., who pitched in class C ball in 1954, struck out nine batters and scattered nine hits last night to beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 6-1, in his major league debut as a starter. It may have been prophetic that the victory put the Dodgers in a first-place tie with the Milwaukee Braves.

Drysdale, who was one year old when Phillies' starter Murry Dickson broke into organized baseball in 1937, walked only one batter and struck out every Philadelphia regular except Del Ennis and Ted Kazanski. The Phillies scored their run in the eighth inning on singles by pinch-hitter Frankie Baumholtz and Bobby Morgan and a sacrifice fly by Gran Hamner.

The triumph was the Dodgers' fourth in five games and made their season record 4-2. In the five games, Brooklyn's rivals scored a total of only nine runs and three Dodger pitchers went the nine-inning distance.

The game was the only one played in the majors, cold weather forcing the postponement of New York at Pittsburgh, Detroit at Kansas City, Chicago at Cleveland, and Boston at Baltimore. The other clubs were not scheduled.

Mock Confab Features Avid Campaigning

By JOHN TOMS

The steel planks on the Ahearn Field House balcony rang out from the thundering feet of Bovinian delegates shouting cries, "Eyes of Texas," "We want Luce," and "I like Ike" last night.

The hands of the clock pointed to 7 p.m., the starting time, but the avid campaigning by the New York, Missouri, California, and Mississippi delegates didn't permit the convention to get under way until 25 minutes later.

There probably remains no doubt in the mind of any person who attended the convention as to whose speech was the most popular of the evening.

David Bunn, national chairman of the Young Democrats organiation, delivered a rabble-rousing speech which drew many comments from the delegations.

"Truman fought for the little man," Bunn said.

"Are we fighting now?" a delegate cried.

"If Secretary of State Dulles doesn't get off his high horse, we will be!" answered Bunn.

Chester Merrow, Republican congressman from New Hampshire, delivered a detailed report that found five delegates of the female gender from Connecticut and four more of the same sex from Minnesota playing cards.

Looks like the big ones of 1952 already, doesn't it?

Supreme Court Rules Out Segregated Intrastate Buses

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The Supreme Court today in effect struck down state laws requiring racial segregation on buses.

It did so with a backhanded slap at South Carolinians who brought the case before the court. It implied they had "needlessly" wasted the court's time in attempting to get it to support segregation.

The action does not necessarily mean any immediate end of segregated seating on Southern buses. The case at issue did not bear on the right of privately-operated transportation companies—operating within a state—to have segregation rules of their own.

Southern lawmakers denounced but voiced no surprise at the Supreme Court ruling.

The court's action had an immediate effect on the long controversy in Montgomery, Ala., where Negroes are conducting a "passive" boycott against the privately-owned city bus system. The bus company announced desegregation of buses effective today.

Eisenhower, Johnson, Kefauver Top MPC

The first night of balloting at Kansas State's first Mock Political Convention ended in a three-way deadlock. President Eisenhower, Sen. Estes Kefauver, and Sen. Lyndon Johnson polled over 400 votes on the final ballot.

Eisenhower ended with 448 votes on the final ballot, an increase of 22 over the previous vote. Kefauver lost votes according to the official tabulator on the last ballot. Johnson, supported by the southern bloc, began to pick up votes that he had lost on the second and third ballots.

The balloting continues tonight at 7:30 in "Convention Hall." (Ahearn Field House)

The vice-presidential nominee will be chosen immediately following the selection of the Presidential candidate.

Voting began following nomination of the candidates by the states. Nominees were Clare Booth Luce, Eisenhower, Johnson, Stevenson, Kefauver, Dr. Enoch A. Holtwick, Stuart Symington, Clifford Case, Thomas Dewey, "Soapy" Williams, and Wayne Morse.

Georgia and Louisiana could not vote on the fourth ballot because they did not have the necessary two-thirds of their delegations present. A candidate needed 632 votes on the fourth ballot to be nominated.

Yadavar Schlyavinski was nominated last night by Delaware. The group paraded through the balcony of the Field House in red costumes. Communist sickles and hammers were thrown through the crowd.

Later, a member of the delegation came to the microphone and announced to the audience that no harm had been intended by the demonstration.

Demonstrations were given for all candidates except "Soapy" Williams. Signs ranged from "Even Pogo Likes Ike" to "The Bestes with Estes."

The Convention will be carried over to Thursday night if balloting is not completed tonight.

South Secedes Matinee MPC Platform Session

The South seceded from the Bovinian party yesterday afternoon after their proposals to amend the party platform planks on civil rights and poll tax were defeated in the Mock Political Convention.

The southern bloc wanted to return the question of segregation in public schools to the states for action and wanted to strike out the proposed measure to abolish poll tax.

After their second civil rights amendment was defeated the South, led by Steve Weckel, BA Sr, chairman of the Virginia delegation, walked out of Ahearn Field House.

The convention then passed a compromise amendment, commending the Supreme Court for the principle of its effort in leviating injustices to minority groups and suggesting that the matter be referred to the proper legislative bodies for action.

The first fireworks came on the first amendment when Ed McCoy, PrL Soph, chairman of the Missouri delegation, proposed that the farm plank include rigid price supports instead of the flexible supports included in the original plan.

After considerable debate, the motion went to a roll call vote and was defeated by a 5-1 margin.

About 750 delegates participated in the afternoon session.

The platform included such planks as a balanced budget and reduction of taxes, a continuation of the present foreign policy along with using present farm surpluses to further democratic relations of the country, a continuation of present reciprocal trade agreements.

The Bovinian's platform favors immediate statehood for Hawaii and Alaska, careful study of the problems of small business, providing needed water resources developments, and adoption of the Bricker-Dirksen amendment, limiting presidential powers.

The platform favors federal aid to the construction of schools in communities unable to finance them themselves, the improvement of currently existing personal security insurance programs such as social security and unemployment compensation.

Miller, Nakari To Play Leads In Last Play

Baird Miller and Ken Nakari have been chosen for the leading roles in "Amphitryon 38," the final production of the K-State Players this season.

Miller will play Jupiter and Nakari has been cast in the title role of Amphitryon.

Others in the cast are: Amphitryon's wife Alkmena, Ann Soelter; Mercury, Bruce Bellamy; Sosie, John Miller; Trumpeter, Charley Peak; Warrior, George Hooper; Nevetza, Virginia Eaton; Kleantha, Diane Wieand, and Leda, Joan Guyer.

Rehearsals began Monday night for this comedy, which will be given May 3 and 4 in the College Auditorium.

The story follows the famous Greek legend of Amphitryon in which Jupiter, aided by his son Mercury, came to earth to have an affair with Alkmena, the faithful wife of Amphitryon.

"It is probably one of the most provacatively wity comedies to be produced in years," Donald F. Hermes, director of the play, said.

Bovines Really Down to Business

By JOHN TOMS

The Bovinian mock convention took on an air of the real thing yesterday as factions from the South walked out, then delegations formed coalitions to shotgun their candidates through the nominations.

Delegates from thirteen southern states stomped out of the proceedings claiming that the Bovinian platform was unfair.

They claimed that their states' rights toes were tromped on. But, they later returned and accepted the Bovinian platform.

Harpo Griffith, Sp Fr, proposed a candidate for nomination who needed little ballyhoo after Griffith finished his speech:

"Gonna tear down all the bars. (audience: Boo) Gonna build a new one. (Yea) Only one bar in it. (Boo) 300 feet long.(Yea) Only one bartender. (Boo) For each foot. (Yea))Only get one glass. (Boo) Forty ounces." (Yea).

"Everyone will leave the bar at 11:30. (Boo) So we can clear it for more drinks. (Yea) No girls allowed. (Boo) Unless they drink. (Yea) No dancing allowed. (Boo) Floor reserved for smooching. (Yea) All light bulbs 300 Watts. (Boo) Both of them outdoors." (Yea).

"No parking lots. (Boo) At least not for cars. (Yea) There'll be a cop at every door. (Boo) To make sure KU doesn't crash our bar. (Yea) A special place reserved for deans surrounded by bars. (Boo) Steel bars."

Membership fee, $100 a month. (Boo) For each professor. (Yea) Everything will be made of wood. (Boo) From the great Northwest. (Yea) Donated by Wayne Morse. (Yea) Do we need another candidate? (No) Do we want Morse?" (Yea).

In a pre-planned demonstration, Delaware delegates first came out for a Communist. But, Larry McDonald, ME Soph, Delaware's chairman, later renounced his candidate and complimented the Bovinians for refusing to accept Schlyavinski.

CONFIDENT 'CALIFORNIANS' listen carefully as the vote totals are read at the MPC last night. Their candidate, President Eisenhower, led on the last ballot of the evening by 32 votes with a total of 448. Six-hundred sixty-three votes are needed to nominate a candidate.

Comments

Mock Political Candidate To Be Resolved Tonight

THE MOCK Political Convention will storm into its third night tonight with the Bovinian party's Presidential nominee still in doubt. But of one thing I'm no longer in doubt.

If this convention is typical of national conventions—if they place that much emphasis on emotion and behind-the-scenes deals—then I no longer wonder how "our grand and glorious United States" have come up with some of the second-rate Presidents we have had.

●

THE AIR in the back rooms of fraternity and sorority houses, various taverns, and other places too numerous to mention will be heavy with intrigue today as backers of Eisenhower, Kefauver, and Lyndon Johnson will be trying to trade off vice-presidencies and other favors for enough votes to win the election.

Which speaks well for the tremendous interest in the Mock Political convention, and for the success it has met.

If you're one of those stick-in-the-muds who hasn't been to the convention yet, I'd advise you to show up tonight for the final knock-down and drag-out.

THERE HAVE been many humorous sidelights of the convention.

For instance, just to keep everyone confused, delegates from Michigan have been wearing rebel caps most of the time. Seems like half of the male representation was strutting around in a suit and with either cigar or a pipe in mouth. Some of the delegates marched in two or three demonstrations, proving one of two things: 1) they either didn't know what man they were backing, or 2) they just like to walk and talk.

The same could be said of the pep bands. They played for everyone who wanted to parade. And that's where I have an objection. I like music as much as the next cat, but I ceased to like the "Saints" long ago—even under ideal conditions.

●

THE MOCK convention seems to be well-planned, perhaps a little too well-planned. There have been a few times—such as the election of a permanent chairman—when the powers were so intent on their pre-conceived plan that they overrode the wishes of some of their delegations by not allowing roll-call votes, etc.

But that'll give everyone an idea of some of the things that go on in convention politics.

●

DEMOCRATIC government was trampled into the dust last night as McCarthyism reached up from its newly dug grave and spread mass hysteria over the populace.

The delegation from Delaware nominated its candidate, one Yadavar Schlyavinski dressed in a red shirt, but the convention would not recognize him. It was then that democracy groveled in the dust.

FOR, WHILE those who advocate violent overthrow of the government have been outlawed, there still is no ruling of which I have heard that denies a person with socialistic ideas the right to peacefully enter a political convention and try to convince the other delegates that his ideas are right.

If he can convince the delegates—according to our way of life—then he should be in office. But, if he can't convince them, there isn't a thing to worry about. However, when he is dismissed without his say, the Communists have picked up some powerful propaganda material.

Surely we've recovered from McCarthyism to the point where we can think independently without choking up like a class C batter in the major leagues. (I'll probably be called a Communist for writing this; some people say Communists are behind the Collegian's interest in desegregating Manhattan barbershops.)

●

CONVENTION-alities:

Texas always has to get into the act. When a speaker Monday night mentioned something about "taxes," the Texas delegation rose en masse to cheer its home state.

And Washington wasn't to be left out. When another speaker said something about George Washington, the Washington delegation jumped up cheering and waving a pine tree.

THOUGH THE official tune of the Bovinian convention seems to be "When the Saints Go Marching In," at least one person objected. This fellow thought the official tune should be "Cow, Cow Boogie."

And another thing about music. The Southern delegates harangued long and loud, they seceded from the convention, but where was "Dixie?" How in the cotton-pickin' world can Southerners campaign without "Dixie?"

WHEN K-STATE coeds marched around the Field House shouting "We want Luce!" somebody (I didn't get his name) was agreeable. "OK," he said, "so turn them loose aready."

Another thing that K-Staters have learned at the mock convention: The middle of a political speech is a great place to read a book or to play bridge.

When a prohibitionist got up to inform the audience of the sins of drinking alcoholic beverages, then proceeded to pour a bottle of whiskey on the floor, one delegate from California almost broke his neck trying to catch some of the whiskey in his hat.

There were bags and rolls of confetti aplenty, but few of the delegates knew how to throw them for the best effect. But that's one thing they'll pick up with practice. The confetti came from a good source, the Daily Kansan.

WITH HALF OF the campus politics-minded, a true-life story about one of the Bovinian candidates might be in order.

At dawn one recent morning, Senator Kefauver dropped into Florida. At 6 a.m. his two-car caravan was stopped outside of Tampa for driving 80 miles an hour. The Senator, who had been dozing beside the driver, stumbled out of the car with his hand instinctively outstretched and mumbled to the cop, "I'm Estes Kefauver and I'd appreciate your vote." The cop waved the caravan on.

Kefauver, Stevenson Take Back Seat in Primaries

By UNITED PRESS

ADLAI E. Stevenson lost to favorite son Rep. John W. McCormack in the Massachusetts primary and took a back seat to President Eisenhower in the Pennsylvania and Alaska races, late returns showed today.

Stevenson gained some comfort from the fact that his rival for the Democratic Presidential nomination, Sen. Estes Kefauver, did not make a good showing in the Pennsylvania primary yesterday.

The Tennesseean also trailed Stevenson on the basis of early returns in Alaska's first Presidential primary in history.

BUT PRESIDENT Eisenhower appeared the big winner in the two eastern states and Alaska. In Massachusetts, his vote total in the GOP primary outdistanced the combined Democratic votes for McCormack and Stevenson. He piled up a big margin over Stevenson in Pennsylvania and topped a field of four candidates in Alaska.

None of the primaries is binding on delegates to either party convention. The Alaska race was the first out-and-out test of strength between Stevenson and Kefauver since Kefauver's stunning upset victory over the Illinoisan in Minnesota.

KEFAUVER was not officially entered in the Massachusetts and Pennsylvania primaries; but Stevenson's campaign manager nevertheless claimed a victory over the Tennesseean in both states.

The breakdown by primaries:

Massachusetts — McCormack, veteran leader of the House, rolled up an almost 2-to-1 majority over Stevenson in the bay state's write-in primary.

RETURNS today showed the President with 43,890 votes, McCormack with 26,352, Stevenson with 17,256, and Kefauver with 4,106.

Pennsylvania—The President, helped by brisk GOP fights on the state level, piled up a 5-3 margin over Stevenson.

Returns early today showed the President with 709,922 votes, Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.) with 34,793, Stevenson with 477,481, Kefauver with 24,816, and Gov. Averell Harriman of New York with 591.

Alaska—Stevenson rolled up a fast lead over Kefauver with only a few of the territory's divisions reporting. Mr. Eisenhower, facing token Knowland opposition, also gathered a fast-mounting total.

EARLY RETURNS gave Stevenson 680 votes, Kefauver 483, Mr. Eisenhower 719, and Knowland 47.

'Beauty' Only Gets Back Page Notice

Dear Sir:

ON APRIL 24, you printed a one column, 18-line story on page four regarding Karen Andrew's appointment as honorary regimental commander and honorary cadet colonel of regiment seven of Pershing Rifles.

Recently there has been much discussion on campus and in the Collegian about the small number of girls on K-State's campus who qualify in beauty and personality for campus and nationwide competition. Yet when Miss Andrews reached the finals of a national contest, she was given only back page notice.

AS MEMBERS of Karen's counsel group and close friends, we strongly protest the length of the article and the absence of a picture of one of K-State's outstanding beauties. Only eight lines of this article even referred to Karen, and since she now will enter national competition, we cannot help but think she deserves much more recognition.

Gromek Did It

A's Fall to Detroit 7-4; Yanks Top Senators 4-1

The Kansas City Athletics could get only six hits off Detroit pitcher Steve Gromek yesterday and dropped a 7-4 decision to the Tigers. Arnie Portocarrero was the losing pitcher.

The New York Yankees, continuing their fast getaway in the American league, defeated the Washington Senators, 4-1, as Johnny Kucks gained his second win.

Kucks spaced seven Senator hits and was aided by five double plays, four of them by the combination of Gil McDougald, Jerry Lumpe, and Bill Skowron. Hank Bauer and Yogi Berra blasted homers for the Bombers.

Ken Boyer and Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell combined talents to gain a 5-3 Cardinal win over the Cincinnati Reds last night.

Boyer drove in four of the five Card runs on a first-inning homer with two on, and a seventh-inning single. Mizell gave up six hits before veteran reliefer Ellis Kinder took over. No Cardinal pitcher has pitched a complete game this season.

Inclement weather caused the postponement of the Boston- Baltimore game in the American league. In the National league Milwaukee-Chicago, New York-Pittsburgh, and Brooklyn-Philadelphia, were called off.

K-State Baseballers Defeated 19-1 by KU

The K-State baseball team absorbed a 19-1 defeat at the hands of the Kansas university Jayhawks yesterday in Lawrence.

After registering a 2-1 win Monday, the Cats couldn't seem to get rolling as KU hurler Ron Wiley held them to three hits.

KU hitting barrages in the first, third, eighth and ninth innings blasted three Wildcat pitchers from the mound.

Wiley went all the way for the Jayhawks and pitched shutout ball until the ninth inning when K-State scored on an error. He also added to the KU cause by hitting two home runs and two singles.

K-State now has a 3-4 mark and a 1-3 Big Seven record. The Jayhawks boast an 8-1 won-lost record and stand 1-1 in Big Seven competition.

K-State will host Missouri here Friday and Saturday in their next Big Seven encounters.

Liquor Flows As Limeys, Ruskies Toss a Wild One

Compiled from the United Press
By HARRY MACHIN JR.

LONDON, (U.P.)—Diplomats said they had never seen anything like it. Neither had the staid Claridges hotel, the regal resting place of visiting royalty.

Vodka and wine bottles crashed to the floor. Platters of caviar and smoked salmon were trampled underfoot. Champagne and smoked oysters ruined women's gowns.

Some women were pinned against the walls. Others jumped on tabels and chairs to escape the crush. One woman fainted and had to be carried out.

It was the Soviet Embassy reception last night for Nikita Khrushchev and Nikolai Bulganin and it developed into a vodka, champagne and caviar scrimmage with 1,500 persons jammed into Claridges ballroom.

A perspiring official of the foreign office said "Anglo-Soviet relations never had been quite so close as this."

The bald head of Dr. Hewlett Johnson, the "Red Dean" of Canterbury, could be seen above the pushing and shoving crowd as he joined in singing "for he's a jolly good fellow" to the visiting Russians.

Burly Soviet bodyguards and men from Scotland yard shoved back ambassadors and ministers and members of Parliament and their wives. Occasionally they formed a flying wedge to give the Russians breathing space.

Bulganin and Khrushchev were jammed against a wall, their faces gleaming with sweat. Khrushchev grinned and chattered to the crowd around him. Bulganin looked bewildered and very tired.

The gold and white grand ballroom and its anterooms covering an area the size of a football resembled just that—a football field.

At one point Khrushchev surveyed the throng pushing in on him and cried out, "We have fallen into a storm and we have lost our vodka."

A few moments later he spotted Prime Minister Anthony Eden wearing a red geranium in his lapel and asked "what's that?"

Eden told him it was for a collection to aid the blind and Khrushchev said, "Oh, we have those too. We call them 'daisy days'."

Inside the sedate ballroom it looked like bargain day at Macy's basement. Outside it looked like a world premiere. Lines of persons ten deep stretched for a block.

Security precautions went out the window. The Russian body guards were swamped. At one point British foreign minister Selwyn Lloyd and H. B. Kerby, a Russian-speaking parliament member, came to the rescue.

They ran interference for Bulganin and Khrushchev the full length of the ballroom where Khrushchev spotted actor Charlie Chaplin and invited him to Russia.

France Gets War Threat

CAIRO, EGYPT—Algerian nationalists threatened today to carry their North African warfare into "France itself."

The statement came from Algerian nationalist leader Ferhat Abbas who said he was proposing negotiations between France and the "Algerian liberation front" aimed at winning independence for Algeria.

If France refuses, he said, "all North African liberation forces will intensify the war and carry it into France itself."

Abbas is a former member of the Algerian assembly. He came to Cairo last week with three other Nationalist representatives seeking Arab support for the Algerian Moslem's fight against France.

Farm Fight Narrows

WASHINGTON—The Democratic-Republican farm fight narrowed in Congress today to a struggle over President Eisenhower's plan to pay farmers this year for next year's cutback in crops.

In the House both sides pushed rival soil bank bills that differed mainly on this point.

In the Senate, where members awaited the outcome of the House contest, an appropriations subcommittee called agriculture secretary Ezra T. Benson for probable questioning on the issue.

publican pre-payment plan was a GOP effort to buy farmers' votes in the coming election. Republicans countered that Democratic delay in enacting the President's soil bank left no choice.

'56 Seniors Need X-Rays—Lafene

Graduating seniors are requested to have chest X-Rays taken during the afternoons of April 25 and 26.

X-Rays are not required for graduation. However, they are a service Student Health offers, Dr. Benjamin Lafene, director of student health, said.

They are offered because it is good health practice to know the state of health of the lungs.

Second, many industries require a report of the condition of a prospective employee's lungs.

Third, many requests come in from the individual, insurance companies, etc., for reports on the condition of a person's lungs at the time of graduation. This could be information that an individual would need badly in future years, Lafene said.

Frosh Orientation Leaders Requested

Student leaders are now being selected for fall freshman orientation.

Students who are interested in helping with the orientation program should turn their names into the Dean of Students' office before Tuesday, May 1.

Orientation week is planned to acquaint the new students with college life and activities.

Student leaders welcome th new students and help them to become acquainted with the campus during orientation week. next fall.

Fall '55 Collegian Is All-American

Kansas State Collegian

VOLUME LXII Kansas State College, Manhattan, Kansas, Thursday, April 26, 1956 NUMBER 130

Finally Over

Kefauver, Luce Get Nod as Bovinian MPC Candidates

An upset in voting last night gave Senator Estes Kefauver from Tennessee the necessary 625 votes on the seventh ballot to become the Bovinian party's candidate for United States president.

Clare Booth Luce won the nomination for vice president on the first ballot with 649 votes. She needed only 619 votes to win.

Kefauver, a dark horse candidate, polled only two states and a territory on the first ballot.

New York proved to be the deciding factor in the convention. Giving their votes to Kefauver assured him of the necessary 625 votes.

A poll of New York delegates was called for and taken. The two-thirds necessary for voting were present, and a majority favored Kefauver.

The Midwestern bloc, composed of Indiana, Illinois, and Iowa, also swung to Kefauver.

On the seventh ballot, Kefauver won with 625 votes, the exact number needed. Johnson had 450 votes, and Eisenhower trailed along with 172.

As announcement of the winner was made, the Texas state delegation chairman said, "Kefauver went in but we'll stick by Johnson all the way." This indicated their desire to get a vice presidential candidate.

The Wisconsin chairman said, "We'll follow Ike throughout."

West Virginia refused to back Clare Booth Luce for vice president and walked out of the convention.

The upset came when Wyoming, Maine, and Connecticut switched their votes to Kefauver after they were assured that New York had done so. From then on Kefauver was favored.

Johnson, from Texas, was supported by the Solid South and New Mexico, Ohio, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands.

Eisenhower supporters included California, Colorado, and Kansas. New York, Maine, Connecticut, and Wyoming had supported Eisenhower since the second ballot but made the deciding switch to Kefauver on the seventh ballot.

Vice presidential nominations were made and voted upon in less than an hour. Mrs. Luce won with 649 votes, 30 more than needed.

Other vice presidential candidates were Johnson, who received 428 votes; Nixon, 112; Dewey, 32; Truman, 14; and Symington, 0.

Excited politicians demonstrated in the aisles of the convention hall upon hearing the results of the vice-presidential balloting, but demonstrations were much milder than they had been earlier in the evening.

Dan Farrell, PrL Jr, coordinator of the convention, presented gavels to Tom Bowman, permanent chairman, and Mel Baughman, temporary chairman in appreciation for their work. The gavels resembled those given to the keynote speakers, Chester Merrow and David Bunn.

The largest crowd of spectators sat in on final convention proceedings last night. More order prevailed as delegates seemed eager to cast the final ballot on presidential candidate.

The first ballot cast Tuesday night showed 11 nominees in the race. Johnson led with 417 votes, followed by Luce, 198; Eisenhower, 186; Stevenson, 182; Leader, 84; Dewey, 76; Morse, 70; Williams, 58; Kefauver, 46; Case, 38; and Symington, 32.

Case dropped out on the third ballot, and the race showed Kefauver ahead with 510 votes. Eisenhower had 426, and Johnson trailed with 404.

Johnson led on the fifth ballot with 447. Kefauver polled 438, and Eisenhower, 350.

The sixth ballot showed Johnson still ahead with 486. Kefauver had 438 votes, and Eisenhower had 356.

On the seventh ballot enough changing of votes was done to assure the Kefauver faction of a victory. Kefauver backers then supported Mrs. Luce for vice president.

Wednesday's session opened with demonstrations by supporters of the three candidates. The Kefauver group had the largest demonstration, stretching single file around the balcony of the convention hall.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES—sporting the name of the candidate that later won the nomination, Kefauver fans wait for the last session of the Mock Political convention to convene.

Poll Rates Collegian One of Nine Highest

The fall 1956 Collegian, edited by Gary Swanson, was one of nine college dailies picked by Associated Collegiate Press as all-American college newspapers.

Swanson was a big smile with feet when he heard the news that the Collegian scored 1,765 of a possible 1,800 points.

"Since early last summer, our goal for the fall Collegian was to put out an all-American. To put it mildly, we are glad we made it," Swanson said.

"All the credit goes to a hardworking staff headed by Darrel Miller, the composing and press rooms, K-State students, and several long-suffering wives. Back of everything is the high quality instruction we get in the department," he said.

ACP Judge G. D. Hiebert complimented the Collegian on rapid improvement.

"I think that the Collegian has shown up a lot better than it did last year—your coverage is better, photos more descriptive, and writing more readable," Hiebert said.

The last All-American Collegian was the spring semester issue of 1951-52. Phil Meyer was editor then.

Gary Swanson

The Collegian got bonus points above a perfect rating for creativeness in human interest features, for headline writing, and for photography.

"Bouquets for an outstanding variety of student life features. . . I thought, in this connection, that the Christmas shopping edition was excellent," Hiebert said.

"You had some headline writers with a spark of humor, and cleverness as their goal," he said. "You did a superior job of using pictures in feature series, such as pages 8 and 9 of the Christmas shopping edition. Those were good action photos," he said.

Hiebert also complimented the Collegian on "good, crisp, clear writing—brief enough to fit" the tabloid size. He also complimented the paper on its makeup and good use of white space.

President McCain congratulated last fall's staff. "I offer the entire staff my heartiest congratulations—I'm sure this recognition was richly deserved. It seems to me that the Collegian deserves special credit for its thoughtful effort to stimulate student interest in public affairs and for its various 'crusades' undertaken to improve our College community."

Prof. Ralph R. Lashbrook, journalism department head, said "Editor Gary Swanson and all members of the fall Collegian staff are to be congratulated for bringing this honor to Kansas State college.

"The planning and hard work of many students go into the production of the Collegian. Many times their efforts are not fully appreciated on the campus," he said.

"The K-State Press also deserves credit for providing facilities which made it possible to produce a paper that was typographically superior.

"The Collegian now has joined the Royal Purple in making an all-American combination which reflects credit on the department of journalism and on the entire College," he concluded.

Confab Emotion High; Ends in 'Hangovers'

All the emotions, hustling, shouting and figuring of a national convention were present for the three-day mock political convention for the Bovinian party, although many knew they would be "hungover" with sore throats and lagging studies.

The atmosphere of "Convention Hall" at Ahearn field house fell from its previous state of uproar to a hall of silence last night when Kay Eplee, chairman of the New York delegation, cast the deciding ballots for Estes Kefauver, presidential candidate.

Charles Goetzinger, convention parliamentarian, who was national chairman of a similar convention at Purdue as a graduate assistant, said he thought the Bovinian was more impressive than Purdue's.

Nearly all felt the Convention was a big success.

"I have never been to a national convention, and now I want to see the real thing more than ever," one spectator said.

"What impressed me most is the seriousness with which the delegates debate points and conduct their business. I think they are all learning a lot," another stated.

Feeling ran high as one delegate was reported to have been booted out of the Convention for slugging another in a heated argument.

'Panhel' Teas Scheduled for Next Saturday

Independent girls may register today and tomorrow in the Student Union lobby for Panhellenic teas May 5.

The teas are designed to give girls a chance to tour the sorority houses and to meet sorority girls.

"Panhellenic teas are not necessarily a prerequisite to rush week," said Chairman Connie Taylor, EEd Soph. "Girls who don't go to the teas may attend rush week. Girls who attend the teas need not go through rush."

The girls visit sororities in four groups. Both freshman and upperclass girls may attend.

Married Students Lower Standard of Living—Prof

By Ann Weathers

ATTENTION all married students. How compatible are you? How do you live and pay for school at the same time? Or do you?

A professor of sociology at the University of North Carolina, when expounding on the facts of college married life, wisely refused to take a pro or con position of the advisability of marriage during college.

He did say that divorce statistics indicate campus marriages are far below the national divorce rate average, which would indicate a high degree of compatibility betwen student couples. As to the all-important question of what do they live on, the good professor says it's simple. They simply lower their standard of living.

Shades of Fearless Fosdick! The recipe for rotten rice has leaked out.

●

A GROUP OF nurses at the University of Pennsylvania wrote this semi-original gem well worth repeating on "What Is a College Boy?"

"A college boy is laziness with peach fuzz on its face, idiocy with lanolin on its hair, and the 'Hope of the Future' with an overdrawn bank book in its pocket.

"A college boy is a composite. He has the energy of a Rip Van Winkle, the practicality of a Don Quixote, the kindness of a Marquis de Sade, the aspirations of a Casanova and when he wants something, it is usually money.

"HE LIKES good liquor, bad liquor, cancelled classes, double features, Playtex ads, and girls on football weekends. He is not much for hopeful mothers, irate fathers, sharp-eyed ushers, campus guards, alarm clocks or letters from the dean.

"A college boy is a magical creature. You can lock him out of your heart but not out of your bank account. You can get him off your mind, but you can't get him off your expense account. He is a no-account, girl-chasing bundle of worry. But when you come home at night with only the shattered pieces of hope and dreams, he can make them seem mightily insignificant with those four magic words: 'I flunked out, Dad'."

●

SAE FRATERNITY pledges at Iowa State had a veritable field day recently, romping through six sorority houses swiping trophies and toilet seats (odd tastes these boys have) while most of the residents were out of the houses.

The toilet seats were all returned modestly enough—after hours—and the next day the sororities received formal apologies over the phone. One can almost see the actives waiting behind the pledges, poised for action as soon as the phone was hung up.

●

BAYLOR USES a "big and little sister" idea to help get freshmen girls oriented more easily. A sign was posted recently which stated, "Sign up here if you want a little sister next year." One student paused for a moment, thoughtfully signed the sheet, then innocently added, "Is this really the way you get them?"

●

MORAL TRAGEDY dedicated to K-State's civil engineering students:

"His life's work was in ruins. He had been a progressive young civil engineer, but this would ruin him. His latest project a million-dollar bridge, almost completed, had collapsed and lay in a hopeless tangle of steel in the river. There he stood, gazing at his broken bubble of hope, his crumpled dream castle. "Darn," said Tex, "I thought that decimal point was a flyspeck."

●

IT'S EASY TO understand how colleges get so many professors like the one who was asked to give the story of his life and began, "In the beginning, I created the heavens and the earth. . .", when you consider some of the standards set up for and by teachers.

A PTA member recently got up in arms over this collection of first grade papers:

On one paper, all the sevens were written backwards. On another, three plus six made eight and two plus three made six. On still another, the word "truck" had emerged as "truk," "trains," and "trimms."

All the papers had been marked "perfect" by the teachers.

We know teacher's salaries aren't very attractive, but "what we'd like to no is how peeple expect we college stoodents to be edjucated after preliminairy training like that."

MPC Managers Say

Wrong Candidate Selected But Convention Successful

By CAROLYN LUSK

"THE WRONG candidate was selected, but the convention as a whole was very sucessful and I believe everyone learned a lot," Bill Setzekorn, Ar 03, organizer and chairman of the Eisenhower candidate club, said.

An Eisenhower club was organized because K-State is primarily a Republican campus, and because Setzekorn said he felt that Eisenhower was the best candidate for the job.

Supporters weren't hard to find. However, since all states of the union were represented, the states tried to act as they felt actual natives of the state they represented would. People supporting Eisenhower were delegates from states which would support him nationally, he said.

"WE WERE in a unique position having the only Republican candidate to compete against two Democrats," he said. In our original campaign, we decided upon Eisenhower for President and Luce for vice-president." We felt that Luce had a better chance to get the vice-presidency if we switched to Kefauver than if we stayed with Ike and died with him. It came close to a party split though, he added.

"I want to thank all Eisenhower backers for their help and support in the convention," Setzekorn said.

Kefauver Fans Ran A Clean Campaign

By GARY YEAKLEY

ESTES KEFAUVER, the Tennessee Senator chosen Presidential candidate by the Bovinian party, was backed by Jane Wilkinson, who started the Kefauver Club and took her candidate through the Mock Political convention to victory.

Kefauver was carried by two states and a territory on the first ballot. On the seventh ballot the dark horse candidate landslided the 625 ballots needed for nomination.

Kefauver, Stevenson, and Symington were the three considered by the league for their support. "We ruled Johnson out for several reasons," Miss Wilkinson said, "mainly because he favored segregation."

"We made a clean campaign," she said, "and took part in no deals before the convention."

The convention, she said, shows what students can do if they are given the opportunity.

Poll Shows

K-Staters Believe Political Convention Was Beneficial to Themselves, K-State

By JIM BELL

K-Staters agree that the Mock Political Convention was beneficial—to themselves, and to K-State.

Comments by those interviewed touched on the convention's educational value, the spirit generated, and the entertainment provided.

● BOB JEPSON, BA Sr—"I was passed as first vice-chairman for the Collegiate Republican Federation of Kansas. But here I played the role of Democrat and backed Estes Kefauver all the way. I'm still a staunch Republican at heart.

● FRED H. WOODBURY, AA Sr—"It is probably the most spirit I've ever seen at Kansas State. If it carries over into next fall, we'll probably have a winning football team."

● JOANNE FRANCISCO, HEN Fr—"I think it has been a most wonderful thing for Kansas State spirit, and it has created interest in government on our campus.

● JACKIE SWANSON, MEI Jr—"It's one of the most wonderful events we've had on campus. Not only entertaining, but educational."

● BOB HEDRICK, ME Jr — "It showed a great deal of interest in this nation's politics. I only hope the students show as much interest in the national elections."

● DALE NORDSTROM, CE Fr—"I think it's a good deal. It should be made an annual affair at K-State."

● LARRY ANDRES, PrL Fr—"It's been very educational for me. I think it's good for the College—it helps raise the spirit of the students and brings them closer together. I believe it teaches them what's going on in politics, too."

● BETTY ARTLEY, BA Fr—"It's really been a lot of fun. MPC has room for improvement, but it was a big success for its first year."

● HOWARD WEST, AH Fr—"This Mock Political convention is a very educational thing. Every student who possibly could, should participate in it."

● FRAN FRANTZ, EEd Fr—"I thought, as a whole, that the convention was a wonderful thing. I think it was very educational. I learned a lot about politics that I would never have learned from reading a text book. I was very glad to see Kefauver win it."

● DON LATTER, Sp Jr—"I've been on a roving mike all the way through all four sessions of the Convention. I've never seen more spirit in my three years at K-State than I've witnessed in the last three days. I think it's great."

● GRACENE FLOTTMAN, MEI Soph —"I feel as though my time has not been wasted—even though Kansas State students let their favorite son down."

● KENTON GRABER, Chm Gr—"It looks as if there's lots of enthusiasm over it."

● SHIRLEY GARRISON, HT Jr—"I found the convention very interesting, but I think that Kansas State should have backed Ike."

● DAN HAHN, Ar 01—Regardless of how it turned out, I feel that it is the best thing that has ever happened to Kansas State. I stand solidly behind the idea of having one the next time we have an election."

'South Will Rise,' Johnson Fans Say

By JUDIE ROSS

"THE SOU'H will ris' ag'in," and "Lyndon Johnson" have been the cries of the MPC Southern delegation led by Steve Weckel.

Weckel has been in on the ground floor of the convention and one of the original promoters of the solid South.

The South considered that Lyndon Johnson was the best possible candidate because he is acceptable not only to the South but to the Northern States besides, Steve asserted.

"WE'VE BEEN meeting as a group since a week before Easter. Here we made plans for our confederate hats and flags. We subscribed to the Richmond Times Dispatch so that we would completely be informed on how the South really felt about the various campaign issues," he said.

"As far as I'm concerned, this convention has been the biggest, most well-organized, most educational and most enjoyable thing I've ever seen since I've been at K-State," he added.

SCREAMS FOR KEFAUVER—"New York," passing during a roll-call vote to deliberate and poll the delegation, made its grand re-entry into the MPC in Ahearn Field House after other votes had been cast, gave Kefauver its 96-vote support, and his fans a reason to yell.

THEY STILL LIKE IKE—"California" delegates head a demonstration early in the convention.

SOUTHERN BLOC members supporting Lyndon Johnson close their eyes in hope, then despair, as "New York" delegations chairman reads ". . . casts 96 votes for Kefauver."

DIABOLICAL PLOT? No, a balloon-supported "Ike" poster.

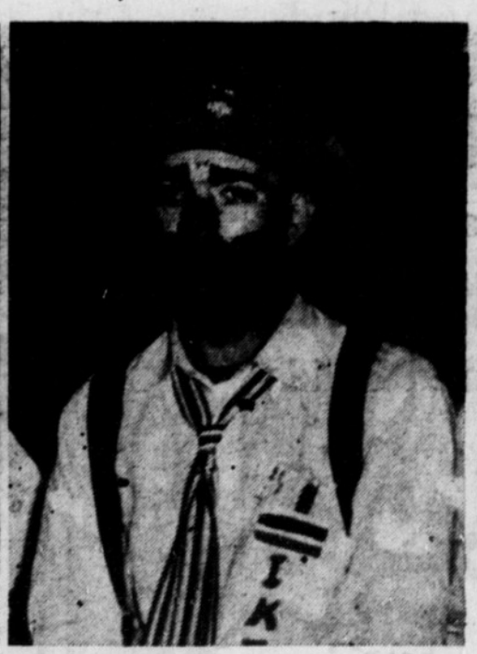

COLOR WAS ADDED by individuals on catwalks 60 feet above the floor, who, when not dodging sergeants-at-arms, dropped confetti at the slightest provocation.

Celtic Star Ernie Barrett Returns to Alumni Position

Corner-shot artist, Ernie Barrett

By PAUL BOCQUIN

Ernie Barrett, a 6-3 corner-shot artist who brought fame and fortune to K-State in 1951 with his inspiring brand of basketball, is back on the campus following a season of professional basketball with the Boston Celtics.

Barrett has resumed his duties as assistant alumni secretary and is also working towards a master's degree in radio and journalism.

Since graduation, Barrett has been in the air force where he played 125 games, his team losing only 11. Since his discharge, he has played two seasons with the Celtics.

This year, the Celtics won 2d place in the eastern division of the National Basketball association.

"I've grown up with basketball," Ernie said. "In fact I started playing in the 4th grade at Wellington." His father had wanted him to play baseball but Ernie stuck with basketball because it was his favorite sport.

While in high school at Wellington, Barrett lettered three years in basketball and earned all-state honors in his senior year by leading his team to the 1947 state high school tourney championship.

After high school Ernie almost decided to go to Oklahoma A&M but former K-State coach, Jack Gardner, and Tex Winter, then assistant coach, convinced him he should keep his ball playing abilities in his home state.

During his three years on the K-State varsity, Ernie scored 675 points. In his senior year he captained the 1951 Wildcats to a Big Seven championship.

Barrett's ability to pull a ball game out of the fire with one of his "corner specials" made him a constant threat on any floor against any team.

In the '51 K-State-KU battle at Lawrence, Ernie hit a field goal with 20 seconds to go, putting the Wildcats ahead by one point. Hoot Gibson then widened the victory margin by adding two last-second free-throws.

Barrett was an all-Big Seven guard choice in 1951 and was nominated for all-American honors. He played in the East-West game and was voted outstanding player in the Chicago Herald-American benefit game between the College All-Stars and the professional champions when he scored 17 points.

Ernie played 14 exhibition games with the College All-Stars that summer in the annual tour against the Harlem Globe Trotters.

During the past season, Barrett has played in 101 games with the Celtics, including 79 league games and 22 exhibitions.

"I think Tex Winter and Howie Shannon did a wonderful job with the team this year," Ernie said. "Their team spirit was exemplified by their willingness to work together. They also have some outstanding freshmen coming up."

Ernie recalls an embarrassing experience that occurred when the Celtics played the Philadelphia Warriors. "The game was nearly over and I tried to score two more points," he said.

"Being in a hurry, I overshot the basket. The ball landed in the balcony and one of the spectators grabbed it and ran out of the door."

Ernie's wife is the former Bonnie Frommer, also an ex-Kansas Stater. They have two sons, Duane, 3, and Brad, 8 months. They live at 1501 Jarvis Drive.

'Both Missouri Games Will Be Rough'—Wauthier

By LARRY McGHEE

Wildcat baseballers will play their first home games of the season against the Missouri Tigers at Griffith field Friday and Saturday and Cat Coach Ray Wauthier expects both games to be rough.

"You can take your pick between Missouri and Oklahoma U for Big Seven conference champs this year," he said. "Missouri has possibly the best team in the league."

The Tigers boast Norm Stewart on their pitching staff and Stewart is said to be the top hurler in the conference, Wauthier said. "However, he has never pitched against us so I have no idea as to what kind of stuff he has."

Dale Blume will start on the mound for the Cats Friday, and Dick Stone will get the starting nod for Saturday's duel.

Stone turned in a sparkling 4-hit performance against KU last Monday leading the Wildcats to a 2-1 victory and stopping the Jayhawk victory string at seven straight.

It was the first game he ever pitched in a K-State uniform and he did himself well striking out 10 and walking none.

The Cats have compiled an overall 3-4 record and are 1-3 in the Big Seven.

"We've been hitting the ball well, but we always hit it at someone," Wauthier said. "Our errors seem to come at the wrong time and have been costly, but we have been starting an all-sophomore infield, and the errors should decrease as the season progresses."

Wauthier said he didn't have any home run hitters and that the lineup was composed mostly of double and singles hitters.

Bobby Boyd, Wally Carlson, and Laverne Billinger have the power to hit the long ball though, he said.

The big mystery of the moment is the seeming jumble in the Wildcat infield. "Shortstop Warren Hackler will be replaced, third-baseman Paul Clark has a sore arm and I'm thinking about putting Jerry Hayes on second base," Wauthier said.

Wauthier declined to name any outstanding player but said Boyd was doing a good job at the plate and also in center field. Paul Clark at third base and Wally Carlson are hitting the ball hard all the time but they're all going at someone, he said.

"Everyone is doing a good job for us thus far."

Phi Kappas, Jr. Vets Clinch Softball Titles

Phi Kappa and Jr. AVMA cinched group intramural softball championships yesterday with wins over Beta Sigma Psi and House of Williams as regular season play ended.

In other games, Sigma Phi Epsilon and Sigma Alpha Epsilon tied for their group championship as did the Jones Boys and Signa Phi Nothing. The Hillbillys won over Wesley Foundation, but the game was protested, which, if sustained, will cause a tie for that group championship between those two teams.

Playoff games this afternoon will send Signa Phi Nothing against the Jones Boys at 5:15, military-E, and a Sig Ep-Sig Alph contest at an undetermined time and field.

Phi Kappa—4; Beta Sigma Psi—3.

Bob Schmidt pitched a one-hit game as two undefeated teams met for their group title. Phi Kappa pulled it out with two in the top of the final inning after trailing 3-2 as they went to bat. Pete Diamond with a triple, and Pachin Vicens and Bob Schmidt with doubles led the winners attack. Dick Frohberg was on the hill for Beta Sigma Psi.

Jr. AVMA—4; House of Williams—3.

Dane Buster kept Jr. AVMA out of the loss column by setting down House of Williams, 4-3. John Kuenzi and Lee Mills hit homers to spark the winner's attack. House of Williams rallied in the final frame for three runs after trailing, 4-0, but Buster got the side out to win the group title for his crew.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon—7; Sigma Nu—2.

Darwin Hester hurled a two-hitter for SAE as his team tied with the Sig Eps for their group title. Chad Simms hit a round-tripper to lead the Sig Alphs in a big four-run third inning. The win left Sigma Alpha Epsilon with a 3-1 record.

Sigma Phi Epsilon—6; Sigma Chi—3.

John McComb provided two-hit pitching and George Laddish the batting punch to lead the Sig Eps to a 6-3 win over Sigma Chi. The winners won it in the bottom of the final inning with three tie-breaking runs.

Signa Phi Nothing—12; Jones Boys—6.

Signa Phi Nothing avenged an earlier 2-5 loss at the hands of the Jones Boys with a 12-6 win that tied those two teams for their group championship with identical 3-1 records. Max Birtell and Danny Bassett led the winners at bat, while Arnold Hildebrand held the Jones Boys from the mound. Mackie Murphy led the Jones Boys to five final-inning runs in a vain attempt to overhaul an 11-run deficit.

Hillbillys—11,.. Wesley Foundation—5.

Wesley Foundation protested an 11-5 loss to the Hillbillys on the grounds of rules misinterpretation. If the protest is sustained by Frank Myers, Intramurals Director, the game will be played over. If the protest is not upheld, the Hillbillys will have won the group title outright—otherwise Wesley stands a chance to tie.

OK House—8; West Stadium—1.

Wayne Kincaid pitched OK House to their 8-1 win, with Neal Porter contributing a three-base knock to the OK House offense. OK House broke up an otherwise tight game with five runs in the second inning.

Alpha Tau Omega—8; Pi Kappa Alpha—5.

Lynn Graffel pounded out a 3-run home run in the last of the fourth inning to break up a 5-5 game and give the ATO crew the 8-5 win over PiKA. Alpha Tau Omega came from a 5-0 deficit in the third frame to tie, then won it in the fourth. John Burgess and Larry Youngdoff homered for Pi Kappa Alpha.

Wertz Blasts A's As Tribe Wins 5-2

By UNITED PRESS

Cleveland's Vic Wertz blasted a homer, double, and two singles in four trips to the plate last night to lead the Indians to a 5-2 triumph over the Kansas City Athletics.

Herb Score breezed to his first victory striking out eight batters and yielding only five hits.

The victory—their third in seven games—was especially important to the Indians because the Yankees rolled on to their seventh triumph in eight contests with a 4-2 verdict over the Baltimore Orioles.

The Yankees broke a 2-2 tie in the seventh inning when shortstop Willie Miranda threw wild on a potential inning-ending double play and added a cushion run for Whitey Ford when Hank Bauer followed with a triple.

The Red Sox, meanwhile, suffered their fourth straight loss when Pedro Ramos, who celebrates his 21st birthday Saturday, pitched a three-hitter to give the Washington Senators a 4-1 triumph.

In the National League, the Brooklyn Dodgers took over undisputed possession of first place for the first time this season when they beat the New York Giants, 7-2, in the campaign's first meeting of the arch-rivals. Carl Erskine pitched seven-hit ball for the Dodgers.

Harvey Haddix' two-hitter and Stan Musial's 540th double of his career sparked the St. Louis Cardinals to a 6-0 decision over the Chicago Cubs and Frank Thomas' single drove in the winning run in the seventh inning as the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 6-5, in other games.

Fashion Knowledge Is Indicated in Glove IQ

What is your glove I.Q.—not-so-good, average, or bordering on the superior?

Not-so-good would fit a person wearing gloves when taking refreshments. Gloves should be shed before eating, whether it be tea or dinner. A costume can be ruined as easily as it can be improved by the addition of gloves.

If you are in the majority and are guilty of wearing white gloves to events other than church, weddings, or formal evening affairs, average would be your category. When going to a dance, shedding gloves is purely optional, as is true when shaking hands.

Girls bordering on the superior are never seen with soiled, limp gloves and often have glove clips attached to their purses. A slight perfume addition on the inside of a glove gives a pleasing psychological effect as well as a pleasing personal effect.

Immaculate persons find laundering gloves with a soap and not a detergent, washing the glove on the hand, drying on a glove frame (avilable at many department stores), and then storing in a glove-size plastic bag is ideal for keeping them clean and wearable.

As for fashions, the shortie glove is again leading the parade in novelty and tailored styles. A variety of materials—from the textured appearance of cotton mesh or knit, to the satin-soft kid—are being shown in Manhattan stores.

Montgomery Police Demand City Buses Enforce Jim Crow

Compiled from United Press
By HARRY MACHIN JR.

MONTGOMERY, ALA. (U.P.) — City officials demanded today that the National City buslines enforce the local Jim Crow law or face court action that might affect desegregation moves across the South.

Mayor W. A. Gayle and police commissioner Clyde Sellers, both members of the segregationist white citizens council, called in bus company officials this morning to lay down an ultimatum.

Gayle, who already had ordered arrests of any actual violators of the segregation law, said the Chicago firm must restore its "color boards" separating Negroes from whites or lose its franchise."

B. W. Franklin, national vice-president, gave advance notice that his firm considers local Jim Crow outlawed by the Supreme court in nine segregated cities in which it operates transit lines.

The Negroes claimed the Supreme court gave them a victory in their demand for first-come, first-served seating but continued the boycott in an attempt to get Negro drivers for some bus routes.

A test of the effect of the Supreme court ruling outside of South Carolina, the only state directly involved, would affect the desegragation steps of National and other lines in at least 23 southern cities.

USAF Examines Crash

COUNCIL GROVE, KAN.—A board of air force officers today started an investigation of the crash of a giant KC-97 flying tanker which killed its crew of eight yesterday.

The big double-deck plane, one of the air force's largest, plunged into a Kansas wheat field in an inferno of flames. It had taken off from Forbes Air Force base near Topeka with gasoline in its tanks and 40 tons of jet fuel in its refueling tanks. It was assigned to the 90th Strategic Reconnaissance wing.

Keepin' Busy

Parade of Events To Precede Finals

With many campus organizational spring dinners, banquets, luncheons, other activities, and final examinations only 3 weeks away, K-State students find the rapidly approaching close of school ~~a~~ socially eventful one.

Already many campus organizations have held their annual spring events but many more are scheduled for May. Student activities begin May 1 with the annual K-Key dinner; open house at the K-State Union is May 6; an 'All Women's Day" will be held May 7; and the annual seniors honors assembly featuring Ralph Bunche as speaker will be May 8 in the College auditorium at 9:30.

Final exams for K-Staters begin May 21, and more than 700 students are expecting to receive degrees at the annual spring graduation exercises to be held at 2:30 p.m., Sunday, May 27, in Ahearn Fieldhouse.

The annual Kansas Association of Future Farmers of America convention is scheduled for April 30 and judging and farm mechanics contests will be May 1. The month will close with the annual state 4-H roundup. These opening and closing events of the month usually attract more than 1,200 Kansas young people to the K-State campus.

Highlighting the cultural calendar for May will be the combined observance of Music Week an dthe Mozart bicentennial, starting May 6. The week's program includes a concert by the A Cappella choir Sunday afternoon, May 6; College-civic orchestra concerts on Tuesday and Thursday nights, May 8 and 10; and a concert by the K-State band on Sunday afternoon, May 13.

Faculty Frolics Will Be Theme In Dive Tonight

"Faculty Frolics," theme of tonight's Dive night club dance, will feature a floor show by the K-State faculty.

Prof. Charles Goetzinger, department of speech, will be master of ceremonies. Prof. Earle Davis, head of the English department, will sing and play the piano. A faculty quartet will lend vocal talent. Members will be named later.

Harvey Haas and his band from Junction City will furnish the music.

Bill Bowman, chairman of the Dive committee, said the faculty is expressly invited to attend.

"Snows of Kilimanjaro" will be shown in the Little Theater Friday, Saturday, and Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Gavona Michaels Heads HE Council

Gavona Michaels, HT Jr, is the new president of the Home Economics Concil. Sylvia Gaddie, Clo Soph, is vice-president. Marilyn McNelis, EdN Jr, is secretary-treasurer.

Big Seven Panhellenic, IFC Convention Continues Today

Panhellenic and IFC convention for the Big Seven schools started yesterday in the Student Union at K-State. The convention will be concluded Saturday afternoon.

Registration for the convention began at 5 p.m. yesterday. President McCain was guest speaker at the banquet.

A general meeting started activities this morning at 9 a.m. Panhellenic Activities was the topic discussed by the Panhellenic group while the IFC group discussed IFC activities. Becky Culpepper, EEd Soph, and Richard Disney, NE Soph, were discussion leaders.

After a coffee break, the groups discussed rushing and the problems involved. Margie Lemon, BMT Jr; Joan Berrigan, Hst Jr; Dub Gunter, Sp Jr; and Bob McDowell, PsP Soph; acted as discussion leaders.

The convention will convene at 2 this afternoon in room 206 of the Student Union. Dean Wunderlich will speak at the joint meeting about scholarship. Following a coffee break the Panhellenic and IFC groups will discuss Greek function on campus and public relations. Sharon Diamond, Soc Jr; Delaine Smith, HEA Sr; Pat Wilkerson, BA Jr; and Leon Armantrout, Ar 04; will lead the discussion.

Horace B. Nichol, national IFC president, from New York will speak at the banquet in the West Ballroom of the Student Union at 6:30 p.m.

Saturday morning activities include Panhellenic and IFC discussion at 9 a.m. followed by a business meeting. The topic for the discussion groups will be Greek-Independent relations with Kathy Barton, ChW Jr; Gary Rumsey, AEd Soph; and Gene New, Ag Jr; acting as discussion leaders.

Charlene Bell, EEd Sr; and Virgil Wright, Sp Jr; are co-chairmen for the convention.

PR's Choose Stater As Honorary Colonel

Karen Andrews, EEd Jr, was "thrilled and happy, but mostly just surprised" when she was named honorary regimental commander and honorary cadet colonel by the 7th Regiment, Pershing Rifles.

In February Miss Andrews was chosen honorary cadet captain of the K-State Pershing Rifles. At the Pershing Rifles' 7th Regiment Assembly on the K-State campus last Friday and Saturday, she was named honorary regimental commander and honorary cadet colonel.

Miss Andrews' picture was selected from those of candidates in other 7th Regiment schools—Oklahoma A&M, Kansas university, Oklahoma university, Missouri School of Mines, University of Arkansas, Washington university of St. Louis, Wichita university, Arkansas State college, University of Texas, Hardin-Simmons university, and Ouachita Baptist college.

Her picture has been sent to compete with those of the eleven other regimental commanders for the honor of honorary national commander of Pershing Rifles. The honorary national commander will be announced within the next two weeks at a Pershing Rifles assembly on the campus of the University of Nebraska at Lincoln.

Miss Andrews is a counselor in Northwest hall, a member of FTA and YWCA. She attended KU her freshman year, and transferred to K-State last year. She plans to teach in the lower grades after graduation.

Engineers Name Council Choices During Assembly

Larry Rash, ME Jr, and Tom Schicktanz, ChE, were nominated for the presidency of the Engineering council yesterday.

Ron Bryant, ME Jr, and Gilbert Christopher, AgE Jr, were nominated for the vice-president position. Phyllis Shook, ArE Soph; Gary Galyardt, Ar 04; Lee Sinderson; and Louis Burmeister, ME Jr, for secretary.

Norman Benzinger, EE, and Darrell Brown, ME Soph, treasurer. Richard Weidler, ME Soph; Sam Warren, EE Soph; Lawrence Swanson, ME Soph; and Penn Morton, ME Soph, for junior representative. Tom Creech, ME Jr; Danny Burgess, AgE Jr; and Jerry Holliday, ArE Jr, open house manager.

Spring Degree Candidates Number 705

Nearly 750 names of candidates for degrees at spring commencement at K-State were announced yesterday by Ellsworth M. Geritz, director of admissions and registrar.

No formal address is planned for the commencement exercises because of the large number of degrees to be conferred. President James A. McCain will give the charge to the class, while a member of the Board of Regents will bring greetings from the Regents.

Readers Say

Reader Says Editor Bears Grudge Against the World

Dear Sir:

IN REFERENCE to your article on the Mock Political convention, I would like to say this. You sir, are a sore head and a cynic. It has been my experience in reading your publication that you bear a grudge against the world and seem to be intent on lowering the morale of the Kansas State college student body.

In the last few days, this Mock Political convention has reached a pitch of enthusiasm unequaled on this campus even during the Big Seven tournaments. And furthermore, the delegations, from the chairmen all the way down to the alternates, are dead serious about this whole affair. It is not the joke to them that it seems to you.

IN YESTERDAY'S article, you mentioned something to the effect that you would probably be called a Communist for your few "ill" chosen words on Delaware's candidate. I would not go so far as to call you a Communist, but I would certainly say that portions of your article were leaning strongly in that direction.

If you will remember, the delegation from Delaware and their candidate were out of order and were put down in accordance with the proper parliamentary procedure. You also said that there is no law in the United States which denies a man the right to speak his piece. This is correct to a certain extent. However, it is definitely against the law to preach violent overthrow of the government, which is exactly what the Communist party advocates.

THE ACTION of the chair, along with refusal of any other state to back Delaware's candidate, is a shining example of democracy at work. They stopped the Communist delegation in their tracks and showed by this action that a Red faction would not be accepted even in a Mock Political convention such as this.

The Collegian is supposed to be a student publication. Therefore, one would expect it to be a paper published by the students and for the students; but from the articles that appear within its pages, it would seem that this is a paper written by a small group of students and essentially for that same group.

THE EDITOR should pay more attention to the opinion of the majority of the student body and less attention to the few selfish cliques that have influence with certain members of the staff.

When a thing as big as this convention comes to our campus, it is the job of the school paper to get behind it and push it to the hilt regardless of personal feelings. Let's bring The Collegian up from the level of being merely an outlet for the mutterings of a few diehards and make it a publication the students can look to for advice and support of their ideas and ambitions.

Patrick Henry, Ag E Jr.

(Editor's note: Gee, I'm sorry, Patrick. We had hoped that students would appreciate the 297 column inches—3¾ pages without ads—that we devoted to the convention the first four days of this week. Not to mention all the nice things we said about the convention, and all we printed last week.)

Keep Off Grass?

Dear Editor,

WHAT IS ALL this Mickey Mouse about campus beautification? Why contend that students should keep off the grass when there obviously is none on this campus?

Everybody knows the axiom about a straight line being the shortest distance between two points. What K-State needs is more sidewalks!

And as for extravagance, that plot in front of Anderson takes a prize! It is probably the best watered, most thoroughly fertilized weed patch in existence to say nothing of the hours of labor required to keep those dandelions looking green.

It seems to me that those dollars could very well pave our way.

KS Should Sponsor The Mock Olympics

Dear Sir:

THE MOCK Political convention taught us all a very important fact—it is more fun to play than to work. During the Mock Political convention we rediscovered pleasures that we had forgotten since the teddy bears and dolls of our childhood.

What a wonderful learning experience. I think we are making a big mistake if we wait four years for a similar experience. Therefore, I would like to propose that Kansas State college sponsor very soon some Mock Olympic games. In these games the various organizations on the campus could represent the various countries of the world. These people could dress in the native costumes of the country they represent. What an opportunity to create understanding of the other peoples of the world.

THE MOCK Olympics would not only increase our knowledge of other lands, but it would also teach us more about sports. Sports are an integral part of the American way of life and each citizen should understand them. Just imagine the interest that would develop in bodily self-improvement during these games. Possibly we could have Charles Atlas as a special guest of the College at this time.

The Mock Olymic games could last for a week and include a big parade, at least one magnificent Olympic ball, banquets, and all kinds of sporting events. As the students of the campus work together on these games, differences of fraternities and sororities will soon be forgotten and all will work together as a unified student body. What publicity for K-State.

A FINAL advantage in the Mock Olympic games would be given to those who organize the whole business. This would give them practical experience in planning and organization.

For all students who participate, it will be a wonderful outlet for their spare time and excess energies.

Please, someone start the snowball rolling.

For a greater K-State,
Ross Miller, MEI Sr.

Presley's 'Heartbreak Hotel' Still Leads Manhattan's Top Ten Record Parade

By CLANCY SLOAN

"HEARTBREAK Hotel," by Elvis Presley still leads this week's top ten tune parade. Closely following is Don Cherry's "Wild Cherry." Results of this week's survey of the top records in Manhattan are:

1—"Heartbreak Hotel," Elvis Presley
2—"Wild Cherry," Don Cherry
3—"Ivory Tower," Cathy Carr
4—"Moonglow," Richard Dunning
5—"Blue Suede Shoes," Carl Perkins
6—"Theme from 'Golden Arm'," Elmer Bernstein
7—"A Tear Fell," Theresa Brewer
8—"Without You," Eddie Fisher
9—"Lovely One," Four Voices
10—"Forever Darling," Ames Brothers

NEW DISKS picked to be hits include:

● "The Happy Whistler," Dinning and Robertson

● "Walk Hand in Hand," Tony Martin

● "Delila Jones," McGuire Sisters.

New albums this week include another in the group of popular mood music by the Melachrino Strings called "Soft and Sweet."

A new jazz album called "Lighthouse at Laguna," stars Rumsey's Lighthouse all-stars, the Hampton Hawes trio, and Shelly Mann on drums, in an interesting jam session.

A NEW VICTOR release is "Sarah Vaughn in the Land of Hi-Fi." Some good material in this one is belted out in the Vaughn style.

Eddie Fisher's new album is a collection of the academy award-winning songs from 1934-1954. It's worth a few good memories, but you will find that the movie-going public's taste in song has changed considerably.

Capital has released one called "Miss Show Business," referring of course to Judy Garland. Don't be surprised if you find your eyes misting a little at this one. Songs like "Over the Rainbow" and "The Trolley Song" bring back memories.

A NEW SINGLE by the Honeydreamers on Camden is called the "Campus Rock." It describes a new dance routine, and may be just wild enough to catch on.

Golfers, Netmen Will Meet Iowa State Cyclones Today

GETTING A FEW tips from tennis coach Karl Finney are (left to right) Dick Circle and Bob Hansen. (2nd row) Bob Alley, Don Wainscott, and Kieth Andler. The netmen take on the Iowa State Cyclones today and Omaha university netmen tomorrow. The Cats will be shooting for their third win of the season in the Iowa State contest.

Action will be hot and heavy on the tennis courts and the Manhattan Country club golf course this week end as K-State racqueteers and linksmen compete against Iowa State and Omaha U.

The netmen now have a 2-2 won-loss record and one tie. Last Saturday they defeated the Wichita U Wheatshockers six matches to one.

The Wildcats dropped their last encounter with the Cyclones at Ames last year, but matches were close, according to Tennis coach Karl Finney. The match was decided by the last doubles game, he said.

"It's hard to predict what the outcome of this match will be, but it's just about a certainty that Iowa State will be rough," Finney said.

Finney plans to use Bob Hansen, Dick Circle, John Deam, Keith Andler, and Don Wainscott in the Wildcat victory attempt. Bob Alley will be available for duty if any of the top five are unable to play.

While the Cat tennis team is tackling their Big Seven opponents on the courts, the golf team will be seeking to rack up a win for K-State against the Iowans.

After their 15½-2½ loss to the perenially strong Oklahoma Aggies last week, the Cats will be trying to make a better impression in the Iowa State contest.

The four-man golf team will be composed of Ron Young, David Smith, Jerry Smith, and Joe Downey.

Coach Mickey Evans says, "Iowa State usually has a strong team and they'll probably give us stiff competition."

Landy Eyes New Mark

Melbourne, Australia, (U.P.)—Track champion John Landy hinted today he hopes to top his own world's record of 3:58 for the mile during his coming tour of the United States.

All Landy would say specifically is that he expects to cover the distance in "around four minutes." But he told newsmen here that "I'm a lot better runner now than when I posted my world record time."

Mantle Takes Tip To Improve Batting

By OSCAR FRALEY

A tip from Ted Williams has Mickey Mantle finally living up to his buildup today.

Mickey knocked the cover off the ball as advertised—when he hit it. He powered a 565-foot home run at Washington in 1953 which was one of the classic belts of all time. But Mickey simply didn't connect with the expected frequency.

Chronologically, since he burst on the major league scene after a brief apprenticeship at Independence, Joplin and Kansas City, he attained batting averages of .267, .311, .295, .300 and .306. These are not averages which are calculated to make the great batsmen run for cover.

This spring, the old maestro, Ted Williams, took Mickey aside and advised him on the technicalities involved.

"Ted said I'd have to learn that strike zone," Mickey admits. "It took a while to sink in, because I'd been helping the pitchers by swinging at a lot of wild pitches."

"I realized I'd have to cut my strikeouts down terrifically," he says. "Hitting at pitches inside the strike zone was the answer."

He showed the old power with his two home runs at Washington in the season's inaugural. But more important to the Yankees is the fact that he's making the pitchers come "in there" before he bites.

Thinclads to Colorado, Drake; Baker To Run at Colorado

You can't blame Ward Haylett if he dreams of Dr. Frankenstein.

The longtime Kansas State track coach faces the unique enimga of seeing a star he helped create come back to fight his Wildcats for track honors.

The K-State mile-relay team, biggest Wildcat hope in Saturday's Colorado Relays, will run against the Lockbourne Air Force Base team anchored by Thane Baker.

A three-time Big Seven sprint champion while running for K-State, Baker set a new world mark in the 300-yard dash last week end in the Ohio Relays. He will have another shot at the records Saturday since the Colorado event has been opened to service teams.

If Haylett had any ideas on how to beat Baker's team—and he admits none—they would be shattered by the news that the Lockbourne mile-relay quartet also contains Willie Williams, Illinois star who was the only man to beat Baker in the 100-yard dash during the K-State sprinter's senior year.

"I am not certain who Lockbourne's other two team members will be," Haylett said, "but it doesn't matter. Baker, Williams, and two fat men could win."

The Wildcat coach will take a troop of 14 men to the Colorado Relays at Boulder, sending seven other K-State thinclads to the simultaneous Drake Relays at Des Moines.

Best bet at the Drake meet, Haylett reasons, is Gene O'Connor in the 400-meter hurdles.

The Hoisington sophomore has gone undefeated through four major relays this season, climaxing his efforts with a 52.2 clocking in the long-distance timbers in the KU Relays last Saturday. This is the nation's best time this season.

Even so, the K-State coach sees a cloud on the horizon. Dave Lean, Australian ace now running for Michigan State, is entered at Drake. Lean's marks in early-season competition and his rapid improvement show him as O'Connor's biggest competitor.

K-State entries in the Drake Relays will be Gary Doupnik, Gene O'Connor, Ray Russell, and Mike Cornett in the shuttle-hurdle relay; Paul Miller and Joe Lindenmuth in the polevault; Joe Powell in the javelin; and O'Connor and Russell in the 440-yard hurdles.

Colorado Relays entries are Jerry Sartorius, Bobby Jones, Dolan McDaniel, and Marvin Chiles in the 440 and 880-yard relays; Sartorius, Henry Renollet, McDaniel, and Chiles in the mile relay; Renollet, Hubert Guest, Glen Taplin, and Jesse Unruh in the distance medley.

Terry Turner, Whitney Hicks, Lawrence Brady, and Guest in the two-mile relay; Kenny Nesmith and Ray Beikman in the broad jump; Chiles and McDaniel in the 100-yard dash; and Ralph Willard in the javelin and shotput.

Tribe Tomahawks A's; Baltimore Beats Yanks

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer

The Cleveland Indians boast the most effective keystone combination in the American league today for the first time since Lou Boudreau and Joe Gordon sparked the Tribe to the 1948 pennant.

It's a neat switch, because for at least the last six years the Indians' most glaring weakness has been at the keystone. But now Al Lopez is chortling over his fine duo of Chico Carrasquel and Bobby Avila while his three main rivals—the New York Yankees, Chicago White Sox and Boston Red Sox—are wondering whether their combinations will do over the long haul.

The situation was dramatized yesterday when the Indians clobbered the Kansas City Athletics, 14-2, and the Yankees bowed to the Baltimore Orioles, 7-5 in the only games played.

Carrasquel, enjoying one of his best days as a major league hitter, blasted a grand slam homer and a bases-filled double to knock in seven runs yesterday while Avila weighed in with a three-run homer and drove in four runs. Vic Wertz, Al Rosen and Gene Woodling also had two hits each as the Indians breezed to their third straight victory behind Early Wynn's four-hitter.

The Yankees, meanwhile, surrendered first place to the idle White Sox when the Orioles rallied for five runs in the sixth inning. Pinch-runner Fred Marsh scored the run that put the Orioles in front when shortstop Jerry Lumpe threw wildly to first base. First-sacker Bill Showron was equally at fault for making a poor throw to Lumpe on what could have been an ining-ending double-play.

SAE Whips Sig Eps To Win Group Title

Baseball weather returned to the campus yesterday and six intramural softball teams took advantage of it to play off a postponed game, a tied game, and a group championship game to finish regular season play.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon—6
Sigma Phi Epsilon—3

Bob Merton hit a home run in the fourth inning to power the Sig Eps and win a group championship for his team.

The Alphs racked up 3 runs in the first inning, 1 in the third, and 2 more in the fourth. Darwin Hester pitched for the Alphs.

The Sig Eps made three runs in the first on the strength of a homer by Doug Roether and added another lone tally in the third on a homer by Don Upson.

Alpha Tau Omega—9
Theta Xi—7

Alpha Tau Omega slugged their way past Theta Xi on the strength of third inning home runs by Bruce Erwin and Bob Krizman. Erwin's circuit clout came with two on and Krizman's blast came with one on. George Hart was the winning pitcher.

Harold Whittaker pitched for Theta Xi and helped his own cause by hitting a grand slam home run in the first inning. Lowal Huddleston and Bill Stanners also hit homers.

Jones Boys—6
Signa Phi Nothing—3

Alvin Ballou tripled for the Jones Boys with the bases loaded in the second inning and Charles Hudson doubled to lead the Jones Boys stick men. John Boring pitched for the winners.

Signa Phi Nothing also went homerless as Larry Ball and Danny Bassett hit doubles. Arnold Hildebrand hurled 7-hit ball for SPN.

EUB Group Growing, Planning Own Center

A student center and minister are hopes of the new Evangelical United Brethren fellowship, organized at K-State this November, said Francis Reichart, president.

Reichart, chief organizer of the group, said the fellowship was organized because of interest shown by EUB preference students at a picnic this October. He said ntuil then EUB members had been joining other campus religious organizations because they had none of their own.

Since there were around 110 EUB preference students on campus, Reichart decided to get the fellowship underway. He is now studying agronomy, but plans to attend seminary this fall and do missionary work in Nigeria, Africa, after finishing.

Enough interest was shown by other students here that an organizational meeting was held this November to elect officers and select advisers. Officers other than Reichart are Warren Nichols, VM Soph, vice-president; Marjorie Hamon, HT Jr, secretary; Sally Anduss, treasurer; Dick Stirtz, Pys Sr, publicity; Kay Hofman, MEI Sr, music chairman; and Lynn Anduss, ArE Fr, RCC representative. Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Zachariah are advisers.

The parent group was formed by the merging of the Evangelical and the United Brethren churches. They are of German descent and spoke German in their sermons until about 10 years ago. The churches agreed to merge nationally in 1946; however, the EUB churches in Kansas will not be recognized as one officially until this May.

The EUB group meets every Sunday at 7 p.m. in Danforth chapel. Student leaders are in charge of the meetings except for one Sunday each month when a visiting pastor is in charge. They welcome all students to their meetings. Special fellowships are sometimes held in Rec center.

With the support of their conference, they hope to continue the new fellowship and have their own minister and student minister in the future. The conference will then plan for an EUB church in Manhattan.

"It's been a real challenge to get the group started, and I have gained much through the experiences I have had by being one of the group," Reichart said.

NEW RELIGIOUS GROUP—Officers of the Evangelical United Brethren student group organized last fall are Francis Reichart, Agr Sr, president; Warren Nichols, VM Soph, vice-president; and Dick Stirtz, Pys Sr, publicity chairman. The group was organized last fall, after 110 students signed EUB religious preference cards. Meetings of the EUB organization are held every Sunday at 7 p.m. at Danforth chapel. Student leaders are in charge of the group's meetings. The organization hopes to have a student center and a minister in the near future. The Evangelical United Brethren conference is supporting the students in their drive for a church in Manhattan.

A Campus-to-Career Case History

Dick Walsh (right) discussing carrier equipment which will provide many additional long distance circuits out of Philadelphia.

"There's opportunity in a growing company"

As an Engineer in the Transmission Section of Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania, Richard M. Walsh plans for the future.

"Our group's responsibility," says Dick, "is to see that we have sufficient facilities to handle present and future needs. Telephone usage is growing every year, and we keep up with this growth by keeping ahead of it.

"For instance, to meet the increasing demand for communication circuits in our area, we're adding 70,000 new channel miles this year alone, at a cost of $3,500,000. Laying new cable will give us 40,000 of those channel miles, and we'll get the other 30,000 through use of carrier equipment, which lets us send a number of long distance calls on each pair of wires simultaneously.

"Thus, though a cable might have only 300 pairs of wires, we can, with carrier, make it carry over 3000 telephone calls at one time. Using carrier equipment to get extra circuits out of cable—which is expensive to make and lay—is an example of how we engineer to give high-grade service at the lowest possible cost.

"Before I graduated from college I had interviews with twenty-eight companies. Out of all these I chose the telephone company because it had the most to offer in the way of interesting work, training and opportunity. This certainly turned out to be true. In a growing business your opportunities grow, too."

Dick Walsh graduated in 1953 from the University of Delaware with a B.S. in Mechanical Engineering. There are many interesting career opportunities in other Bell Telephone Companies, and in Bell Telephone Laboratories, Western Electric and Sandia Corporation. Your placement officer can give you more information about all Bell System Companies.

Members Initiated By Phi Kappa Phi

Fifty-nine members were initiated last night by Phi Kappa Phi, including 8 students from the School of Agriculture and 19 from the School of Arts and Sciences.

School of Engineering and Architecture, 8; School of Home Economics, 6; School of Veterinary Medicine, 3; Graduate School master candidates, 6; and Graduate School doctorate candidates, 3. Six faculty members were also included.

Dr. John C. Weaver, dean of the School of Arts and Sciences, was the speaker. Dean Weaver reminded students of their need for restoring imaginative freedom, in order to make their education more than "just more schooling."

"There is a fundamental need for training our young people in the art of creative and original thinking," Dean Weaver said. "Education is not just the storing away of facts," he added.

"Creative education is the stimulation and prodding of young minds," Weaver explained. "It is the building of foundations of new thought through transmission of the gains of the past."

"If new ideas are to be born, what really matters in the classrooms and on the college hill is how that knowledge is delivered."

Dean Weaver warned against any attempts to end specialization. "That would be as futile as it would be foolish," he commented. "The need is to find ways of accomodation, relationship, and reconciliation between the liberally educated mind and specialized competence," he concluded.

Need Applicants For SGA Posts

Students who wish to be members of the apportionment board or SGA secretary may apply in the Dean of Students' office, Pat Wilkerson, student body president, said.

Three student members of the apportionment board and one secretary will be appointed from the applications received.

Students may also apply for membership on the Parents day and Homecoming committees, Wilkerson said.

Blue Key Names Thirteen Members

Thirteen K-State juniors were elected new members of Blue Key, national honorary for men, in a meeting of the organization in the Student Union last evening.

They are Pat Wilkerson, BA; Kenny Nesmith, BAA; Ron Bryant, ME; Keith Swenson, ArE; Walt Martin, AH; Arnold Appleby, VM; Dave McKnight, VM; John Ricklefs, LDs; Ray Zimmerman, AH; Gil Dahl, AEd; Darrel Miller, TJ; and Brent Adair, MT.

They were picked from some 200 candidates. Choices were made on recommendations of grades and campus activities, according to Don Janes, vice-president.

An initiation banquet will be held Tuesday evening.

Speech Contest Starts Tuesday

Thirty-eight K-Staters will compete in the tenth semi-annual Larry Woods Memorial Speech contest Tuesday at 4 p.m. in Eisenhower hall. Finals of the contest will be May 8 at 7:30 p.m. in W101.

Prof. Kingsley Given, department of speech, said only freshmen and sophomores in Oral Communications I are eligible. Each of the speech clases chooses one class member to represent them in the contest. Eight students will compete in the finals.

First prize winner will receive $30; second prize is $20; third is $10. The three winners also get Larry Wood certificates.

Prizes for the contest are donated by the parents of Larry E. Woods, a former speech major at KSC who was killed in World War II.

Speechs, chosen by the contestants, should not be over seven minutes long or under five. Topics for preliminary and final speeches should be different.

The preliminaries will be judged by speech instructors. Final judges, residents of Manhattan, are Mrs. J. L. Rosenberg, Dr. C. H. Kitselman, Mrs. H. L. Ibsen, Mr. Evan Griffith, and Rev. J. E. Leach.

Negroes Demand End of Jim Crow In Montgomery

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—Negroes waged a 20-week-old city-wide bus boycott today with a new demand for outright abolition of segregation.

A throng of Negroes attending a mass meeting last night thundered approval of a resolution to continue the boycott until their status is "clarified." Their speakers indicated they meant—desegregation.

"We will never go back to Jim Crow buses,' 'the Rev. B. D. Lambert said. He got a loud ovation.

This represented a big change in their original demand at the start of the boycott for merely improved seating under existing segregation laws so Negroes would not have to stand while seats are still vacant.

BA All the Way

First BA Degrees Set for May, 1957

K-State will confer a bachelor of arts degree to qualified seniors beginning in May, 1957, President McCain said today. The new degree was authorized Friday by the Board of Regents.

The BA degree will not require the addition of new courses or major fields of study at K-State, but will permit the including of more general education in the technical and professional fields, President McCain said.

The BA will be given primarily in the School of Arts and Sciences where educators believe this degree is more applicable than the BS. It will also afford a good fundamental education for persons intending to take graduate work, the President said.

In some cases the BS and BA will both be offered in a particular field.

"The industries that employ our graduates increasingly urge that students be given stronger preparation in the liberal arts along with their technical and professional studies," McCain said.

The new BA is intended by school officials to allow more flexibility in the education system at K-State and to create a realistic balance between course requirements in the technical fields and the liberal arts field.

Students majoring in physics, chemistry, and mathematics will benefit especially from the BA degree, since many of them are encouraged to take graduate work to qualify for attractive jobs in their fields, McCain said.

Top Sing Honors Won By Tri Delts, Sigma Chi

Delta Delta Delta and Sigma Chi won first-place trophies at Interfraternity Sing yesterday.

Alpha Delta Pi was second in the sorority division, while Beta Theta Pi was second and Phi Delta Theta third in fraternity competition.

Sorority trophies were awarded by Gaye Fryer, president of Panhellenic council. Fraternity trophies were awarded by Vergil Wright, president of Interfraternity council.

Rachel Pickett, Tri-Delt songleader, led the sorority winners in "Tri Delta Blues" and "Tri Delta True." Sigma Chi sang "March of the Sigs" and "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi." J. M. Theis was Sigma Chi songleader.

"Sweetheart Song" and "I Dream of You" were selections sung by Alpha Delta Pi. Beta Theta Pi sang "Soft Chimes" and "The Beta Marching Song." Phi Delta Theta's selections were "Drums" and "Eternal Praise."

The Interfraternity council and Panhellenic council committee in charge of the Sing decided to keep the names of the judges anonymous. According to the committee, judges were selected for their musical knowledge and lack of connection with K-State.

Pete Wimsatt and Bruce Bellamy entertained between numbers and during intermission. Wimsatt acted as master of ceremonies for the performance.

Wily Women Snare Bachelors of K-State

A surprising number of K-State single men are being led to the altar during the school year.

Despite the fact that there are 220 fewer men enrolled in school this semester than last, there are 140 more married men. This indicates that at least 140 K-State men (and probably more) were persuaded to marry some time during the fall semester.

This increase in the number of married men on campus is not unusual—or even unexpected. During the spring semester of the 1954-55 school year there were 138 more married men in school than had been the case the preceding semester.

Figures just released by A. Thornton Edwards, director of K-State housing, reveal that nearly one student in every four (actually 23.8 per cent) now attending K-State is married. For men students, the figure is somewhat higher (27.7 per cent).

The 288 College-operated dormitory apartments and 82 spaces available in College trailer courts now provide housing for less than a third of K-State's married couples. While 96 more dormitory apartments are scheduled to be ready for occupancy next fall the apartments, apparently, will not even take care of the annual increase in the number of married couples in school.

Bezemek, Mugler, Brent Cop Farm Crops Contest

Ludwig Bezemek, TA Jr, David Mugler, AEd Soph, and Benny Brent, Ag Fr, won the senior, junior, and freshman divisions of the farm crops contest Saturday. The Klod and Kernel Klub sponsored the contest.

Other placings in the senior division were Ralph Kenworthy, AEd Sr, second; Richard Frohberg, AEd Jr, third; Don Gill, AEd Jr, fourth; Dewey Davis, AEd Jr, fifth; Harry Granzon, AEd Jr, sixth; Dale Disberger, AEd soph, seventh; and Don Canfield, AEd soph, eighth.

In the junior division, placings were: Fred Toplikar, AEd Soph, second; Delmar Rieger, AEd soph ,third; Kent Pridey, AEd Soph, third; Kent Pridey, Ag Soph, fourth; Ronald Flory, Towns, AEd Soph, sixth; Leslie Malone, Ag Fr, seventh; and Norman Keyse, TA Fr, eighth.

Other freshman winners were Roger Drommer, CE Fr, second; Dean Faidley, MTc Fr, third; and John Milton, Ag Soph, fourth.

First-place winners in each division were awarded gold medals. The freshman winner received $5, the junior winner $10, and the senior winner received $20.

Second and third-place winners were given silver and bronze medals plus varying amounts of money depending on the division. The awards were made at a picnic after the contest.

Mortar Board Taps 13 Coeds

Thirteen new members have been tapped by Mortar Board, honorary for senior women.

The girls are Marilyn Smith, Soc Jr; Laura Lyon, Eng Soph; Sharon Diamond, Soc Jr; Shirley Sarvis, HT Jr; Margery Cornwell, Eng Jr; Arline Gray, Eng Jr; Marjorie Badeker Day, Clo Jr; Anita Grimm, TJ Soph; Betty Winkley, HT Jr; Marjorie Hamon, HT Jr; Gaye Fryer, HEJ Jr; Sue Tucker, HT Jr; and Marylyn McCready, Eng Jr.

A tea was held with Mortar Board alums Friday afternoon. A banquet and formal initiation were Sunday.

No Foam on the Range

Beer Busts Blasted At Top of the World

No more beer busts will be held at Top of the World, Herbert J. Wunderlich, dean of students, said today.

This is not a new ruling, for the Top of the World is state property and college policy forbids such parties, but Dean Wunderlich indicated that the rule will be strictly enforced.

Lowell Miller, AA Soph, and Darrell Bower, AH Soph, were in a car which turned completely over, coming to rest on its wheels, on a road southwest of the Top of the World Friday afternoon.

Miller, the driver, was fined $10 on a charge of reckless driving in the court of R. R. Bennett Saturday.

These K-Staters were at a beer bust, Wunderlich said.

Jay Rush Named Blue Key Member

The name of Jay Rush, VM Jr, was omitted from a list of thirteen K-State juniors who were elected new members of Blue Key, national honorary for men. The list was published in an article in Friday's Collegian.

Sharon Diamond, Keith Swenson To Union Board

Keith Swenson and Sharon Diamond were appointed to the Union Governing Board by the Student Council Friday night. The appointments were made to fill vacancies on the board left by graduation.

Students who wish to be SGA secretary or a member of the apportionment board, parents, or homecoming committee may apply in the dean of students office, Pat Wilkerson, BA Jr, student body president said.

"Come back, come back Bridie Murphy."

Bachelor of Arts Degree Maintains Education Pace

K-STATE'S education process has been improved and simplified in the last week. The College now includes the Bachelor of Arts degree among the degrees offered to hopefuls.

This academic addition is more important to students than first appears on the surface. It means that K-State is keeping its education program in pace with the increasing demands for graduates in the liberal arts fields. It means that administration is thinking and planning for the future of K-State and its graduates.

The liberal arts degree is especially valuable to those who see far enough into their own future to want a graduate degree. The BA will provide a well-rounded liberal education to form the basis for the technical graduate work required for advanced degrees.

FOR A STUDENT who doesn't quite know what his future holds, a BA in history, Social Science, or maybe English would be a good place to start collecting academic credit while shopping for what is loosely called "his life's work." If he does decide to change his major, it can be done with little fuss and a minimum of lost hours.

The new degree also clears up the incongruity of offering a BS degree in a school where a BA is the logical degree. The BA is considered more acceptable in Humanities or Social Sciences.

Probably the most important step, is the fact that offering the BA shows definite concern for the individual student and for the education that he pays for at K-State. The new BA will allow better "tailoring" of a curriculum to fit the needs of the student and the career he has decided to follow. Better trained graduates; graduates that have confidence in themselves and the degree they have earned, are more likely to carry a good impression of K-State and its educational facilities into the business and industrial fields they enter.

NO ONE CAN deny that the BA is another ornament added to K-State's record. This kind of leadership in the field of education assures the student and alum that the administration is already looking for some other part of the educational system that can be improved or revised with better education for more people as its ultimate end.

—Robert Coughlin.

K-State Pride, Spirit Depend On Campus Beautification

Dear Editor,

WITH REFERENCE to the letter from Malcolm Coldwell and Lou Sable in Friday's paper we feel that campus beautification is not only a possibility—it is a necessity! School pride and spirit of present and future K-Staters depends upon it. Mr. Coldwell and Mr. Sable ask for more sidewalks when a bird's-eye-view of the K-State campus already shows a maze on concrete.

Although we try to overlook it, cow college and silo tech are still prominent in the terminology applied to Kansas State. We compete favorably with KU in many respects, but we certainly fail to measure up in the area of campus beautification.

K-STATE ARCHITECTS have done their part to provide uniform and attractive surroundings. Our landscape experts have made a contribution by selection and cultivation of an enormous variety of shrubbery and trees. Only in the area in which students hold the responsibility has our campus fallen down.

But this situation can be remedied. We have Tom Shackelford, landscape architect, to assist and it is everyone's duty to cooperate. Campus beauty is a long range plan. In fact a large percentage of the present student body will probably have graduated before results are evident.

LIVING GROUP projects will help and if every student and faculty member will make it his individual project to "take a walk" and to be less careless with trash and cigarettes we will accomplish our aim and will be able to be as proud of our entire campus as we are of the new Student Union.

Showdown Expected For 'No-Nixon' Men

By UNITED PRESS

WASHINGTON—It looks like an early and quiet show-down is coming with the last remaining Ike-men who don't want Vice President Richard M. Nixon on this year's Republican ticket.

Two major figures in the Citizens-for-Eisenhower committee already are on record with a proposal to change the organization's name to Citizens-for-Eisenhower-and-Nixon. They are Peter H. Clayton, secretary and counsel for the committee, and James Murphy, 1952 national chairman of Citizens-for-Eisenhower.

MURPHY NOW is chairman of the Northern California committee. Both have telegraphed Nixon congratulations on his decision to seek re-nomination. Murphy and Clayton are important men in the committee, but they do not control it. Gen. Lucius D. Clay and some others still are to be heard from.

The General was among a considerable group of the President's friends, influential men but mostly political amateurs, who wanted to dump Nixon. Most of the steam leaked from the dump-Nixon movement some weeks ago. Since Mr. Eisenhower welcomed Nixon as a running mate last week the boiler has gone all but dead. Some kind of policy announcement from Citizens-for-Eisenhower headquarters now seems likely.

THERE'S AN old political saying: You can't beat somebody with nobody.

That's what the dump-Nixon people were trying to do.

Comments— Wise and Otherwise

FLASH! HOT off the wire comes this Collegian scoop:

"Okefenokee Swamp, Ga.—The campaign hat of Pogo Possum was thrown into the Presidential ring today by a group of political well-wishers who, unfortunately, forgot to remove the candidate from his hat."

POGO'S HAT THROWN INTO RING

The comic possum, who is counting on a large following of seagulls and other scavengers, was not noticeably disturbed, our reporter reported.

"I'VE BEEN thrown before," Pogo remarked to a cheering throng of vireos, titmice, and lesser bobolink.

In 1952, you'll undoubtedly remember, Pogo was thrown so far that he wasn't even in sight on inauguration day. But maybe he was playing possum.

At least, he wasn't wearing a coonskin cap.

"IN THIS ERA when you have to be 7 feet tall to play basketball, and as rugged as Gibraltar to play football, the smallest guy on campus can be a champ bike racer."

So says the Bicycle Institute of America, which suggests bike racing as a minor sport for colleges. The cinder track in most stadia can be rolled to make a perfect bike course, the institute says.

Several schools now have traditional biking events—such as a Yale-to-Vassar relay race, and a "Little 500" at Indiana U.

Anyone interested?

SOME PERSONS thought the candidates nominated by the Mock Political Convention—Estes Kefauver and Clare Booth Luce—made an odd combination.

That's nothing compared to what almost happened at Miami (Ohio) university.

Alf Landon, 1936 Republican Presidential nominee from Kansas, almost was nominated for President by the Miami convention. However, the trend changed when a telegram, said to be from Landon, urged nomination for President Eisenhower.

Landon later sent congratulations to the convention for nominating Eisenhower.

Powell Pins Javelin Mark; O'Connor Gets Hurdles Win

By JOHN TOMS

K-State's Joe Powell set the lone collegiate individual record at the Colorado Relays Saturday, and Gene O'Connor streaked to his fourth hurdles crown Friday as the Wildcats grabbed national recognition for their feats.

Powell threw the javelin 212 feet, 11 inches at Boulder to wipe out the record set last year by Utah's Gary Loosli at 205 feet, 6 inches. Wildcat weightman Ralph Willard took fourth.

O'Connor ran the 440-yard hurdles in 53 seconds at Des Moines to add the Drake Relays crown to his firsts at the Texas, Kansas, and Southwest Louisiana relays. Ray Russell, another Wildcat, took third.

The Wildcat cindermen placed second in the 480-yard shuttle hurdle relays at Des Moines. O'Connor, the anchor man, ran a 14.2 final carry and nearly wiped out a five-yard lead by Missouri as he finished a foot behind the Bengals.

The rest of K-State's scoring was in the Colorado Relays where Marvin Chiles, 100-yard dashman, tied Colorado's Chace for second place.

The Wildcats finished third in the Medley relay and the 880-yard relay. Henry Renollet, Hubert Guest, Clen Taplin, and Jessee Unruh ran in the medley. Chiles, Jerry Sartorius, Bobby Jones, and Dolan McDaniel ran in the 880.

K-State placed fourth in the 440-yard relay with the same team that placed in the 880 relay.

Thane Baker, a former K-Stater and Olympic competitor, turned in an outstanding performance in the three events he entered at the Colorado Relays.

Baker, running for Lockbourne Air Force Base, anchored the team's record-breaking 880 relay team, won the 100-yard dash, and anchored the winning 440-yard relay team.

The air force team set a mark of 1:26.7 in the 880 to erase the 1:27.4, which K-State set a year ago.

Baker won the 100 in 9.8, winning by four yards.

The Lockbourne 440 team tied the oldest college relay record in the books when they ran the quarter in 42.0.

The Wildcats host Nebraska in a dual meet for their next outing, May 8.

Baseballers Lose to MU, To Play Sooners Today

By LARRY McGHEE

After absorbing an 8-1 loss handed to them by Missouri U Friday, the K-State baseball team will be shooting for a win over Oklahoma U this afternoon. Oklahoma is rated as one of the powers in the conference this year by cat coach Ray Wauthier.

In Friday's game, Eldon Zeller received a cut on his left cheek in the last half of the seventh which required five stitches to close. Zeller was sliding into second base in an attempt to break up a double play when the accident occurred.

Costly errors were the Cats' downfall in the Missouri game, with the infield accounting for four of them.

M.U. scored five runs in the second inning, two in the fifth inning, and one in the sixth to run up their eight-run total. K-State scored their lone run in the top half of the first inning.

Paul Clark, first batter for K-State, was safe at first base on an error by the M.U. shortstop. Clark later scored when Wally Carlson grounded out to first.

Bill Sinderson took over pitching chores from starter Bill Blume in the eighth and managed to hold the Tigers scoreless the last two innings.

Coach Wauthier plans to start Dick Stone on the mound against the Oklahoma Sooners at Griffith field today.

Saturday's game was postponed because of rain.

Girls IM Tennis Postponed by Rain

Play in girls' tennis intramurals has been extended beyond the scheduled April 30 deadline because rain caused the postponement of previously scheduled matches, according to women's intramural director Muriel Herbrand.

Quarterfinal matches will match Barbara Puhr and Annette Tighe; Sonie Brown and Trudie Foltz; and Joyce Graham and Delores Hess. Pat Craven will play the winner of the match between Janice Graham and Gay Krey.

Why Sen. Estes Kefauver reads The Reader's Digest

"A magazine like The Reader's Digest takes up where school leaves off. It touches on an impressive array of significant subjects. It throws a white light on the issues that confront us. It educates as it entertains."

In May Reader's Digest don't miss:

CONDENSATION FROM BEST SELLER: "HOW TO LIVE 365 DAYS A YEAR." Half of those seeking medical aid can blame badly handled emotions, says Dr. John Schindler. Here he contrasts the damage done by flare-ups and worry with the healing power of good emotions, and gives 7 steps for cultivating a happier disposition.

THE CURIOUS CUSTOM OF GOING STEADY. Cameron Shipp describes the elaborate rituals and taboos of modern teen-age social life.

THE ART OF UNDERSTANDING OTHER PEOPLE. Before we judge another, we should ask: "Might I not be as bad or worse if faced with his troubles?" Clarence Hall shows how amazingly our souls are enlarged by searching out the best in others.

WHAT WOMEN DON'T KNOW ABOUT BEING FEMALE. "As a doctor," says Marion Hilliard, "I don't believe there is such a thing as a platonic relationship between a man and woman who are alone together a good deal." Here are her reasons.

Israel Doubts Egyptian Sincerity in Peace Pact

Compiled from United Press
By HARRY MACHIN JR.

JERUSALEM (ISRAELI SECTOR (U.P.)—Israeli foreign office spokesmen expressed grave doubts today about Egypt's sincerity in seeking a peaceful solution to the Middle East crisis.

The spokesman said two "outrages" committed yesterday by the Egyptians came less than two weeks after the Egyptian's solemn promise to U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to observe a cease-fire.

Hammarskjold was flying here later today for talks with Premier David Ben-Gurion and foreign minister Moshe Sharett. He was in Cairo this morning for further talks with Egyptian officials.

Israel already had cabled to Hammarskjold in Cairo, drawing his attention to what it called the "murderous Egyptian violations of the cease-fire"—the killing of an Israeli soldier and a settler in two separate incidents.

Communists Control the Campus

COMRADE GARY HAYNES keeps in touch with other members of the campus Communist cell as he makes an inspection tour of the campus offices the Party now controls. C. J. Medlin, ex-boss of Student Publications lights "Big Brother's" fag as a gesture of loyalty to the new regime.

The Communists have gained control of the campus administrative offices.

Gary Haynes, masquerading as a student, led the bloodless revolt that ended when members of the campus Communist cell were installed in offices throughout the College.

President McCain will remain as a figurehead leader of campus policy, but his family has been placed under house arrest to insure his faithful cooperation wtih the party.

Dean Pugsley was convicted by a people's court after being arrested as a political unreliable. Pugsley was sentenced to life imprisonment in the slave labor camps at Lawrence. His family and dog followed him into confinement out of pure devotion.

"Things are going to be different around here," Haynes said in his first public address from the balcony of the President's residence. He had his security police boil Max Milbourn in oil to lend emphasis to his words.

By edict of the local Communist cell, classes will meet in the married students housing units, and all students will be housed in buidings formerly used for classes.

Explaining the change to the press, Haynes screamed "Equality for all," and chewed on a photographer's arm in a fit of pique.

Other rulings of the Party cell ban all cars from the campus, take away all past and future queen titles won by coeds, and have labeled as "reactionary," sexual segregation in organized houses.

A burlap uniform will be adopted by students within 30 days according to Haynes. This is another step in the master plan to remove class stigma. Students who cannot afford the new burlap uniforms must signify their loyalty to Party officials by rubbing ashes in their hair or canceling their membership in the Student Union.

The Union will be turned into a meeting hall for Party meetings and demonstrations. The Art Lounge will be redesigned and serve as the People's Pub. Coffee prices will be turned back to the five-cent standard.

Enormous signs proclaiming "Reorganization and Equality" have been ordered from B & R and will hang from prominent places on campus to inspire members of the student People's Party.

"We didn't think we were ready to move yet," Haynes said. "But after our show of strength at the Mock Political Convention, we decided that now was the time to bring freedom to the citizens of the College Cominform."

Comrade Haynes is a powerful and emotional public speaker. He hits things and people near him to lend an air of hysteria to his speeches. 'I owe it all to our cell publicity man, Chuckie Goetzinger," Big Brother said with a smirk.

Comrade Haynes promised further improvements on campus as the Party gets settled in its new offices and begins to function properly.

"We'll pipe gin to all the fountains! We'll reinstall the tradition of beer busts at Top O' the World! No closing hours! No finals! No classes!" he said twirling his mustache.

Comrade Haynes will be released from the mental ward of Student Health hospital late this week. He expects to be fully capable of handling the responsibilities of the enormous job he has taken on.

He sends this message to his comrades, "Remember—Big Brother is watching You!"

'Golden Arm' Weaver Heads Crooked Card Shark Ring

A raid on the Arts and Sciences School's Saturday night poker club last night exposed one of the most vicious gambling rings in the history of the College, according to Case Bonebrake, militant leader of the campus cops who pulled the raid.

Jailed in the ROTC guardhouse after the raid were John C. Weaver, dean of the school, and assistant deans Orval Ebberts, Paul Young, and Ray Rose.

Weaver, known to his associates as the "Man With the Golden Arm" was quite violent and had to be subdued by the campus cops after the raid. Weaver was holding four aces when the raid occured.

A pistol-wielding campus patrolman, Roger Ward, commented that he thought there was something wrong when he discovered that three of the four aces were spades.

Bonebrake said that the raid came as a result of complaints from Nellie Aberle and John Robson who claimed they had been fleeced by crooked cards.

In the complaints Aberle and Robson alleged that Weaver's gang had copped almost 85 per cent of the pay checks of the school's faculty.

They further alleged that the remaining 15 per cent had been taken by Fritz Moore in an extortion racket in connection with the modern language department's foreign movies.

Col. William Harvey, PMS&T, who questioned the quartet after their incarceration, said that they admitted running a card game, but claimed that there was nothing illegal in their operation.

The effectiveness of the raid was almost destroyed when Betty Coughlin, Weaver's secretary, attempted to warn the card players. Bonebrake's crew thwarted this attempt by rapidly closing in on the gang before the evidence could be destroyed.

As the law officers closed in Ebberts attempted to draw a .45 automatic from a pocket holster, but was stopped by a blow to the head by "Golden Arm" Weaver who said, "Knock that stuff off, we can beat this rap."

The group will be tried by a general courtsmartial arranged by senior ROTC students. The court is well known for swift justice and heavy sentences.

The allegations against Moore were dropped after an investigation determined that the money he was collecting was for imported wines and beer which was sold as refreshments at the modern language movies.

Annual Mixed-Up Collegian Today

The April Fool edition of the Collegian was postponed until today because April 1 happened to be Sunday. We take certain liberties in calling this issue "May Fool" but bear with us—it may be good for a few laughs.

Legitimate news copy appears on page two and there's a pretty girl on page four. The staff had fun getting this "scandal sheet" out and we sincerely hope you will have as much fun reading it.

Yessir Re-Bob; It's All in Fun

Dear Reader:

Sigma Delta Chi, journalism fraternity at K-State traditionally puts out an April Fool edition of the Collegian.

Unfortunately, a reorganization of the calendar a few years back caused Monday, April 1, to fall on Sunday this year. When I pointed out to the chapter that it was now impossible to put out an April Fool edition of the Collegian, I was voted out of office as a kill-joy.

New SDX President Darrel Miller decided that the chapter, under his guidance, must carry out the old tradition and put out an April 1 edition of the Collegian. He selected May 1 as the date for this annual effort of the chapter as he did not wish to quibble with the calendar makers.

This is it. With any necessary apologies to Collegian readers, I remain.

A Rumor for the Mill

A source close to Utah U (that would be around Cactus Junction) informs us that ex-Wildcat basketball coach, Jack Gardner, will receive honors for his service to the Skyline school.

Our rumor-monger says Jack's contract won't be renewed and he will get the old-fashioned heave-ho. We feel for him what with traveling expenses being what they are these days.

Jack's playmates, Gary Bergen and Art Bunte, are being considered as successors to Gardner, but our source would not discount the possibility of their following Jack to another school—again.

Eye-Balling 'Cat Head Tells of Girl Watching

By JIMMMY McGANE,
as told to Abraham J. Lincoln

In the spring a young man's fancy turns to—well, if you don't know what a young man's springtime fancy is, turn the page. It wil do you no good to read what goes here.

About this time of the year when the grass is greenin', the flowers are flowering, the robins are robbin', and in general, spring is bustin' out all over, it's time to unlimber the eye-ball muscles and get ready for that up and coming sport, girl watching.

Actually, girl watching is not new. It's been on the curriculum of life ever since Adam took the first sly peek at Eve from behind a lilac bush. He liked what he saw and it's been growing by leaps and bounds ever since.

In the past few years, however, this ancient sport has taken on a new importance. In fact, there was a move on last year to get it accredited by the NCAA and AAU for official competition on a nation-wide basis.

The AAU turned it down, however, because they said that a participant would get more enjoyment and satisfaction out of this event than any Simon-Pure AAU contestant has a right to expect.

Accepted or not, girl watching is still growing in popularity, even at K-State.

There are a few females around the old campus that deserve watching, contrary to popular opinion, which includes recruiting talk put out by our distant cousins down the muddy Kaw on the windward side of our sewage-disposal plant.

There used to be an adage that co-education at K-State started when a farmer got mixed up and shipped his daughters to market and his pigs to K-State. I used to believe that but anymore, especially in the spring, I know that the legend is not entirely true, or there have been some changes.

Maybe it's just the sweet young things look so good after a long, hard winter—you know, like a butterfly coming out of a cocoon—but this spring, I'm impressed.

Whether I'm watching them in the Student Union, walking down the street, over a glass of suds at Kite's, or even in class, I'm eager for the girl-watching season to start. I'd like to make some points.

If you haven't done this before and would like to get in on the fun, now's the time to start.

Pick you out a good spot, somewhere that many coeds pass or congregate, or where your binoculars will reach the dorms, and start watching.

Sit down, get comfortable, and begin enjoying yourself. But be careful you're not too obvious. There's nothing that fouls up girl-watching like a shiner.

It's sometimes good to have a prop, such as a book, preferably non-sex, in front of you. You dont' have to read it—we're not asking that you make work out of this—just glance ground, over, or through it.

Now start watching. Compare forms, faces, legs, forms, legs, forms, anything that strikes your fancy. Look for the points in a girl. If something strikes you as exceptional, mark it down in your little black book, something no male should be without.

Besides having essential info, you can get a lot of fun out of comparing notes with fellow girl-watchers. You can have nightly comparing sessions in your house. Forget studies. Maybe one of your friends has found something new.

Although this is spring, an exceptionally good time for the sport, girl watching can be a year around sport.

What is more refreshing than a pair of short shorts on a hot sumemr day or more heartwarming than a nicely wrapped package in the dead of winter?

But spring is still the best. Even with summer's abbreyiated costumes and the exciting, imagination prompting garb of winter, everything looks better in the spring. Especially the girls.

Get out and start watching. This is an Olympic year. Can you make the team?

Baseballing Staters Whip OU 4-3

Kansas State's baseball team slid past Oklahoma, 4-3, in a 13-inning game here yesterday afternoon.

With two away in the 13th, Wildcat hurler Dick Stone doubled, stole third on a wild pitch, and scored on an error.

Stone fanned seven and walked two in going all the way except for one stage in the 10th when Bill Blume came in to pitch to one batter.

The teams played six scoreless innings after Oklahoma's 3-run binge in the 6th. The Wildcats scored their first three runs in the first inning.

AGR's Win Softball Semi-Finals

Fred Wingert pitched undefeated Alpha Gamma Rho to a 4-2 victory over Sigma Alpha Epsilon in a 5 inning semi-final intramural softball playoff last night.

The Sig Alphs were handed their defeat as a fifth inning rally attempt ended with a pop-up fly and a strike out. The rally scored their pitcher, Darwin Hester, and left two men on bases. Bob Merten's double drove the other Sig Alph run in during the first inning.

AGR did its scoring in the second inning. Two walks and a single by Jerome Regier loaded the bases for a double by Sam Strahm, scoring two runs. A wild pitch scored the other two runs in the inning.

Lady Prexys Asked To Meet

Purpose of the meeting will be to explain the need of an Association of Women Students on the K-State campus.

Winter Quits Job, Will Head 'Fixers'

In a surprise move this morning Tex Winter resigned as K-State basketball coach to enter private business as a "fixer" for sporting events on a world wide basis.

Winter said his move was made for financial reasons. "Why be honest for peanuts when you can make a killing as a crook?" he said.

He went on to say that "although I have said that intercollegiate athletics should be conducted on a high plain, free from the pressures of alumni, fans, and gamblers, I have always thought, deep in my heart, that the only way to make a living was capitalizing on the weaknesses of others. For this reason, I have decided to give up coaching and go into a field where I can really have some affect on athletics."

Winter's headquarters will be in Salt Lake City, where he will be assisted by Jack Gardner, who has resigned his head-coaching job at Utah.

"It will be a pleasure to be associated with Jack again," Tex said. "He taught me all I know when I was his assistant here at K-State and I know that he will be a valuable asset to my venture.

Tex also announced that two stars from last season's Big Seven championship team will be associated with him. Fritz Schneider will handle affairs at the Midwest office in Kansas City and Pachin Vicens will be the South and Central American representative.

"I think that these boys will be a valuable asset, too. Pancho has many contacts south of the border and has had experience of this type in the Puerto Rican summer league. Fritz is well know in Kansas City, especially among the grade schools, and is there so much that he won't be put out in any way by the move."

Immediately after Winter's announcement athletics director BeeBee Lee began a search for a new coach.

"You might call it the search for Bridey Murphy," Lee said, "because we would like to reincarnate the active spirit of Phog Allen for the job. We believe that Phog, as he was 20 or 30 years ago, might be just what we need to bring K-State basketball out of the doldrums.

Upon hearing this Allen said that he was in just as good spirits now as he had ever been. This may have been because he had just returned from a cocktail party given by Col. Harry Henshel, his AAU cohort.

Rumors started flying about who would finally be picked for the job. Most strongly mentioned was Moon Mullins, who has expressed his dislike for the system at Marquette and said he wanted to return to the "friendly, co-operative atmosphere" of K-State.

Others mentioned as "naturals" for the job by local prognasticators were Max Milbourn, R. I. Throckmorton, and Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain's father.

The athletic council has promised that quick action will be taken to provide the Wildcats with a top-notch coach.

World's Best Recruiter Takes Marine Corps Job

Phorrest C. (Fog) Allen, ex-basketball coach at the University of Kansas, has accepted a commission as a colonel in the Marine Corps' recruiting service.

Allen, in a prepared statement read at Lawrence yesterday, said that the Marine job would give him a chance to continue the recruiting practices he developed at KU.

"The Marines offer about the same deal to the boys we did at KU. They offer free food, clothing, lodging, and hospital benefits, and at the same time provide a chance for a boy to earn the Congressional Medal of Honor while college can only offer an occasional all-American or Heismann trophy," he said.

Allen said that in addition to the chances for continuing his recruiting practices, the pay of a colonel is much higher than that of a college coach.

"I've been checking around and I've found that some of these colonels, even if they're in the Brooklyn band, get some mighty respectable pay and benefits. I'd like to go to the Olympics, too."

Phog said that he was glad to be with his boy, Wes Santee, again. He said that he would make Wilt the Stilt his aide de camp and would try to get one of his biggest catches, Clyde Lovellette, on his staff.

"These boys will help me a lot. They can tell all the prospective recruits what good things I can do for them. Why, I might even get the Corps to establish a base on Mount Oread so that we can get some of the boys who are suffering from asthma," the Fogger said.

Bebe Lee, K-State director of athletics, said that he was glad that Allen got the job. "We for sure don't have to worry about our boys joining the Marines now. We knew that not very many of them were that stupid before and its a lead-pipe cinch that nobody will join now," he said.

Coed Grapplers Will Try Out For Olympics

Wildcat girl grapplers will enter tryouts for the Olympic wrestling team at Los Angeles Friday, according to Dean Helen Moore, team coach.

The team may be weakened because of illness, Moore said. "The flu bug has stung us for the past two weeks," was the way she put it.

Moore places high hopes in heavyweight Connie Taylor and 147-pound Sondra Tate, who are undefeated this year. The girls have 9-0 records and are this year's Big Seven champs.

Martha DeGraff, 157-pounder, will put her 5-4 record on the line in the tryouts. Rachel Pickett (4-5), 177 pounds, will go to the mat with a sprained eyelash.

Karen Milner (3-6), 167 pounds, will wrestle with a bandaged shoulder. She received a shoulder separation in the KU match April 7.

Gaye Fryer (2-7) will wrestle at 137 pounds, and Carolyn Snell (1-8) is K-State's 130-pound contestant.

This is the same winning combination that cinched the Powder-Puff games at Guber, Texas, last year.

Marlene Young (7-2), 130 pounds, was scheduled to wrestle tonight, but is hampered by injuries. She was perfecting her famous "airplane throw" when she ended up in a crash landing. Miss Young will view the tryouts on her TV set in room 301, Riley County hospital.

The Wildcats stand 4-5 for the season with wins over Manhattan high, Topeka high, St. Marys elementary, and Wamego. Losses are to UCLA, KU, Colorado, Notre Dame, and Vassar.

Gary Haynes, boy photographer, and Sam Logan, boy Royal Purple editor, will drive the grapplers to Los Angeles. All stowaways will be given K-Key awards for the trip, providing they are in the car both semesters, Logan said.

This Is No Joke

The Topeka Hawks won their first Western league game since 1934 as they beat Des Moines 3-2 last night. The win, a one-hitter by Herb Shankman and Sherman Jones, snapped a six-game losing streak for the Hawks, newest entry in the Class A loop.

Biology Prof Nails World Century Mark

The world record in the 100-yard dash was broken yesterday by a K-State professor as Dr. E. J. (Doc) Wimmer ran the distance in 9.2 seconds. The old record was 9.3, held by a couple of track stars.

Wimmer was testing the physiological effects of alchohol on athletic endeavor when he broke the standard on the cinders of Memorial stadium.

AAU officials have said that it probably will be accepted as a record time since conditions were acceptable and Wimmer was running against competition. Prof. M. J. Harbaugh was the second man in the race, finishing approximately 59 yards, two and two-thirds feet behind Wimmer.

When the news broke around the world, three of the globe's fastest runners hung up their spikes in disgust.

John Landy, world record holder in the mile run, said that it was too much for him to take. He canceled his American tour and is reported in seclusion in the desert of northern Australia.

Duke's Dave Sime and Bobby Morrow of Abilene Christian, two of the leaders in the collegiate 100-yard field vowed never to don a track suit again. Both said that it was downright humiliating not to be able to do what some college professor has done.

Wimmer is reported to be priming for the Olympic tryouts by continuing his experiments with alchohol and athletics. Harbaugh is assisting.

A.D. Miller Murdered? Well, Maybe

The body of A. D. Miller, history and government prof, was found hanging from a pine tree in front of Eisenhower hall this morning.

The cause of death was not known, but foul play is suspected. The body is estimated to have been treed for four days. Evidently no one has claimed the body.

When asked for a comment concerning Miller's death, his best friend, Emil Shadraski said, "Ain't it a shame."

The opinion was voiced by prominent campus eccentrics that someone had evidently held a grudge against the renowned prognosticator because of his stand in favor of the California to Japan turnpike or because he was in favor of having water in Tuttle Creek Dam.

Although Miller had been outspoken in favor of these issues, prior to this time it was not supposed that his stand on these issues would elevate him to the position which he occupied until he was cut down.

Funeral arrangements have been completed with the Smorgasbord Embalming company of Washington, D.C.

Elmer Smorgasbord, chief bottler for the firm, said Miller's remains would be entombed in the history and government archives of the Americans for Bureaucratic Action mausoleum in Washington.

He will be missed by his friends, both of whom were seen mourning in front of the animal husbandry building this morning.

The School of Arts and Sciences has been beating the pine trees for a capable replacement for Miller, but as yet have found no one that resembles him in any way, and so decided to start combing the alcoholic jungles of Top of the World.

Many questions have flooded this office concerning how final respects may be paid.

In a will dated 1902, Miller asked that no flowers or other small tokens be sent. He stipulated that he merely wanted money sent to the endowment fund of the I'll Be Glad When You're Dead, You Rascal You Foundation in New York City.

Anyone contributing more than $6,000 will have his name inscribed on a plaque honoring those who died in the Boxer Rebellion.

Harbaugh Snatched By Venutian Raiders

"Doc" Harbaugh has been kidnapped by little men in an infernal machine that resembles the descriptions often given for flying saucers or UFO.

According to "Winsome" Wimmer, associate and long-time friend of the revered Biology professor, the saucer landed in the open area behind Fairchild hall, and the little men snatched Harbaugh in an interplanetary version of the old-fashioned Commando raid.

"I think they were Venutians," Wimmer said. "They communicated with me by mental telepathy as they took 'Doc' away, and I heard the leader of the gang mention Venus. I think he was talking about a planet."

"From what I could gather from their mental conversation, they intended to use Harbaugh as some sort of biological specimen. I couldn't find out whether they intended him for their zoo, or for a dissecting table," Wimmer added.

All the time Wimmer recounted the details of the kidnapping he was struggling to keep his emotions under control.

"You should have seen the way Harbaugh took it—he seemed to know it was Kismet or something—went with a smile on his face and seemed sort of happy," Wimmer said.

"He even waved to me from the door of the saucer," Wimmer choked; then he broke down completely. "Gad, man, think!!! The world's first interplanetary martyr!!"

Farm Youth End Meet with Banquet

More than 1050 contestants and their advisors attended the 33d annual banquet of the Future Farmers of America, last night in Nichols gym.

The Kansas State band opened the program with four selections. President Larry Figgs, ME Fr, formerly of the Effingham chapter, called the meeting to order.

Following the opening ceremony, C. C. Eustace, state adviser, introduced the 1956 class of state farmers. Nearly 150 Future Farmers received state farmer degrees.

President James A. McCain welcomed the group and praised the future of American agriculture. "Don't become despondent over the present farm problem," the President warned.

"Droughts run in cycles. There will be many periods of bountiful weather in Kansas. Twenty years from now, our country will have 60 million more mouths to feed,'" President McCain said.

Dale Ring, national FFA vice-president, from Wooster, Iowa, extended an invitation to members to attend the national FFA convention.

Walter Arnold, director of the Kansas State Board of Vocational Education, praised college faculty and FFA advisers for their efforts in preparing the contestants for the annual occasion.

State FFA officers for the coming year are as follows: William Wachs Jr., Ellsworth, president, John Arford, Almena, vice-president, Jon Larson, Clay Center, secretary, Tom Knappenberger, Olathe, reporter, John Griebel, Stockton, treasurer, and Duane Unger, Oberlin, sentinel.

Charles Mantz, FFA adviser from Smith Center, Kenneth Henderson, FFA adviser from Garden City, Raymond Gilkerson, editor of the Kansas Farmer, and Rodney Turnbull, editor of the Weekly Star Farmer, received honorary degrees.

Speech contest winners were Charles Andrews, Ellsworth, first, Howard Straup, Shawnee Mission, second, Gary Hering, Garden City, Third, Allan Robb, Lawrence, fourth, Max Fossey, Little River, fifth, and Paul Beyer, Emporia, sixth.

Farm mechanics winners were Clay County Community high school, first, Lakin high school, second, and Almena high school, third. Individual ratings gave first place to Darrel Kleeman, Lakin, Jerry Gardner, Clay Center, second, and Loren Mall, Clay Center, third.

First prize in the final contest is $30, second is $20, and third is $10. Larry Woods certificates will also be given to the top three.

Board Establishes Committee To Study Union Barbershop

A subcommittee to study the feasability of a barbershop in the Student Union was set up by the Union Governing board Monday night.

Ray Sis is chairman of the committee. Other members are Ray North and alumnus Ward Keller. This subcommittee will study the problem and report to the board. Bill Rogers of the Religious Coordinating Council will work with the committee.

The committee was set up following a report to the board by representatives of the RCC. According to the RCC, a petition has been circulated on the campus asking students whether or not they desire to have a barbershop in the Union.

Gordon Grosh of the RCC said the petition was circulated for two weeks and that so far 1,140 signatures have been obtained.

"We began to circulate the petition when it became evident that the barbers were not interested in solving the segregation problem here at K-State," Grosh said. The RCC met with the barbers twice.

Frank McCreary resigned from the Union staff, Director Loren Kottner announced. McCreary has been night manager and games director for the Union.

Mark Wagner has been hired to fill the vacancy left by the resignation.

Wagner has been the director of the Union at Indiana Medical center in Indianapolis. He is expected to be here in from 10 days to 2 weeks, Kottner said.

Kottner also reported to the board of the number of events that the Union has handled since it opened, and on how many people attended the functions.

The events in the Union from March 9 to 31 is:

Number and Kind of Events	Estimated Attendance
98 student events	7,064
32 college affiliated events	1,629
3 conferences	720
4 special events	604
137 events	Est. att'd. 10,017

"At least a dozen times we were forced to use the third floor, which is unlit and unheated, because we had so many groups using the Union," Kottner said.

Kottner also announced the receipt of a gift of $600 from the Faculty Social club. The money is to pay for the grand piano in the Grand Ballroom.

RCC Lauds Interest Of Governing Board

The Religious Coordinating council last night "approved the Union Governing Board's interest in the establishment of a Union barbershop."

Bill Rogers, BA Sr, was appointed by the council to act with a Union Governing Board subcommittee to help the board study the Union barbershop proposition.

It was decided by RCC that the president of each religious organization will write a letter to President McCain on behalf of his organization, asking that a barbershop be established in the Union. A copy of each letter will be sent to the Union board.

In addition, the barbershop committee will contact the various housing councils to recommend that they take similar action, Rogers said.

Aggies To Vote Thursday On Ag Week Amendment

Students of the School of Agriculture will vote on an amendment to the constitution of the Agricultural Association at the ag seminar, Thursday, Don Hunt, AH Sr, announced.

The amendment will affect the activities of students during the week preceding the Ag Barnwarmer, Hunt said.

Under the proposed amendment, the person elected barnwarmer manager will also become manager of Ag Week. The assistant manager will function as promoter of the Ag Barnwarmer.

"Plans are in the hopper of the Agricultural Council to make the proposed Ag Week a bigger and more significant event," Hunt said. Departmental clubs are planning to prepare displays.

Walter Martin, AH Jr, newly elected president of the Ag Association, reports that students seem to be enthusiastic about the prospect of directing their energies toward a more worthwhile field of activities. However, it is not anticipated that the horse tank will disappear from the week's program.

Herb Plambeck, farm news editor of radio station WHO, Des Moines, Iowa, will speak at the seminar on "Russian Agriculture As I Saw It."

Mr. Plambeck made an extensive tour of Russia last summer, with a group of U.S. Farmers, where he observed and studied their methods of livestock production and other phases of agriculture.

Mr. Plambeck, who is a professional photographer, will show a selected group of colored slides which he will use in presenting his experience behind the iron curtain.

Costumes and Teddy Bears Added To MPC Learning

Dear Sir,

ONE COULD argue whether anyone benefitted from "playing games" at the recent Mock Political convention; if the "teddy bears" and funny costumes and hats had any benefit. I believe the few individuals arguing, in effect, that the "convention was no good" on these superficialities either missed the convention or "missed the boat." Maybe they can't see beyond "teddy bear" level.

Although there were no IBM assignments to delegates, and no class credit will be given, most of the participants were voters of the immediate future. College credit or not, they learned.

I THINK the activity was best summed up in a recent editorial in the Kansas City Star:

"Kansas State college is recovering from the effects of a spirited three-day mock political convention. The Presidential nominating convention this week represented months of preparation and the enthusiastic participation by a large part of the student body. There were, in fact, 1,327 voting delegates and an equal number of alternates.

"Any academic disruption was far overshadowed by the beneficial results. Students, many of them soon to be first voters, shared actively in a political event. They did so with exuberance and knowledge. They learned how presidential candidates are nominated and how current issues get onto a party platform.

"THE CONVENTION was stimulating, amusing, and impartial. (K-Staters) nominated Sen. Estes Kefauver as a presidential candidate, Claire Booth Luce for the vice presidency, and adopted a platform more conservative than present Republican policies. This trend to conservatism has been noted in other educational institutions.

"One of the large national foundations is attempting to encourage the active participation of college-trained youth in government. The reasons are obvious. K-State students, who took part in a nominating convention, undoubtedly had their interest whetted for the coming campaign. They will follow the activities of the candidates with far greater understanding. They may, in time, elect to be candidates themselves, thus helping to strengthen the quality of free government and to insure its permanence."

Sincerely,

Gary Haynes, publicity chairman, 1956 Bovinian Mock Political Convention.

Mock School Week Needed at K-State

To the Editor:

IN ANSWER TO the letter to "start the ball rolling" for mock olympic games, we have a novel idea. Why don't we have a mock school week? We could all pretend this is a college and we are students here for an education. This would be an excellent opportunity for everyone to mind his own business and study instead of running around bothering people by starting another mock something or other.

As for boosting the standing of K-State, we might raise our standing in the eyes of the taxpayers, if they think they are paying for a college instead of a playground for little kiddies with teddy bears.

Sincerely,

Ralph McGinty, AgE Fr.
Robert Wiederholt, AH Jr.

KU Placed On Probation For Abusing NCAA Rules

THE NATIONAL Collegiate Athletic Association's council yesterday placed Kansas university on probation for violation of NCAA rules.

The probation is effective immediately and for one year. Probation means that KU's athletic program is subject to close inspection during the probation period, and that any malpractice during this period would seriously jeopardize KU's membership in NCAA.

The Kansas violation occurred in basketball.

IT WAS a year ago this month that K-State was removed from the NCAA's probationary list after spending a year in the hot seat. At the time K-State was placed on probation, the NCAA commended officials for their aggressiveness and positive action in correcting the malpractices which led to the suspension.

The main K-State criticism when the penalty was handed out was that prior to 1952 certain Wildcat club funds had been mishandled.

Oklahoma, the Big Seven football king, is currently entering their second year of probation which began at the same time K-State was taken off the list.

OU WAS ACCUSED of offering prospective student-athletes "cost free education" after their eligibility had expired, of paying medical expenses of wives and children of athletes, and of paying other fringe benefits.

The NCAA said it had evidence that a Kansas staff member provided transportation for a prospective student athlete to visit, in "at least one instance." It said it also found that a friend of Kansas offered a prospective student athlete aid in violation of NCAA and Missouri Valley conference rules.

The latter offer was made with the knowledge of a staff member of the school, or under circumstances of which the staff member should have had knowledge, the NCAA said.

THE NCAA council has promised to review the athletic policies and practices at KU prior to the end of their probation period.

Two other schools, Texas A&M and Mississippi college were also placed on probation by the NCAA.

Arthur (Dutch) Lonborg, KU athletics director, has admitted that one of the NCAA's charges is true but has denied the other one.

Lonborg said that Kent Bryan, Kansas City high school graduate, was given a ride to Lawrence to take a KU entrance exam by Dr. Forrest C. (Phog) Allen.

LONBORG DENIED that any member of the Kansas staff knew about an offer of financial aid to Bryan.

Dr. Franklin D. Murphy, chancellor of the University, said: "The University of Kansas has been aware of the fact that for the past year the NCAA has been investigating analleged violation of the rules by the head basketball coach, stated to have occurred in the summer of 1954.

"The first charge, that of transporting a prospective student to this campus, was freely admitted by the University.

"The second alleged violation involved the assertion that a friend of the student offered financial aid to him in violation of the rules and with the knowledge of the head basketball coach or under circumstances of which he should have been aware. This the coach has denied.

PHOG WASN'T too upset over the transportation charges but denied the second charge.

"That I deny vehemently," he said. "After 39 years, I'm not getting tainted now. Frankly, we weren't that interested in the boy, and I was the first to call his mother in Kansas City and tell her he had failed the exam and was not eligible for financial aid."

At any rate, K-Staters can still expect to see Wilt the Stilt gracing the basketball floor this winter. The NCAA probation will not affect regularly scheduled KU contests or post-season games in any sport.

"I was just bringing him his laundry."

Greased-Pig Race Plans at Colorado U Are Skidded to Halt by Humane Society

By Ann Weathers

PLANS FOR A greased-pig race at the University of Colorado skidded to an abrupt halt recently when the State Humane society threatened legal action if harm came to the pig.

"Pigs have feelings, too," the officials declared. 'Why not strip one of the boys down, grease and chase him if they must chase something?"

Sounds like a good idea, at that.

●

NOW THAT THE Mock Political convention is over and the student's mind is more or less turned toward the national convention, a few definitions of political candidates "plain speaking" might be in order, the Dakota Student sez.

The phrase "I am not a candidate for Vice President" means "I gotta keep my Presidential bandwagon rolling until after the first ballot."

When a candidate tells you "A vote for me is a vote for the American way of life," he means "I ain't running in Southern Rhodesia."

"I'M IN THE fight to the finish," means "The law sets the election day and I can't do a thing about it."

And now, the handy guide to terminology:

Under consideration: This means, "Never heard of it."

Under active consideration: "We're looking into the files for it."

Reliable source: The guy you just met.

Informed source: The guy who told the guy you just met.

Unimpeachable source: The guy who started the rumor originally.

We are making a survey: We need more time to think of an answer.

Will advise in due course: If we figure it out, we'll let you know.

Sound familiar?

●

BELIEVE IT or not, Iowa State has some very nice things to say about men's Physical Education. For instance:

1. The larger-than-at-home shower adds resonance to shower singing that could change students into cultured sensitive liberal arts majors.

2. That idle hour between classes now taken up by gym might be spent in fruitless study over a hard-reading, dull and laborious book.

3. The good-natured dressing room banter, joshing, and esprit de corps promote the feeling of belonging—so essential to the average, unstable college man.

4. Informal but competitive dressing races have afforded men good practice for any dress marathon they might choose to enter later.

Now don't you think it was very broad-minded of them to look on the good side of PE? So many wouldn't do that.

Tennis, Golf Teams To Play Nebraska

K-State tennis and golf teams will go into action against teams from Nebraska Friday in an attempt to better their records.

The Wildcat tennis team will put its 5-2-1 mark on the line against a "not too impressive" Cornhusker net record.

"If we play good tennis Friday K-State will have more than a good chance to win the match," Coach Karl Finney said.

"However," he said, "some days the boys will be playing over their heads and other days their game will be off. "If Nebraska comes down here and plays over their heads then we'll have a tough time winning it."

K-State and Nebraska have both played Wichita U, the Cats winning by a 7-0 margin and the Cornhuskers taking a 5-2 decision from Wichita.

Finney will send Bob Hansen, Dick Circle, John Deam, Kevin Andler, and Don Wainscott against a probable Nebraska lineup which includes lettermen Al Ford, John Moran, and Tom Stitt.

Wildcat golfers will be trying to improve on their 7-5 season record Friday. Cat linksmen edged Nebraska 7-5 at Lincoln earlier this season and the re-match should be a good one, according to Ron Young, number 3 man on the squad.

The team will be composed of Dave and Jerry Smith and Ron Young. The fourth man will be chosen today.

KU Draws NCAA Veto

Lawrence (U.P.)—Dr. Forrest C. (Phog) Allen, Kansas university's retiring basketball coach, said last night he did "not know at the time" that transporting a prospective student from Kansas City to the campus and return was a violation of NCAA regulations.

Kansas was placed on one year's probation by the NCAA last night for two rules violations.

One violation involved Allen's driving of Kent Bryan, former Kansas City high school basketball star, to Lawrence and back to Kansas City.

"I did not know at the time that this was an infraction of the rules, although perhaps I should have. Ignorance of the law excuses no man. I was frank to tell the infractions committee of the NCAA that I did this. I have no apologies to make."

Dr. Franklin D. Murphy, Chancellor of the University, released a written statement.

Regarding the second infraction cited by the NCAA, Murphy said:

"The second alleged violation involved the assertion that a friend of the student offered financial aid to him in violation of the rules and with the knowledge of the head basketball coach or under circumstances of which he should have been aware. This the coach has denied."

Gutter Cutters Top Bowling

The Gutter Cuters had the best won-loss record in Student Union Bowling leagues last week as they took over the position formerly held by the Independent Students' team.

The Cutters now have a 16-2 record and are ahead of the Independent Students who lost 4 games and now have a 16-4 record.

The team, bowling in the Independent Men's league, had high three-game score with 2,313 and high single-game score with 828. Bill Jardine, of the Independent Students' team, took high three-game and high single-game scores with 510 and 199.

Alpha Kappa Lambda and Sigma Chi are now tied with 12-6 records to head the Ivy league. Phi Kappa Tau bowled 2,210 for top three-game score and 775 was bowled by Phi Delta Theta for high single-game score in the league.

Mechanical Engineers team 1 dominates the Engineering league with a 9-3 record and 2,226 and 801, high three and single-game scores. Harold Lonsinger of the ME's bowled individual highs with 555 and 220.

Les Femmes women's league leaders are Dames Clubs "A" and "B" who have 10-5 records. The Journalism News Hens took high three-game scores with 1,764 and Dames Club "B" bowled 663 for high single game.

Summer Art Courses Set For Kansas

A summer art program is planned with a series of art courses sponsored by the department of Continuing Education in conjunction with the Allied Arts Department and a part of the Kansas Art Program, said Prof. Roman J. Verhaalen, of the department of adult education, extension division.

Tentative plans for the summer courses to be offered include six Kansas towns besides Manhattan. Courses will be offered in Abilene, Great Bend, Larned, Hoisington, Clay Center, Junction City, and Washington.

The purpose of the programs is to take out into the field courses that can be used by people interested in completing college work and for those wanting to learn the fundamentals and appreciation of art, Verhaalen said.

Others of the programs offered throughout the year include the August program to off campus persons for college credit; the fall semester evening college course program; first term spring semester program beginning Feb. 1; the second term spring semester program beginning April 10; and the first experimental pre-summer session for teachers in 8 months schools beginning April 30.

Approximately 1,400 to 1,500 have enrolled in Extension courses this year between July 1, 1955 and June 30 1956, he said. Of these, about 20% enrolled in art courses.

The art courses are identically the same courses offered on campus with the only difference being that they are more concentrated. Because these courses are designed to fit the needs of full-time working men in nearby communities, it is often necessary to hold classes once a week for three hours over a 15 to 17 week period. The amount of contact minutes in Extension classes are the same as campus classes.

Generally, only 25% of credit toward a B.S. degree can be taken on Extension credit basis, he said.

Marine 'Death March' Investigation Still On

Compiled from United Press
By HARRY MACHIN, Jr.

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—Members of the House armed services committee made it clear today the Marine Corps still isn't off the hook on the Parris island, S.C., "death march."

Although they generally praised Gen. Randolph McCall Pate for frankly laying bare details of the tragedy, committee members said the matter was still "wide open"—particularly regarding immediate superior officers concerned.

Pate, Marine Corps commandant, told the committee yesterday that S/Sgt Matthew C. McKeon was drinking before he illegally ordered his platoon on the march. The 31-year-old Worcester, Mass. junior drill instructor led his men into the tidal swamps where six recruits drowned in darkness and panic.

Pate recommended that McKeon be court martialed on four charges including manslaughter and "oppression" of recruits. Navy secretary Charles S. Thomas endorsed the court martial.

Pate also removed Maj. Gen. J. C. Burger as commanding general of Parris island and transferred several other officers. Burger will swap jobs with Maj. Gen. Homer L. Litzenberg, commander of Camp Lejeune, N.C.

West Meets with Russia

LONDON—Four Western powers meet with Russia today to determine if their nearly two months of talking on world disarmament have reached a stalemate.

The United States, Britain, France and Canada resumed their discussion with the Soviets under the shadow of forecasts that prospects for agreement were bleak.

Harold Stassen, U.S. delegate to the U.N. disarmament subcommission meeting, said yesterday there may be no further changes in the opposing East-West positions at the current conference.

He said that unless the Soviets suddenly reverse their field, as they have done before, it appears the conference will end soon.

Union To Host Activities Meet On Saturday

A Students' Activities conference will be held in the Union Saturday for representatives from various campus organizations.

Gary Rumsey, AEd Soph, chairman of the Student Activities board ,requests that each organization send two officers from its group who plan to be back in school next year. Information obtained at the conference will be of advantage to the clubs in the future.

The group will discuss the main problems that were brought out at an earlier conference held in the fall.

The conference will begin at 8:45 Saturday morning and will continue until noon. Discussion periods on publicity, leadership, finances, and membership and participation will be held. Free doughnuts and coffee will be served.

THE TRUE AND TYPICAL CASE OF CHATSWORTH OSCEOLA

The school year draws to an end, and everybody is wondering about the future—everybody, that is, except the engineers. Today there is not a single engineer on a single campus who has not received a dozen fabulous offers from a dozen corporations.

All this, of course, you know. But do you know just how fabulous these offers are? Do you have any idea how wildly the corporations are competing? Let me cite for you the true and typical case of Chatsworth Osceola, a true and typical senior.

Chatsworth, walking across the M.I.T. campus one day last week, was hailed by a man parked at the curb in a yellow convertible studded with precious gemstones. "Hello," said the man. "I am Darien T. Sigafoos of the Sigafoos Bearing and Bushing Company. Do you like this car?"

"Yeah, hey," said Chatsworth.

"It's yours," said Sigafoos.

"Thanks, hey," said Chatsworth.

"Do you like Philip Morris?" said Sigafoos.

"Of corris!" said Chatsworth.

"Here is a pack," said Sigafoos. "And a new pack will be delivered to you at six-hour intervals every day as long as you shall live."

"Thanks, hey," said Chatsworth.

"Does your wife like Philip Morris?" said Sigafoos.

"I'm not married," said Chatsworth.

"Do you want to be?" said Sigafoos.

"What American boy doesn't?" said Chatsworth.

Sigafoos pressed a button on the dashboard of the convertible, and the trunk opened up, and out came a nubile maiden with golden hair, flawless features, a perfect disposition, and the appendix already removed. "This is Laurel Geduldig," said Sigafoos. "Would you like to marry her?"

"Is her appendix out?" said Chatsworth.

"Yes," said Sigafoos.

"Okay," said Chatsworth.

"Congratulations," said Sigafoos. "And for the happy bride, a pack of Philip Morris every six hours for the rest of her life."

"Thanks, hey," said Laurel.

"Now then," said Sigafoos to Chatsworth, "let's get down to business. My company will start you at $45,000 a year. You will retire at full salary upon reaching the age of 28. When you start work, we will give you a three-story house made of bullion, complete with a French Provincial swimming pool. We will provide sitter service for all your children until they are safely through puberty. We will guarantee to keep your teeth in good repair; also the teeth of your wife and children unto the third generation. We will send your dentist a pack of Philip Morris every six hours as long as he shall live.... Now, son, think carefully about this offer. Meanwhile, here is one thousand dollars in small, unmarked bills, which places you under no obligation whatsoever."

"It certainly seems like a fair offer," said Chatsworth. "But there is something you should know. I am not an engineer. In fact, I don't go to M.I.T. I am a poetry major at Harvard. I just came over here on a bird walk."

"Oh," said Sigafoos.

"I guess I don't get to keep this money and the convertible and Laurel now, do I?" said Chatsworth.

"Of course you do," said Sigafoos. "And if you'd like the job, my offer still stands."

The makers of Philip Morris, who sponsor this column, are delighted to know that times are so good for the engineers. To make times even better—for the engineers and everybody else—here's a gentle suggestion: Philip Morris, of corris!

VOLUME LXII Kansas State College, Manhattan, Kansas, Thursday, May 3, 1956 NUMBER 135

JUPITER (Baird Miller, Sp Sr), tries to explain to Alkmena, (Ann Soelter, Sp Sr), that there are advantages to becoming immortal during the time Jupiter is masquerading as her husband. Unlike many lovers before, Alkmena is unimpressed.

In Amphitryon 38

Jupiter, Earthly Matron Have Staged Love Affair

Shades of Greek gods and goddesses predominate the three act play, Amphitryon 38, to be presented by the Kansas State Players, today and tomorrow at 8:15 p.m. in the College auditorium.

Amphitryon 38, translated from a French play by Jean Giraudoux, is a comedy based on a love affair between Jupiter, a god, portrayed by Baird Miller, Sp Sr, and Alkmena, earthly wife of Amphitryon, played by Ann Shaw Soelter, Sp Sr.

Jupiter is in love with Alkmena and tries to seduce her but she refuses him and remains faithful to her husband Amphitryon, portrayed by Ken Nakari, Phy Fr. Mercury, played by Bruce Bellamy, Sp Gr, persuades Jupiter to pursue Alkmena on earth in the form of Amphitryon.

Supporting members of the cast and their parts are John Miller, ME Soph, as Sosie; Charley Peak, ME 01, Trumpeter; George Hooper, PEM Soph, Warrior; and Virginia Eaton, Sp Soph, Nevetza. Amphitryon 38 is under the direction of Prof. Donald F. Hermes, department of speech.

Tickets for the play are available at the Student Union, College Book Store, and Betton Music company. Students are admitted with activity tickets.

Racial Integration Is Discussion Topic Of Debate Festival

An intercollegiate "discussion festival," sponsored by the speech department, will be held on the campus tomorrow afternoon and Saturday morning.

Participating in the festival will be teams from the University of Omaha, Oklahoma A&M, Midland college of Fremont, Neb., and the K-State team.

Each school will enter a discussion team of four or five students.

In each of five rounds the teams will discuss a specific problem related to the national intercollegiate discussion question for the current year, "How can we best implement the decision of the Supreme Court for racial integration in the public schools?"

Members of the K-State team are Anita Grimm, TJ Soph; Carol Kellogg, HT Fr; Barbara Marshall, Sp Soph; Tom Bowman, ChE Soph; and Ed McCoy, PrL Soph.

In each round the teams will be given an overall team rating of superior, excellent, average, or poor. A trophy will be awarded the team receiving the highest cumulative ranking, and individual members of the high-ranking team will receive medals.

Rounds of discussion will be from 1 to 5:45 Friday afternoon, and from 8:30 to 11:15 Saturday morning in first floor rooms of Eisenhower hall. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

To Replace Aspirin

Pre-Advisement Is Aimed To Iron Out Scheduling

Pre-advisement to enrollment is in progress in hopes that many headaches suffered in the usual semester registration will end, according to E. M. Gerritz, registrar.

The advisement period for the summer session and fall semester began April 16 and will be carried on through May 11.

Pre-advisement is not pre-enrollment, Gerritz said. It is a conference with one's advisor to help the student plan his schedule for the next semester.

To take advantage of this plan, students should go to their dean's office and be assigned an advisor. Appointments with the advisor must be made soon, as conferences will end a week from tomorrow.

All four schools offer pre-advisement; however, it is not required. It is planned so that students and teachers can save time and have less confusion during regular enrollment.

Although students will not be assured of getting the schedule worked out during this period, the chances are higher, Gerritz said. It will be easier to determine what classes should be scheduled, too, he said.

Students may have no more than 50 per cent of their classes on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday mornings, Gerritz said. This is partly due to the expected increase in enrollment.

More than 6,400 are expected next fall, according to Dean A. L. Pugsley.

More Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday classes are being planned to accommodate the increased enrollment. It is also felt that a schedule with more evenly distributed classes is better for the student educationally, Gerritz said.

The "pre-enrollment plan" will begin next winter in the period preceding spring enrollment, Gerritz said. This will eliminate the usual "scheduling and card pulling" carried on in Nichols gym, he said.

Open House at Union To Be for Townsfolk

An open house will be held at the Student Union Sunday from 4 to 8 p.m. for all Manhattan citizens who have not had a chance to inspect the building.

All parts of the building will be open except those in use at the time, Loren Kottner, Union director, said.

Students on the Union Governing Board will be tour-leaders for the Manhattanites. The nine program subcommittees will have displays set up to show how activities are planned.

Folk Song Show By Earle Davis Planned for Tonite

Earle Davis, head of the English department, will present a program of folk music including Davey Crockett ballads and Tom Lehrer folk songs tonight at 7:30 in the little theater of the Union.

This is the first program planned by the Student Union Music sub-committee, according to Joyce Broderick, chairman. There will be no charge of admission.

Glenn H. Beck Named Head Of Ag Station

Dr. Glenn H. Beck, former head of the department of dairy husbandry at the University of Maryland, took over the position of director of the agricultural experimental station at K-State Tuesday.

A. D. Weber, dean of Agriculture, formerly held the directorship. Dean Weber's duties as director ended November 1, 1955.

The position was filled until March 1, 1956, by Dr. Harold Myers. He left Kansas State to go to Arizona university, and William S. Pickett, head of the department of horticulture, assumed the acting directorship.

Dr. Beck, who was formerly a member of the department of dairy husbandry staff at K-State for several years, expects to move his family from Maryland to Manhattan in June.

The director of the experimental station has administrative responsibilities for agricultural research at the main experimental station in Manhattan; the five branch stations at Hays, Colby, Tribune, Garden City, and Mound Valley; and ten outlying experimental fields scattered throughout Kansas.

FH To Dedicate New Home Sunday

Dedication of Farmhouse fraternity's new home will be Sunday afternoon.

Norman Collins, assistant professor of agriculture economics, will preside at the formal dedication. Prof. Wilford Pine, and Dean A. D. Weber will speak.

Parents of chapter members will be guests of the fraternity at the noon meal.

EVEN THE GODS HAVE TROUBLE—Mercury relaxes and tells his father, Jupiter, he shouldn't be worried because of his trouble in wooing a mortal. Jupiter has complained because a woman, the mortal in question, "doesn't buy his act" of becoming immortal. She'd just rather be herself. Baird Miller plays Jupiter, (left), and Bruce Bellamy is Mercury in the K-State players production, Amphitryon 38, to be presented in the auditorium tonight and tomorrow at 8:15 p.m.

Eighth College Hill Wreck Involving a K-State Student

Editor:

ANOTHER "CARELESS driving" accident occurred on the curve west of College Hill school last week. A Kansas State student was the driver. This was the eighth accident involving KSC students on that corner in the past two years. One student has not yet fully recovered.

The residents of the College Hill community, many of them parents of children who attend the school, are concerned about the lack of regard for posted speed signs, curve signs, and school signs by the drivers who use the black-top stretch between the College and the Top of the World recreation area.

WE ARE A close-knit community and can recognize our neighbor's automobiles. The cars that violate traffic regulations and common sense by speeding and careless driving are not residents of the community.

This letter has been addressed to the college students who use this road to reach the College recreation area because we have felt for some time that you may not be aware of the dangers you are subjecting innocent parties to when posted signs and ordinary driving precautions are disregarded.

WE ARE HOPEFUL that this letter will serve but the one purpose for which it was written: A friendly reminder that careless driving on any road is as dangerous to the innocent as it is to the person driving. Please help yourself and us by driving with care.

Russia Has More Intercontinental Jets Of Hydrogen Bomb Capacity than U.S.

By UNITED PRESS

WASHINGTON—Russia has more than 100 intercontinental jet bombers compared with America's 78 and it produced them in much less time, authoritative military information showed today.

A comparison of production progress was made possible when the Pentagon broke a strict rule and allowed Gen. Curtis E. Lemay to tell Senate investigators in public how many B-52 hydrogen bombers the Air Force has.

Under usual security procedures, military services do not reveal their exact numbers of planes of a given model. And regulations bar contractors from disclosing "production schedules . . . or rates of delivery."

BUT STRATEGIC Air Commander Lemay yesterday gave the Senate armed services subcommittee on air power complete details on B-52 production and monthly delivery rates. The giant, 650-mile an hour bomber has become a focal point in the controversy over relative Russian and American air strength. Russia's Bison, of which more than 100 have been built, is rated a comparable bomber.

Lemay's testimony was cleared in advance at the Defense department. A Pentagon spokesman could not say why full details were given publicly but cited Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson's comment this week on the air power inquiry. Wilson said that in providing data the Pentagon probably was "erring" more on the side of giving "aid and comfort to a possible enemy . . . than on the side of trying to suppress information."

THE LEMAY disclosures gave a precise "fix" on the status of the B-52 at this moment. He said 47 are in the Air Force and 31 are undergoing a modification. He said 57 were produced up to last January 1, four more in January, six in February, six in March and five in April.

Comments— Wise and Otherwise

NOTE TO THE campus cop: In case you don't have time to check the Union parking lot, the following cars were parked on the wrong side of the one-center-lane marker in the center Union parking lot yesterday — WY56921, LW1364, RL8545, RL7501, CL6862, BT9309, RL8467, SG110733, JO38876.

Note to these owners: In case you can't read and comprehend the sign on the center lane of the middle parking area, here's the setup—a row of cement blocks have been placed up the middle; a sign at the west end says single center parking; an arrow on the sign points to the north side of the row of concrete strips.

Translated into the vernacular, this means that one row of cars can park up the center of this area, on the north side of the cement strips.

Just thought you'd like to know.

OF COURSE, we can hope to do only one thing: Straighten out the parking in the Union lot. The basic trouble is that K-State has a dearth of handy parking areas, and most of them are for the faculty and staff. Oh, we have parking areas all right, but they weren't laid out with the student in mind.

Since, theoretically, the student is the customer here, perhaps it would have been nice to think of him in this matter. Also, it would have been nice if the planners had recognized the fact that almost everyone would be driving a car these days, and that enrollment would be going up yearly.

The solution? Some nonsense such as banning freshmen from driving on campus. But why should they be punished for someone's shortsightedness?

●

THE NCAA SEEMS to hit one Big Seven school each year. K-State just got off of the NCAA probation list a year ago; at the same time, Oklahoma was put on the list; the latest to fall from the NCAA's graces is KU, which has been put on a year's probation.

Wonder who'll make the blacklist next year? Maybe Nebraska with its new-found football coach and new-found enthusiasm.

●

THIS NCAA probationary ruling is only part of a nationwide kick against proism. The AAU (Amateur Athletic Union) has been blasting right and left, and especially in the direction of anyone who competes against KU's Wes Santee.

Many questions come to mind.

For instance, what is the reason for requiring college athletes to remain amateur? Is it to keep college athletics for the regular students and to avoid the indiscriminate buying of football powerhouses?

Very good.

BUT WHAT IS so degrading about being good enough at a sport to be paid for playing it? How does this make an athlete unfit to furnish competition for college athletes? In what way are the college men besmeared?

Also, is the AAU naive enough to actually consider such teams as the Phillips Oilers amateur? How long would Oilers athletes hold their jobs if they were absent from work such as they are without being athletes?

Why is it all right for amateurs to play against pros in alumni-varsity games such as are held at K-State? Why did the AAU let Seattle university play the Harlem Globe Trotters in an Olympic fund game?

Then there are other puzzling sides of amateurism.

WHY SHOULD the Olympic games be limited to amateurs? Are the professionals unfit to represent the United States at Melbourne this year? Will the Russian athletes be true amateurs, or do they earn their living in Russia via their athletic prowess?

Who would like to bet that the athletes in the original Olympic Games weren't subsidized by wealthy patrons?

The AAU and the NCAA have gotten themselves so wrapped up in this amateurism kick that they seem to have forgotten why a man should be an amateur.

●

SURE WAS GLAD to hear that there will be a Union open house. Now outsiders can come to the campus and see the Student Union again.

5—"Long Tall Sally," Pat Boone
6—"The Happy Whistler," Dinning and Robertson
7—"Heartbreak Hotel," Elvis Presley
8—"Standing on a Corner," Four Lads
9—"Held for Questioning," Rusty Draper
10—"Walk Hand in Hand," Tony Martin

NEW RECORDS picked to be hits include:

● "Church Bells May Ring," the Diamonds
● "Wayward Wind," Gogi Grant
● "Kissing Is Fun," Priscilla Wright

The latest release in mood music this week comes to us from England courtesy of Peter Yorke and his orchestra. It's called Music for Sweethearts and it's well performed.

A pair of albums stemming from his television program are put out by Perry Como, in his informal TV style. They are "A Sentimental Date" with Perry Como and "Relaxing."

THE MUSIC from the Eddie Duchin story is out on a long-play album. This one has some good songs in it and they are the original Duchin recordings. Another show album, this time from Broadway, is "My Fair Lady," the musical version of George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion." Using the talents of Rex Harrison and Julie Andrews, the record should be as big a hit as the play.

"Trumpet after Midnight" is the new Harry James album out, and sounds as good as his last few. Sauter-Finigan have come up with a new album that, as usual, is different. The title is "Adventure in Time," and the emphasis on the percussion section.

IF YOU HAVE ever wondered what kind of music is popular in the Belgian Congo, Capitol has the answer in its new album "Kasongo." Although the rhythm patterns are interesting, I don't think I'd care to dance to this type of thing.

Jimmie Wakely, cowboy singer turned rock and roll stylist, has come out with a song that we think bears mentioning. The title is "Goo Goo, Dah Dah." I hope this doesn't start a trend.

A TYPESETTING student squints while patiently trying to put small pieces of metal type into the "stick" he holds in his hand. It doesn't pay to goof in this class.

Typography Students Find Patience a Great Virtue

By ROYANNE McMULLEN

PATIENCE IS one of the greatest virtues, and students enrolled in Typography laboratory are acquiring this virtue the hard way. Setting small pieces of metal in a correct way without upsetting several lines is a slow process for beginners.

They can imagine well how Gutenberg, the father of printing, labored to print the first important book from movable types at Mainz, Germany, in 1454.

Since that year, great changes are not too apparent. The types are different in precision and finish only, while the type "cases" and the composing "sticks" differ only in small details.

THE TYPOGRAPHY course begins by learning where all the small and large letters are located in the case. The case is a wooden tray, that is divided into compartments of various sizes; the larger one containing frequently used letters and the smaller ones containing those less used.

The first type case was used over 400 years ago. When it was made there were only 24 letters in the alphabet. The J and U were added later. Consequently, the type cases of today have the J and U added at the end of the alphabetically placed capital letters.

AFTER THE basic facts are learned, students set straight composition. They progress to writing and setting headlines.

The layout of advertising is the next project and students copy ads and use creative ideas for ads of their own. The final project is the creative design of cover pages for books and magazines.

The object of the course is to provide a student enough knowledge to know what can and can't be done in marking copy, Instructor Byron Ellis, said.

WELL QUALIFIED for teaching this class, Ellis started setting type when he was 4 years old.

He said, "I set type before I went to school. Father was manager of several college presses. He gave me the best typewritten copy there was to set."

"When I started to school at eight years old, they put me in the third grade. I never could understand why spelling was taught in school. It seemed like a waste of time. Since I had worked with words so long, I supposed everyone knew how to spell," he said.

"WHENEVER I have trouble in spelling a word, my hands just go through the motions of setting it from the case and it comes," Ellis explained.

He was student instructor of printing at two colleges, foreman of the College Press at Union college in Nebraska, manager of Glendale Union press in California, and superintendent of K-State's College press. The only detour he has taken in his printing career was when he was in charge of journalism at Baylor college in Texas.

ONE OF THE many jobs performed by the Illustrations department is that of taking identification photos of each student at enrollment.

Illustrations Is 80 Years Old

By CAROL WARD

ILLUSTRATIONS, the third oldest building on campus, is celebrating its 80th birthday this year.

Built in 1876 for horticulture and botany, it cost $5,000. It contained two lecture halls and a laboratory.

After horticulture and botany departments moved to new buildings, the College photographer and church group offices occupied Illustrations. At various times Methodist, Presbyterian, Episcopalian, Christian, and Baptist youth groups had offices there.

IN 1943, pre-radar courses for Signal Corps trainees were taught in part of the building.

The unused tower beside Illustrations remains from the years after 1944 when the basement was used as an experimental television laboratory.

At present, the College photograher and offices of the Newman club, the United Students fellowship, and the Roger Williams fellowship occupy the building.

Auditorium Scenery Room Is Excellent Ghost Haunt

By ROSELYN KIRK

A DIMLY lighted scenery room in the basement of the Auditorium looks like an excellent haunt for ghosts. What's more, ghosts there are. Ghosts of old plays that is.

Here the painted flats from productions of years ago are kept to furnish reminders of plays that have been, but probably will be no more.

"These old flats are used "over and over again," said Donald F. Hermes, assistant professor of speech and director of set production. Made from a pine frame and covered with canvas, the flats are "remodeled from production to production," Hermes explained.

"THEY ARE re-used until the canvas becomes so stiff with layers of paint that it cracks and must be replaced," he added.

Some of the remodeling is done by students in set production classes who "drop in and work for an hour or so," Hermes said. "But a large part of the work is in the hands of paid assistants."

A set producer must be an artist, carpenter, and architect all rolled into one. He must be able to mix just the right shade of paint or, if the occasion demands, be able to "cut a door or block up a window" in an old flat, Hermes said.

"EVERY SHOW involves an entirely different kind of work," he continued. "And since the script never gives more than a rough description, most of the details must be worked out by the set producer."

Furniture storage isn't much of a problem in the scenery room since there is "so little to store," Hermes commented ruefully. An old high chest, a three-legged stool, a sideboard, an assortment of chairs, and several beds and mattresses make up the bulk of the College-owned play furnishings. Necessary pieces of furniture are usually borrowed for each play, Hermes said.

OPENING OFF of the main scenery storage area are smaller rooms where properties and lighting equipment are stored. The property room literally contains almost everything from soup to nuts.

Here, Genie heads, saved from the production "Aladdin," hang from the ceiling while a glass bird cage occupies a prominent spot on one of the shelves. Along one wall are stacks of boxes labeled "shoes, hats, blouses." Shelves of another cupboard are laden with crockery—everything from beer mugs to china cups.

MEMBERS OF the property crew begin painting plain color on "flats" which are put together to form the walls and scenery for K-State productions. Here Loyal Huddleston, EE Jr, drops water-base paint on Gail Taplin, AEd Soph.

QUITE A CROWD, EH?—About 150 persons attended the annual spring sports banquet in the Student Union last night. This was one of the largest crowds to attend the banquet in recent years. Letters were awarded to 15 varsity gymnasts and wrestlers and 14 freshmen received numerals. Athletes competing in spring sports not yet completed will receive their letters upon completion of the spring sports calendar.

Wrestlers, Gymnasts Feted At Spring Sports Banquet

Bob Mancuso, 130-pound Wildcat grappler, received dual awards as high point varsity wrestler and most outstanding matman as voted by his teammates at the K-Fraternity's annual spring sports banquet in the Student Union ballroom last night.

Fifteen varsity wrestlers and gymnasts received letters and gymnasts received letters and 12 freshman wrestlers and 2 frosh gymnasts received numerals at the banquet.

Wrestling letters went to Mancuso, fourth year; Roland Alexander and Joe Landholm, third year; Dale Blume and Kyle Mines, second year; and Pete Everist, Ray Glaze, Gary Haller, and Ellis Rainsberger, first year.

These wrestlers placed K-State third in the Big Seven mat tournament, and finished the season with a 5-4 record in dual-meet competition.

Gymnastics lettermen are Wendell Holt, Wendell Minckley, Albert Bumpus, Robert Eshelbrenner, Allen Olsen, and Robert Gramzow. The team finished fourth in a field of nine teams in the Big Seven invitational meet at Boulder, and ended the season with a 14-8 record in dual meets.

Freshman wrestling numerals went to Perry Brinlee, James Dietrich, Kenneth Ellegood, Pat Doyle, James Good, Larry Hodges, Tommy King, Don Martin, James Miller, Jim Roberts, Robert Schmidt, and Billy Younders.

Richard Rood and George Ouye received freshman gymnastics numerals.

Varsity and freshman athletes competing in baseball, golf, tennis, and track were given recognition, but will not receive letters and numerals until they complete their current season. K-alums were given special recognition and introduced to the crowd.

The swimming team was given recognition, but no letters can be awarded until next year when K-State's team enters varsity competition.

Gene O'Connor, 400-meter sophomore hurdler, is almost a sure bet to represent the U.S. in the 1956 Olympics, Ward Haylett, track coach, said as he introduced the Wildcat track squad. He also said O'Connor's teammate, Ray Russell, may run in the Olympic 400-meter sprint.

Herbert Wunderlich, dean of students, was guest speaker.

Ponies Hot To Trot From Derby Gate

Louisville, Ky. (U.P.)—The most wide-open Kentucky Derby in years may result in the names of 18 horses passing through the box today when entries for Saturday's running of the classic are closed.

The size of the starting field has fluctuated all week. Trainers have hemmed and hawed about whether they actually would name their colts for the 82nd and richest running of the Derby at a fee of $250 each. It will cost another $1,250 to start.

The actual starting field for the mile and one-quarter golden gallop may not be known until final scratch time, 45 minutes before the 5:30 p.m., EST post time Saturday.

Syl Veitch, who trains Career Boy and Head Man for C. V. Whitney, said Career Boy would not go in the mud. But Come On Red will start only if the track is muddy.

The track was a muddy mess Tuesday after heavy rains. The long range weather forecast called for more rain before the weekend and possibly on Derby day.

Pintor Lea apparently has recovered from a wrenched knee, but trainer Jimmy Jones has indicated he may put Pintor Lea in only to gain an additional day to prepare the colt. He will take him out if he isn't sound. Then Jones still would have Fabius, winner of Tuesday's Derby trial, as a Derby starter.

Van Zile Routs Tri Delts 27-0 In Girls Softball

Van Zile hall routed Delta Delta Delta 27-0 in girls' intramural softball yesterday for their first win of the season.

Margorie Gigot, PEW Jr, went the distance on the mound for Van Zile and allowed only one hit. Suzanne Bates, Hst Soph, singled in the first inning to spoil Gigot's no hitter.

Van Zile scored 6 runs on 6 hits in the first inning against Tri Delt pitcher Marcia Hesler. In the second inning Van Zile exploded for 21 runs and went through the batting order nearly three times before they could be stopped.

Both teams decided to call the game at the end of the second inning. Billie Scott, BA Soph, hit the game's only home run in the first inning with no one on base. Hesler pitcher both innings for the Tri Delts.

Kappa Kappa Gamma won a forfeit victory over Alpha Xi Delta in the second scheduled game of the afternoon.

Waltheim hall beat Northwest hall 8-1 and Chi Omega forfeited to Kappa Kappa Gamma in the season openers in girls' softball Monday.

Barbara Puhr pitched the entire game for Waltheim.

Giants Top Cubs 6-5, Bosox Beat A's 2-0

By UNITED PRESS

Baseball records fell like rain yesterday as the New York Giants beat the Chicago Cubs 6-5 in a 17-inning marathon in which 48 players saw action.

Hero of the weird battle was second-baseman Daryl Spencer who lifted a sacrifice fly with the bases loaded and one out in the 17th.

In the American league the Boston Red Sox beat the Kansas City Athletics 2-0. Jackie Jensen singled home the Red Sox' first run in the first inning and Mickey Vernon doubled home the winning run in the fifth.

The Cincinnati Redlegs walloped five home runs last night to jolt the Brooklyn Dodgers, 10-6. It was the sixth straight win for the Redlegs and the fourth straight defeat for the stumbling World Champions.

Gus Bell hit a pair of two-run homers to lead Cincinnati's attack and Wally Post, George Crowe, and Ray Jablonski also homered. Duke Snider, Roy Campanella, and Sandy Amoros homered for the Dodgers.

The St. Louis Cardinals beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 10-9, in a 10-inning night game.

Clark, Stone and Zeller Lead Cat Baseballers

Paul Clark, batting .387, Dick Stone with a pitching earned run average of 1.64 a game, and Eldon Zeller with 11 runs batted in, lead K-State baseballers in those departments through nine games.

The Cats have compiled a 4-5 overall record and a 2-4 Big Seven mark to date.

Victories came at the expense of Wichita U, 12-4, Memphis Naval Air Station, 10-2, KU, 2-1, and Oklahoma, 4-3. The Kansas and OU wins count for Big Seven competition.

Dick Stone has proved to be the Wildcat iron horse. The Cat pitcher has gone the route on each of his only two outings—both of K-State's Big Seven wins. Stone presents a sparkling 1.64 earned run average; he has yielded just 4 earned runs in 22 innings. In addition, Stone has fanned 17 while walking only two and allowing 13 hits.

Aside from pitching, Stone scored the winning run in the 13-inning marathon with Oklahoma after doubling. His two-base hit climaxed a 2-for-5 afternoon at bat.

Clark leads Ray Wauthier's charges with a .387 batting average. His 12 hits include three doubles and a triple. Clark went hitless in only one game—against Missouri's ace, Norm Stewart. Clark also leads his team in runs scored with 10.

Eldon Zeller, Wildcat outfielder, has bagged five hits in five games for a .357 average, and his 11 RBI's speak for timely hitting.

Other Wildcat leaders are pitcher Bill Blume with 21 strikeouts and Wally Carlson who has 8 hits and 8 RBI's. Carlson's hit total includes a pair of donbles and two triples.

Bob Boyd, centerfielder, has poked out seven hits, two good for extra bases, for three RBI's. LaVerne Billinger, Cat backstop, has knocked in five runs on five hits including a double.

Dick Stone has a 2-0 record to lead Cat pitchers. Dick Renfro has posted a 1-1 record to rank behind Stone. Bill Sinderson and Ron Bergren each have 0-1 marks, and Bill Blume has an 0-2 standing.

As a team, K-State is batting .207. The Wildcats have pounded out 56 hits, 13 for extra bases. There have been no homers as yet though. Stickers have batted in 35 of the 41 Kansas State runs.

Cat hurlers have compiled a 5.96 composite earned run average. K-State pitching has given up 74 hits and 63 runs in 68 innings ,although only 45 of those runs were earned. Wildcat moundsmen have walked 42 enemy batters as opposed to 49 strikeouts.

The Wildcats travel to Boulder, Colo., for two games—on Friday and Saturday. Colorado has split their two conference games thus far. The Buffs lost 7-4 to Missouri, then beat MU ace, Norm Stewart, 4-3.

Statistics exclude the 10-2 KSC win over the Memphis Naval Air Station, no game records being available.

Bat Clips Sauer; 62-Stitch Injury

St. Louis, (U.P.)—The St. Louis Cardinals outfielder Hank Sauer was hospitalized "for several days" today with a severe concussion and lacerations which required a total of 62 stitches.

The big slugger, playing his first season with the Cardinals, was hit on the left ear and mouth last night in pre-game batting practice.

Catcher Walker Cooper had followed Sauer into the batting cage. The bat slipped from his hands on his first swing and struck Sauer.

Dick Stone Spells Trouble, Both as Cager and Pitcher

Whether he's shooting a basketball or fogging a fast pitch down the middle Dick Stone spells trouble for K-State opposition.

Dick finished the basketball season with a 7 point average, but netted most of his points when the Cats really needed them.

In the current young baseball season he's pitched K-State to its only two conference wins.

In the Oklahoma game Monday he pitched all but one out and won the game for himself when he doubled, went to third on a wild pitch, and scored the winning run in the last of the 13th on an overthrow.

Earlier in the year he scattered four hits and beat KU 2-1 at Lawrence.

Prior to this season Dick's name hasn't been connected with K-State baseball. But that's not because he doesn't like the sport.

"I never went out for baseball here because spring basketball practice always started about the same time baseball did," Dick commented. "I like to play though, because it keeps me in shape the year round."

While in high school at Winfield Dick lettered three years in baseball and was captain of the team his senior year.

Although Dick's fame is as a basketball player, his main forte in high school was baseball. He lettered three years in the diamond sport at Winfield and received two monograms for his basketball efforts.

Stone pitched for the Winfield American Legion team in 1951 and played in the Kansas-Missouri All-Star game.

Although Dick wasn't counted on for pitching help at the start of the season, he's served notice by way of his two wins that he's one of the better pitchers on the Wildcat roster.

"My most effective pitches are the fast ball, curve, and change-up," Dick says. LaVerne Billinger is usually on the receiving end of Stone's pitches.

Dick is now in ROTC and plans on an air force hitch to start in September when he's scheduled to report to Lackland field, Texas.

HANG LOOSE in there. Dick Stone gets in some practice throws before the Cats leave for Boulder to play the Colorado Buffaloes. Dick is 2-0 on the season so far and owns K-State's two Big Seven wins—those over KU and Oklahoma.

Popular Cocktail Gown Is Formal or Informal

By MARY BECKMEYER

Cocktail dresses are becoming increasingly popular for formal occasions at K-State.

Coeds have found cocktail dresses more practical than frothy full-length formals. The cocktail dress is in vogue whether the occasion calls for semi-formal or formal wear.

Due to its increase in popularity, the cocktail dress has become more elaborate. Fabrics of lace, organdy, brocade satin and lamé are used en masse.

Fabrics are combined for many creations. The golden shimmer of lamé over floating white silk organza printed in gilt and spattered with rhinestones makes an extravagant combination.

Crystallete, a very popular fabric, is featured for the slim sheath dress and also for the full petticoated dresses.

Organdy, the traditional spring fabric, takes on a sophisticated effect in a black, belled princess dress with a neckline tiered in freshness of white organdy.

Floral print organdy is also a favorite for light, floaty cocktail dresses.

White pique, another traditional spring fabric, is plentiful for sheath dresses or for the popular widely-belled skirt. Cocktail dresses made from this practical fabric can be worn for any festive occasion.

Even the checkered gingham tablecloths have left the country kitchens and are being converted into glamorous cocktail creations.

Sophisticated sheath dresses are featuring checked gingham with organza bows and pique over-collars.

Lace over a full-skirted gingham creation is also being worn this spring.

The versatile cocktail dress which provides a costume for afternoon-into-evening, can be made more or less fussy to fit the occasion.

Because of the trend of practical and less formal wearing apparel, the cocktail dress is here to stay in the college girls' wardrobe.

American Institute of Architects

Charles Hight was recently elected president of the K-State chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

New vice-president is Bill Wilson; secretary, Phyllis Shook; and treasurer, Keith Fillmore. All are architecture majors.

Nearly $500 in awards and scholarships will be presented to outstanding architecture students at the AIA awards banquet, at 6 p.m. today in the Student Union.

The banquet is being held in conjunction with Tau Sigma Delta, honorary architecture fraternity. Speaker for the event is Don Denew, well-known Kansas architect.

Grads, Historians, Engineers Offered 14 Scholarships

Funds for a $3,000 four-year scholarship have been given to K-State by the J. B. Ehrsam and Sons company of Enterprise, Max Milbourn, director of public service, said.

The scholarship will be awarded to an incoming freshman engineering student, and is the second scholarship of this type to be given to the College by the Ehrsam company.

The recipient will get $750 a year, but must maintain a 2-point grade average if the scholarship is to be renewed. In addition, the student will be guaranteed summer employment at the Ehrsam firm.

A $500 scholarship for research in Kansas history will be given to a graduate student, Kenneth M. Heywood, director of development, has announced.

Funds for the annual scholarship, to be given for the first time, were donated anonymously by a Kansas resident in an attempt to:

Provide an incentive to students to become teachers of history, especially Kansas history, in the public schools of Kansas;

Produce a wider knowledge, understanding and appreciation of the Kansas heritage;

Aid in the discovery and preservation of phases of Kansas history, particularly in South Central Kansas, which have not been adequately recorded.

Heywood said it is hoped applications will be received in time that the first scholarship holder can start his program of study this fall.

Anyone interested in the scholarship should send his application to Fred Parrish, head of the department of history, government and philosophy.

Graduate students interested in foreign study may apply soon for Marshall scholarships, Harold Howe, dean of the graduate school, reports.

The scholarships, twelve in all, have been given annually for the last three years by the British government to United States graduate students. The awards come as a gesture of thanks for aid given Britain through the Marshall plan.

Latest possible date of application is October 15, 1956.

The awards are made to students of either sex, who must be citizens of the U.S. Candidates must be college graduates and be under 28 years of age on October 1 of the year in which the award is used.

The scholarships are tenable at any university in the United Kingdom.

The awards are made for two years but may be extended to three.

A Success Because

'Bridey Helps To Show What We Don't Know'

Bridey Murphy was a success because American people are searching for an interpretation of life after death, said Rabbi Samuel S. Mayerberg last night in a talk at the Civic auditorium.

Mayerberg, Rabbi of the Temple of B'nai Jehudah in Kansas City, read the book because he wanted to learn why it has been so successful and become a best seller overnight. "People want to read information about Bridey Murphy, and because so many persons believe anything they read in print, it has met with high success," he said.

"The author himself believes that the story is true," he continued.

Bridey Murphy said, among other things, that her husband had been a law student, but there is no record of him at the school he was supposed to have attended.

Mayerberg said that a Denver paper sent a reporter to Ireland in an attempt to prove the story, but he came back without any proof.

The author was so determined to prove the regression that he probably unconsciously gave her subtle indications as to what the answer to his questions should be," he continued.

"Man yearns for a continuing life after death," he said. "This earth is an antichamber to heaven, and here we prepare ourselves for a world to come. Because this world is not definitely described, people seek an answer."

Incarnation has long been wondered about, Mayerberg continued. The early philosophers in Greece first wrote about it.

Today there are some Hindues who believe in recarnation to such an extent that they will not walk at night for fear of stepping on an insect that housed the body of an ancestor, he said.

Hammarskjold Says Cease-Fire Gained For Israel, Arabs

Compiled from United Press
By HARRY MACHIN, Jr.

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector—United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold reported today that he has won cease fire agreements among Israel and its four Arab neighbors.

In a preliminary report to U.N. headquarters released in New York, Hammarskjold said the cease fire agreements include reservations for self-defense by the nations involved.

The report was filed from here yesterday. He planned to wind up his successful peace mission to the Middle East today with a series of conferences designed to wrap up loose ends. He was expected back in New York this weekend.

Aerobee Rocket Fails

WHITE SANDS, N.M.—The failure of an oxidizer to trigger the powerful motor of the navy's Aerobee-Hi rocket was blamed today for the rocket's failure to blast 185 miles into the ionosphere. Instead, it fizzled out at 10,000 feet and crashed to earth.

Navy officers said privately that they were bitterly disappointed by the fiasco, which followed a big advance buildup.

The Navy will try again Tuesday. Three more tests are scheduled here and another one is planned at Fort Churchill, along Hudson's bay in Canada.

VOLUME LXII — Kansas State College, Manhattan, Kansas, Friday, May 4, 1956 — NUMBER 136

CRIME DOES NOT PAY—An unidentified culprit is caught sneaking past a "Take a Walk" sign erected on various cowpaths by Mortar Board members. This particular individual took off his shoes to keep from tripping the camera, cleverly hidden behind a linotype machine installed on the sidewalk for the purpose.

'Be Kind to Grass' Week Afoot on KS Cowpaths

"Take a walk," members of Mortar Board, honorary for senior women, say in their campaign to beautify the campus.

They set aside this week as the beginning week of their project. Through letters to organized houses and the dormitories, they have asked every student to take a sidewalk instead of walking across the grass.

Students who are faced with the temptation of cutting across lawns will find signs placed on "cowpaths" across the campus. The green signs in the shape of a foot suggest, "Take a walk."

The purpose of Mortar Board's new project is to improve the appearance of the campus and to encourage students to take pride in it.

Mortar Board members said, in a letter to the Collegian Monday, "We will be able to be as proud of our entire campus as we are of the new Student Union if every student and faculty member will make it his individual project to "take a walk" and to be less careless with trash and cigarettes."

Amphitryon Adds New Twist To The Old Eternal Triangle

The spectacular sets, brilliant wit, skillful lighting, and colorful costumes of the K-State Players' production, "Amphitryon 38," created delightful entertainment for the audience last night. Amphitryon 38 by Jean Giraudoux, satirizes Greek gods and the days of the Roman Empire.

Jupiter, a god, played by Baird Miller, Sp Sr, and Mercury, also a god, portrayed by Bruce Bellamy, Sp Gr, disguise themselves as earthly creatures and visit the villa of Amphitryon, a wealthy Roman, played by Ken Nakari, Phy Fr. Jupiter is in love with Alkmena, Aphitryon's wife, played by An Soelter, Sp Soph, and tries to seduce her but she refuses sayin gthat she loves her husband. Mercury persuades Jupiter to pursue Alkmena in the form of Amphitryon.

Jupiter appears to Alkmena in the form of Amphitryon and tries to explain the origin of the earth to her and build up her estimation of himself, but she isn't interested. Only earthly things seem to have any value to her and she tells him that she would prefer to be herself rather than a goddess.

Jupiter is disappointed and puzzled that Alkmena isn't impressed by him as were the many lovers before her. Mercury consoles him by offering to talk to Alkmena and show her what a great honr is being given to her.

After Mercury talks to Alkmena and tells her Jupiter is going to visit her that night, she persuades Leda, her friend, played by Joan Guyer, Art Jr, to poise for her when Jupiter comes. Leda prepares for Jupiter but it is Amphitryon who comes instead of Jupiter. Alkmena is confused and thinks he is Jupiter so she tricks him into seducing Leda. Amphitryon does not suspect. Jupiter appears and Alkmena finds out her mistake.

Women's Day Picnic Planned

All Women's Day will begin Monday with a picnic supper for all K-State women students in Nichols gymnasium at 5:30 p.m.

After the picnic group-singing will be led by Meredith Brink, MGS Soph, and short talks will be given by Dean Helen Moore and Betty Lu Gard, past Southern Regional Association of Women Students coordinator. A skit will be given by representatives of the KU AWS.

The address for the evening will be given by Martha Petersson, KU Dean of Women. The program will be over in time for freshmen women to return to the dormitories by 8 p.m.

Marilyn Clark, EEd Soph, temporary Women's council president, said that the evening will serve not only to acquaint K-Staters with the AWS program, but will also be an evening of fun for those who attend.

Sky's The Limit At Dive Tonight

Romancers will dance under the stars tonight at the Dive night club, weather permitting. The Student Union terrace will be the place—the blue lights and the stars will furnish the atmosphere.

Harvey Haas and his band from Junction City will provide the music for the dance that begins at nine.

A chorus line of Pi Beta Phi's will kick up their heels as part of the floor show. Ernest Allen, Sp Soph, and Gail Compton, Sp Fr, will sing solos. Kathleen Schultis, HEJ Fr, will lend her talent as a pianist. Harpo Griffith, Sp Fr, will be master of ceremonies.

"Lost Horizons" will be shown in the Little Theater tonight, Saturday, and Sunday, at 7:30 p.m.

'Siren' Douses Flame

Cops 'Pin' Candle-Bearing Nightie-Clad Pinning Singer

By GARY HAYNES

A pinning at the Pi Beta Phi house ended with a flourish last night as a pajama-clad Phi Delt was whisked off to the po station in a patrol car with siren screaming.

Duncan Erickson, Ar 02, was released by police after they discovered it was all a hoax. He had appeared at the pinning of a fraternity brother clad in a nightshirt, carrying a candle, and singing "I Love You Truly."

It was a part of a bet made earlier in the afternoon with Pi Phi Sondra Tate, Art Soph, that Evert Asjes, LDs Fr, and Anne Manion, ML Soph, wouldn't announce their pinning that evening.

"If they do," Erickson told Miss Tate, "I'll be at the pinning in my nightshirt singing 'I Love You Truly'."

"I asked him to put it in writing," Miss Tate said. "He did, they did, and he was," she laughed.

While the Phi Delts sang during the pinning, someone slipped away and called the police.

"They said there was a man in a nightshirt walking down the street at the Pi Phi house," police captain August Krey said. "It sounded like a legitimate complaint, and we dispatched a patrol car immediately."

Pinning Singer

The car reached the Pi Phi house at the Phi Delts were leaving, and Erickson was crossing the lawn in his pajamas. Police nabbed the "intruder."

"I tried to get away, but they carried me to the car," he said. "I thought it was just an act for the Pi Phis, and told the officer driving that it was all very funny, and that he could let me out at 508 Sunset."

The humor eluded the officer. He took Erickson to the station. "We had no idea it was a hoax," Captain Krey said.

The patrol car was closely followed by Erickson's fraternity brothers and the Phi Delta Theta housemother, Mrs. J. R. Hurley. After police discovered it was a joke, they went along with the gag, and made Erickson stand and sing his song at the station.

"We threatened to sign a complaint against him if he didn't," a clerk laughed.

Revolution Is Base For Red Calendar

"Russians date their time since 1917, the date of the glorious revolution, not since the birth of Christ as other countries do, and they have made a vast amount of progress since that year," said Herb Plambeck, featured speaker at the Agriculture seminar yesterday.

Plambeck was one of a group of 12 American men who toured Russia at the time of Stalin's death. He gave a short talk and showed colored slides of his trip.

Russian agriculture is divided into three units:

The collective farm, which is a large farm split into several plots. It is run by the state, and people go there to work just as they go to factories in America. They are paid according to the amount they produce over their quota, which is set by the state.

The state farm, which is a livestock breeding unit and a show place.

The machine-tractor station, each of which provides tractors and machinery for about ten collective farms.

"Russians do not have the technical know-how about farming that we have, but they are learning fast," Plambeck said.

"As an example, we saw a section of 75 million acres which is an area about the size of Kansas and Iowa put together, of virgin land in Siberia which had been plowed and planted to corn and spring wheat."

"The corn, in my estimation, was an utter failure, and the wheat was very poor. This is because they have only a 75-day growing season there, and the winter temperatures get as low as 90 degrees below zero."

"The Russians did not know they could not farm so far north and so they brought in 25,000 tractors and other machinery, and moved thousands of workers into the area to farm it. The project was a failure, but they have learned their lesson.

Prices in Russia are extremely high. A man's suit would cost about $500 in American money there. A pound of lean pork costs about $4, and fat pork runs ever higher. Therefore, 70 per cent of the people's diet is composed of potatoes and black bread.

Russia puts tremendous emphasis on education. They are training thousands of scientists and engineers—many more than the United States is training.

"I consider myself very lucky to be one of the few men who have had an intimate look at life behind the Iron Curtain, but after 36 days in a land where there is no freedom of speech, press, religion, or opportunity, and no freedom from fear, I was happy to be back in a land of freedom such as our United States," Plambeck said.

We're Looking Forward To True Pre-Enrollment

IT WILL BE a blessing for the Collegian when the present pre-advisement system is changed to pre-enrollment at the spring semester next year.

The Collegian (and the students at K-State) have had no end of trouble keeping the present setup straight. Part of this is due to the fact that sometimes K-State administrators haven't had it straight. Proof of this could have been shown earlier in the year when, at the same time the Collegian was being chastized for calling it "pre-enrollment," some official files were doing the same thing.

UNDER THE present setup, the student works out a plan that he hopes will work at enrollment time. When actual pre-enrollment replaces pre-advisement next January, scheduling and card pulling in Nichols gym will be eliminated.

In the meantime, pre-advisement (which technically means "before advisement") is being carried out to help students plan next fall's schedule due. Next fall, students will go to Nichols and try to get the cards for the classes they have selected.

YESTERDAY THE Collegian erred by telling students to go to their "dean's office" to be assigned to an adviser. That's not completely true.

It's true that, in the schools of Home Economics and Agriculture, students should go to the dean's office for assignment to an adviser. In Home Ec, they should go to Assistant Dean Martha Kramer; in Ag, they should go to Assistant Dean Clyde Mullen.

But, in the schools of Engineering and Architecture and Arts and Sciences, students should go to their departmental offices. Pre-advisement is optional in Engineering and Architecture.

THE SCHOOL OF Veterinary Medicine does not have pre-advisement.

There's the situation as it has been explained to us. And we'll be darned glad when the setup is changed to pre-enrollment—for two reasons. First, we won't have to stand in line for class cards in Nichols gym; second we won't have to explain pre-advisement any more.—Darrel Miller.

California Pompon Girls Stopped for Being Sexy

By Ann Weathers

POMPON GIRLS (extra-fancy cheerleaders) at the University of California football games are to be discontinued because of comments that numbers like Charlestons and hulas were "sexy, inappropriate, and degrading to the University."

Certainly they are. Why, I'll bet we all have the most degraded parents ever born, since many of them originated and made an almost daily practice of Charlestons and (pardon the expression) Black-Bottoms. We must continually strive to protect the lily-pure minds of all male students. (Furtive chuckle).

●

OKAY YOU THUMB-sucker in disguise! Crush out that cigarette! You're telling on yourself!

A doctor at the University of Illinois college of Dentistry claims that smokers, gum chewers, and nail biters share one thing in common—they are all former thumb suckers. Sez he, "The truth is that we are both reformed thumb suckers who, for social reasons, have turned to substitute adult satisfactions. You probably had a small thumb and turned to cigarettes. I had the largest thumb in the neighborhood, so I naturally turned to cigars."

Now, you know. (I don't know what you know, but that's irrevelant).

●

COEDS IN THE dorms at Indiana university are reportedly annoyed with the maid service they have. Seems they don't want to pick their things up so the maid can dust and mop their rooms. They consider it "inconvenient, unnecessary, and generally annoying."

Tough!

●

TEMPLE UNIVERSITY in Philadelphia has just purchased a cemetery adjacent to their campus. I knew there was a teacher shortage, and now I also know where that formaldehyde odor permeating the classrooms comes from.

●

MORE NASTY digs at professors. In a freshman English literature class at Indiana university, the instructor handed out a mimeographed sheet giving instructions for an hour test. The sheet said, in part: "Answer the questions in the order in which they appear on this paper. Errors in spelling, grammar and punctuation will be penelized."

(In case you had to look it up as I did, the word is spelled "penalized.") Tsk, tsk.

●

ONE PROF AT the University of Oklahoma reported to the school paper that he intended, during his leave of absence, to study: "What is the polynesian porpoise's purpose? Does the Sulphurbottom whale fedangle with dolphin darlings? How do little fish sit down while in school?

Sounds logical.

●

OXFORD UNIVERSITY declares dancing is not permissible at the University Jazz club. As one of the advanced students of jazz told a reporter, "Dig me, man. Those squares don't let us cats rock!" (My, how original.)

"The club," said high mucky-muck, "was set up as a center for the appreciation of jazz, to study the theory—you could say, to study its jungle background."

Well, boys, there's always the modern dance or ballet club.

●

THE ATHLETIC department might do well to adopt this new sport sponsored by East Texas State Teachers college—tobacco spitting!

A junior won the contest two years ago by expelling a stream of juice 23 feet. A year later, a strong wind shortened his efforts to 21 feet 3 inches.

I imagine all the big tobacco companies will run right out and sponsor scholarships for promising tobacco chawers. They might even make it an Olympic event!

Aggieville Restaurants, Drugstores Have Same Business as Before Union Opened

By CAROLYN LUSK

A POLL OF Aggieville restaurant operators and druggists indicates a general satisfaction toward competition from the new Union.

Of eight merchants polled, most felt that they were doing as much business as before. Some reported more. All felt that a 15 to 20 per cent drop felt at the time of the Union opening had disappeared, and that business was climbing steadily. None had any fear of being permanently wiped out of business.

MERCHANTS attributed their continued success to being able to operate with less expense, and being able to give more personal service than the Union.

Many of them sell 5-cent coffee, and a few sell milk for 5 cents. They say they are able to do this as they have only one manager to support, while the Union must support several. They know many of their customers by name, and sometiems permit IOUs when a student is short of cash.

The Canteen manager, Charles Ramey, said coke time has slowed down, but that meals have increased. He now stays open an hour longer in the evening to accommodate more persons for the evening meal. Breakfast has picked up 50 per cent, he said.

A DROP ON Sunday and at the evening meal is reported. Merchants felt this could be attributed in part to the picnic weather. Drugstores report only a slight drop in cokes and coffee.

All of the merchants said the Union was a good thing, and said they were glad the students finally got it.

Union Director Loren Kottner said he felt that cultural facilities provided by the Union have brought new business to Manhattan. He felt this would benefit the Aggieville merchants as well as the Union.

Hallmark '40' Next in Union Art Gallery

Forty prize-winning water color paintings from the Hallmark Art award competition will go on exhibition Sunday, May 6, in the Union art gallery. The exhibition will be on display until May 20.

Selected from nearly 4 thousand entries from 35 countries, the water colors depict various scenes of Christmas, said Professor J. Cranston Heintzelman, head of the department of architecture and allied arts exhibit committee.

Included in the exhibit are the four major prize winners representing the United States, Switzerland, Italy, and France.

The United States is represented in the exhibit with 26 paintings, France and the Netherlands by three paintings each, and Italy by two paintings. The works of Swiss, German, Belgian, Canadian, and Spanish artists complete the exhibit.

This competition was the second such international contest sponsored by the Hallmark greeting card firm. Prizes awarded the 40 pictures in the exhibit totaled $9,500. An additional $3 thousand in honorable mention awards was presented to 60 other painters.

Since the initial showing of the paintings in New York, in 1952, the collection has been exhibited at a number of the nation's leading art galleries and museums including the Carnegie institute and the William Rockhill Nelson art gallery.

Turn Often, Use Lotion When Cooking a Suntan

Although rainy weather is here now, it probably won't be long before sunny weather arrives and students flock to sunny spots to get that "been-in-the-sun" look.

This annual migration to the sun usually results in a number of serious sunburn cases, however, none have been reported to student health this spring, according to Dr. B. W. Lafene, director of Student Health.

Even though none have been reported, Dr. Lafene cautioned against too much exposure. It often results in permanent skin damage, and by weakening the tissues is thought to cause skin cancer, he said.

Exposure should be only 15 to 20 minutes on a side, on first exposures, he said. The time can then be gradually lengthened without serious effects.

Many people attribute pale skin to a lack of sunshine. This may be true, he said, however, he felt few people were lacking in Vitamin D. More often, it is due to an anemic condition, illness, or even natural coloring through race origin, he said.

Nordic and Scandinavian races are usually highly sensitive to the sun, however, some dark-skinned people are too, he said.

Sun lamps are the cause of many burns, as people are inclined to think they aren't as powerful as the sun and fall asleep under them. The strength of the rays varies with the type lamp used, however, strong ones are used most, he said. The mercury-arc burners are the most powerful.

Many prepared lotions are on sale for sunning, however, a popular home preparation is baby oil and iodine. This mixture is made by adding a few drops of iodine to a bottle of baby oil until it is slightly pink. Girls who use this preparation feel that gives a quicker tan.

Too much exposure makes a person feel weak and nauseated. This feeling is caused by the toxic poisons that originate in burned areas and are then carried into the bloodstream, Lafene said.

Letters Not Well-Red

Hoopston, Ill. (U.P.)—Two letters mailed by Earl Benner in Russia in 1918 and 1919 were "returned to sender" recently.

Benner wrote the letters home while serving with an Allied North Russian expeditionary force in Russia. They came back in an envelope postmarked Washington, D.C.—with no explanation for the "slight delay."

Closing Out Sale For '55 RP Cuts

Engravings of pictures printed in the 1955 Royal Purple can be obtained by departments or organizations who may have use for them.

Because of limited space Student Publications must clear their shelves of these cuts before May 10 to make room for the 1956 plates.

Several departments and organizations have used previous plates for publicity purposes in past years. If these parties have use for the cuts, they may call for them in Kedzie 103A.

JUCO TRANSFER Dick Circle has compiled a 5-3 won-lost mark in his second year at K-State. Letterman Circle will team with the Cats' No. 1 netman, Bob Hansen, in meets with Nebraska today and Oklahoma tomorrow. Circle and Hansen have a 6-2 mark as a doubles team. Circle, who has been runnerup in state class AA and junior-college tourneys, think K-State's chances in the Big Seven meet in Manhattan this year are "better than for quite a while."

Raters Give Old Pug 'Great Title Chance'

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

New York, May 4, (U.P.)—Jimmy Braddock today gives Archie Moore "a great chance" to wind up as heavyweight champion of the world come September—and those two names show how times have changed in boxing.

They called Braddock the "Cinderella Man" because he came back from virtual retirement and, at the advanced age of 30, won the title from Max Baer. Reams were written about the "old man's" comeback.

But now, 20 years later, the 42-year-old Moore is front and center in the race for the heavyweight title vacated by Rocky Marciano.

Moore claims that he is "only" 39. It's a matter of opinion, even in his own family. Archie's mother says he was born on December 13, 1913, and that figures out to going on 43.

But you can't deny the fact that ancient Archie is almost a cinch to be fighting for the title, again, in September. This time he could win it, too.

His two leading opponents are Floyd Patterson and Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson. Current planning is for Patterson to eliminate Jackson in a summer bout after which he will tangle with old Arch in September for the crown.

The winner of next Wednesday night's Miami bout between Bob Baker and Johnny Holman also may wriggle into the elimination. Patterson supposedly would take care of that gladiator, too, because Moore has a light heavyweight date with Yolande Pompey in London on June 5. .....

"But no matter what happens." says Braddock, "they're going to have to contend with Moore. The only thing against him is father time."

Certainly the clock is on Archie's back, and if the heavyweight elimination business takes longer than expected, he could be a loser for the delay.

"Moore is smart, though, and he keeps in shape by fighting steadily," Braddock commented. "I don't think there's anybody around who can knock him out and meanwhile he can out-cute most of 'em."

Patterson, the former olympic champion who wanted no part of Marciano and was content to wait on the outside until the Rock bowed out, has come a long way in recent months. True, he hasn't fought anyone of any consequence.

But, at 21 he has youth going for him as well as the fastest pair of hands since the days of young Joe Lewis. They say he can't possibly miss, sooner or later.

The only man who apparently stands in his way is Moore.

Wildcat Flyer Has Ceiling Of 13½ Feet Minus Plane

By MARY JANE SHERER

Karl Lindenmuth could be called a flying polevaulter. This is rather a parallel to the "flying parson," the Rev. Bob Richards.

But there actually is a reason to call Karl a flying polevaulter. He's interested in flying. Only one drawback though, he doesn't have a plane.

He does get in some flying time though. Even when he's not in an airplane Karl logs air time. Of course none of this high altitude flying is done in airplanes. To be exact, Karl flies about 13 feet, 6 inches above the ground.

At least that's the height he cleared polevaulting at the Southwest Louisiana Relays three weeks ago. That flying was good enough to win him a first-place medal.

Track coach Ward Haylett won't go out on a limb to predict Karl's success as an airplane pilot, but he's optimistic concerning his future as a polevaulter.

"He's the most promising sophomore polevaulter at the present time and has gone higher than any other sophomore in K-State history," Haylett said.

"I look forward to Lindenmuth showing great improvement next year," the Wildcat track mentor added.

In fact, Haylett gives the 5-9 sophomore from Scott City a good chance of reaching the much sought-after 15-foot polevault mark before he hangs up his spikes.

Although Karl excells in track, his first love is gymnastics. It takes a lot of time and practice to keep in top polevaulting form, Karl says. For this reason he doesn't have time to compete in gymnastics.

Karl is a physical education major and plans to coach after he graduates.

Last-place Topeka won their second game of the young Western league season last night as they shut out first-division Pueblo 1-0.

Doug Bridges throttled the Dodger farm team on two hits for the Hawks' second low-hit performance this week. They beat Des Moines 3-2 Monday night as two Hawk pitchers limited the Bruins to one safety.

Landy, Delany To Race Tomorrow in California

Los Angeles (U.P.)—Ron Delany, Villanova college sophomore who has run the fastest mile in the United States this year, said today he would put forth his greatest effort against John Landy here Saturday.

The Irish runner who calls Dublin his home said he was flattered by the statement of the Australian champion who felt Delany should prove his greatest competitor in Saturday's special mile.

"I hope I live up to his kind words," Delany said prior to limbering up on the Coliseum track where the race will be staged. "I would like nothing better than to run my best against Mr. Landy.

"I have nothing to go by in determining how well I can run against him. After all, he has run faster than four minutes on four occasions and that's a feat no one has matched."

"I'll be trying for the greatest effort of my career—that I can promise," Delany vowed.

Landy, although pointing for a four-minute mark in his first U.S. appearance, disclosed he found the tracks here harder than those he ran on in Australia or Europe.

The Australian school teacher said his practice turns on both the Coliseum track and that at Bovard field where University of Southern California trains, proved them less springy than the tracks he previously had run on.

"It is my great hope that I can break four minutes in my first appearance here but I would not like to say definitely I will do that. It's a case of being acclimated."

Powell Sails Over 1 Mark, Pins Another to the Ground

CRAMMIN' FOR FINALS?—No, not much. What Joe Powell is really thinking about is the varsity record in the javelin he set at the Colorado Relays last week. Joe threw the spear 212'-11" to erect the new mark. He must hit the books once in a while though, because he has a 2.2 grade average.

By LARRY McGHEE

Joe Powell, tall, lanky physical education senior from Emporia, holds a distinction which is not often equaled in college sports.

He has the double honor of holding the Ahearn Field House record in the high jump, and just recently has set a new varsity record in the javelin.

Joe set the high jump record with a 6-4 leap in a home quadrangular meet with Emporia State, Omaha U, and Drake in February.

The javelin record, which was his best throw of the year, was a 212-11 heave in the Colorado Relays at Boulder last week. The throw was also a new meet record. The old record of 205-6 was set by Loosli, of the university of Utah in 1955.

The old K-State record was set by Don Fraizer in 1951 with a 201-5½ throw.

Track is not Joe's only ability, however. He holds the additional distinction of being a double-leterman at K-State, with letters in both track and basketball.

In basketball, Joe won a freshman numeral his first year, and has three varsity letters.

His unusual jumping ability aids Joe with a shot that utilizes his height and springiness, according to Tex Winter. However, Joe favors a long set shot.

A graduate of Emporia high school, Joe lettered in basketball his last three years there, and won the state high jump championship in 1952.

Joe suffered from an illness early in the season his junior year, causing him to lose twenty pounds. This handicapped him, causing him to lose out on a lot of ball.

"Powell's high jumping has been handicapped lately because of a sprained ankle. This caused him to lose some of his spring, but I think he will be ready to jump in the meet with Nebraska U here next Tuesday," track coach Ward Haylett said.

A hitch in the army is Joe's immediate plan after graduation. After his tour with Uncle Sam, he expects to coach high school basketball, track, or baseball.

Joe usually spends his summers playing baseball. Last summer he played semi-pro baseball for Boeing at Wichita. His most interesting job was as a policeman in Garden City one summer, Joe said.

When asked if he had anything else to say about himself, Joe smiled, "Well, I have a 2.2 grade average in my major, but I'd rather you didn't mention that."

"Powell has made fast improvement this year over his previous marks and I think he has a chance of improving even more this season," coach Haylett said.

A's Become Athletic, Outlast Yankees 8-7

The Kansas City Athletics pulled one out of the surprise box yesterday as they beat the New York Yankees 8-7.

The winning run came in the top of the ninth after big Gus Zernial got a surprise bunt single, advancing Enos Slaughter, who had doubled, into scoring position. Harry Simpson's sacrifice fly then scored Slaughter from third.

The Cleveland Indians are right in the middle of a hot streak and after a slow start they have now won seven of their last eight games. Yesterday the Tribe jumped on the Baltimore Orioles and came out of the fray with a 7-1 win tucked under the belt. Mike Garcia pitched a neat six-hitter for the winners.

A 475-foot homer by Jim Lemon gave the Senators all the runs they needed to chalk up a 7-4 win over the Chicago White Sox and knock the Sox out of first place in the American League. The Yanks took over the top rung despite their loss to Kansas City.

Frank Sullivan pitched a six-hitter to give the Boston Red Sox a 5-2 win over Detroit and run his lifetime mark against the Tigers to 8-2. Dick Gernert and Frank Malzone hit two-run homers for the Red Sox, who climbed back to the .500-mark with a 6-6 season's record.

In the National League, Roy Campanella, Gil Hodges and Carl Furillo hit third-inning homers as the Brooklyn Dodgers snapped a four-game losing streak with a 7-3 verdict over the St. Louis Cardinals. Don Newcombe won his third game although he needed help from Clem Labine in the ninth.

Bob Friend's five-hitter and two-run homers by Frank Thomas and Dale Long enabled the Pittsburgh Pirates to beat the Cincinnati Redlegs, 5-1, in the only other game played. The loss snapped the Redlegs' six-game winning streak.

French Champ Fights Tonight

Washington (U.P.)—French featherweight boxing champion Cherif Hamia has mustered up enough English ot tell reporters he is not too worried about his 10-rounder tonight with unranked Ike Chestnut of New York.

Hamia, ranked by Ring magazine at number 3 contender for Sandy Saddler's world title, said the battle will be "just another fight." The 25-year-old Frenchman is rated a 2-1 favorite.

In his only previous American appearance, Hamia defeated highly-touted Carmelo Costa, now ranked number 4 contender for the featherweight crown.

Despite the fact that he is on the short end of the odds, Chestnut is confident he will beat the Frenchman. Reminded that Hamia is the number 3 contender, the New York fighter, who also is 25, said, "That don't mean nothin'. I'm as good as any featherweight around."

Chestnut's trainer, Fred Fierro, said tonight's battle is his fighter's "first big fight and he is looking forward to it." He said Chestnut wound up his training yesterday.

Both fighters have had 26 fights. Hamia won 24, 13 by nkockouts. Chestnut has won 19, lost four and drawn three.

Major Loops Eye Magnolia Catcher

By UNITED PRESS

Wake Forest, N.C. (U.P.)—It may be that the last college athlete Wake Forest sends from the old magnolia-scented campus here to the big-time will sally forth within a month.

Some 30 days from now Wake Forest moves from its hallowed Baptist Hollow here to a resplendent new campus at Winston-Salem, N.C., but the old playing fields here won't be forgotten that soon. It was from Wake Forest that came such play-for-pay greats of recent years as Tommy Byrne, golfer Arnold Palmer and a host of football stars.

But baseball always has had a special niche here, and the next Deacon candidate for graduation to the majors is a senior who won't be attending classes at Winston-Salem, a husky catcher named Linwood Holt.

Even before Holt decided on college, he was marked for the majors. The Cardinals offered him a modest $6,000 bonus to sign off the sandlots at Graham, N.C., but Holt turned it down. Four years later he's gained experience, form and finish and, incidentally a degree in business administration.

The scouts still are hot for Holt. Like Byrne, Holt hopes to don a Yankee uniform. He plans to sign with the Yanks—but could still change his mind.

Baseballers Look for 3d Win, Take on Colorado U Today

Wildcat baseballers will invade the land of the Buffalo today and tomorrow when they meet Colorado U. at Boulder for a two-game series.

K-State has a 4-5 overall record and a 2-4 Big Seven mark. The Cats have suffered league losses at the hands of Missouri, KU, and Nebraska. Missouri and KU each beat them once and the Cornhuskers defeated them twice. K-State owns league wins over KU and Oklahoma.

The Buffaloes have a 1-1 league record having spit a two-game series with Missouri Monday and Tuesday.

Colorado will be without much of its defensive punch due to the loss of All-Big Seven outfielders Frank Bernardi and Carroll Hardy, who graduated last spring.

The defensive weaknesses will be compensated through the efforts of Buffalo rightfielder Tom Balich who finished last season with a .329 batting average, and infielder Jim Nylund, who closed out last season with a .337 hitting mark.

Colorado Coach Frank Prentup says Nylund is the best infielder in the league at either shortstop or second base, but the flashy gloveman is the only standout on the entire squad, according to the Buff mentor.

Prentup admitted at the first of the season that his pitching was only fair and this season's Buffalo baseball squad might turn out to be the weakest Colorado team in the past five years.

Colorado boasts nine returning lettermen and could field a team made up of almost all monogram winners.

The K-State batting attack will be strengthened by third-baseman Paul Clark's .387 batting average and Eldon Zeller's 11 runs batted in.

Dick Stone, one of the more sparkling stones in the Wildcat pitching crowns, has had four days rest and will be able to go against Colorado in case Coach Ray Wauthier chooses to start him in one of the two games. Lefthander Bill Blume, with a 1-1 record, will also be ready for starting duty.

The probable K-State starting lineup will be Paul Clark, third base; Jim Rafferty, shortstop; Bob Boyd, center field; Wally Carlson, first base; LaVerne Billinger, catcher; Larry Sturgeon or Kerry Clifford in right field; Marvin Taylor, left field; and Hugh Nethercot or Jerry Hayes at second base.

'Drip-Dry' Dresses Featured in Gingham

By CAROL SITZ

Ironing those frilly summer dresess is a thing of the past with the elaborate selection of the new drip-dry ginghams from which to choose in the Manhattan dress shops.

Your whole laundering process is simple for these ginghams. You wash them in the usual manner and hang them on a hanger without wringing them out. Let them drip dry (like the name says), and your dresses are ready to wear. If a stray wrinkle or two does creep in, a quick "once over" with a warm iron will do the trick.

One of the biggest gaze-getters in the Manhatan shops is a two-piece sun dress. It features a tight-fitting chocolate brown bodice in the stylish torso length with narrow horizontal bands of small brown and white checked gingham. Below the bodice the skirt of the small brown and white check puffs out into a full-gathered flare. The square neckline of the dress is accented with narrow straps of the brown and white check. The dress is topped with a short, collarless bolero jacket of chocolate brown fully lined and trimmed around the edges with the brown and white check.

A soft blue and white plaid dress features an essay, stand-away roll collar. The front of bodice of this eye-easer is accented with four rows of dark blue ribbon tucked into accordion-like gathers and edged with lace. The full skirt is caught up at the waist with a narrow self belt.

The dress that would top the "must have" list in any girl's book is a sleeveless, scooped-necked model in eyelet "baby checked" gingham.

The eyelet is finshed in touchings of white. The neckline of this dress is bordered in light blue. This blue is repeated in the narrow belt topping the flared skirt.

Routine of Meets, Confabs Old Stuff for Wilkerson

By SHARI SHELLENBERGER

Election as student body president is a fitting climax to Pat Wilkerson's long list of honors and accomplishments.

Wilkerson seems to be well prepared for the duties his newly-acquired office requires. A look at his list of activities shows that he is accustomed to a routine of meetings, dinners, conferences, and speeches.

Blue Key, senior men's honorary, is the most recent group to have added his name to its membership. He is also a member of Alpha Kappa Psi, business administration honorary.

A junior in business administration from Kansas City, Mo., Wilkerson has been quite active in student government activities. Last year he was chairman of the Student Governing association assembly, and a member of the Student Council.

This year Wilkerson was elected president of the Big Seven SGA conference. He served as temporary chairman of the Mock Political convention when it was still in the planning stage.

Wilkerson served on the homecoming committee this year, has been both social chairman and dinner chairman of the Newman club, and is a member of Young Democrats.

He was president of his Delta Sigma Phi pledge class, and last year served as vice-president of the fraternity. He helped greatly in the organization of Delta Sig chapters at St. Louis university and Washington university of St. Louis.

"I'll try to encourage the Student Council to do the best job possible, and I'll do my best to fulfill the promises made during my campaign," the new prexy said.

The club will resume its 44th year of active work on the campus next fall. It has 611 members, according to Robert Robinson, Bac Gr, outgoing president.

Newman club members take part in a variety of religious, educational, and social activities. Lift week is a highlight for this organization. This year Lift week was followed by the annual Catholic students' weekend retreat, conducted by the Rev. Joseph M. Freeman. The theme of Father Freeman's talks was "Why Am I Living."

This spring their banquet was held at the Wareham hotel. Dean H. J. Wunderlich was guest speaker.

The club meets twice each month. This semester the weekly discussion group, led by the advisor, the Rev. E. J. Weisenberg, S.J., has been about courtship and marriage. There is a dance or other form of social activity once each month. A coffee hour follows the 10 a.m. service every first and third Sunday.

Newman club members attend the Seven Dolors church, 624 Pierre. Their club office is in Illustrations hall.

Wesley Retreat Is This Weekend

Annual spring retreat for Wesley Foundation, Methodist students' group, will be this Saturday and Sunday at Lake Shawnee near Topeka, according to Ross Miller, MEI Sr, outgoing president.

Cars will leave Wesley at 1 and 5 p.m. Saturday. Old and new officers and cabinet members are urged to attend, said Miller, but anyone is welcome.

Two main discussion sessions are scheduled. Miller will lead the discussion which will attempt to evaluate last year's program.

Incoming president Don Jarchow, VM Soph, will lead the program-planning session for the coming year.

Recreation, devotions, and fellowship are scheduled throughout the retreat.

The Rev. B. A. Rogers will conduct Communion services early Sunday morning, to be followed by devotions and breakfast. Warren Remple, College YMCA Director, will speak to the group.

Students attending this retreat will return for the regular 9:50 a.m. worship service at Wesley Foundation.

State Church Assembly Open to College Groups

Officers and leaders of College religious groups are invited to the annual assembly of the Kansas Council of Churches here May 6-8, according to the Rev. J. Kenneth Huyck, president of the Manhattan Ministerial association.

Keynote speaker will be Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, president of the National Council of Churches. Doctor Blake will speak at the opening meeting Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at the First Methodist church. He will also address the mass assembly Monday night at 7:30.

Meetings and planning sessions will continue through Wednesday noon. Also scheduled are the presentation of ecumenical awards and the installation of new Council officers.

Further information may be obtained from the Rev. Huyck at 84865 or 84393.

Once Hopeless

Three Cancer Patients Cured by Minnesota U

By JOHN TOMS

Minneapolis—The University of Minnesota medical school has achieved five-year cures of three once-hopeless cancer patients with its technique of "multiple look" operations, the American Cancer society said today.

The technique, started in 1948 by Drs. Owen H. Wangensteen and Stuart W. Arhelger, involves the surgical removal of all visible diseased tissue and periodic re-operations to seek and remove recurring cancers.

The experiments have been done on patients with cancer of the stomach, rectum and colon.

Disarmament Inspection Necessary—Eisenhower

Washington—Mr. Eisenhower was asked at his news conference today what he thought of the stalemated five-power disarmament talks ending in London.

The President said there must be inspection or people would just become more frightened.

If the free world does not know more about what is going on behind the iron curtain in disarmament, the President said, this nation will not disarm any more than it is today.

ASKEW UPRIGHTS begin their crash to the ground after an unsuccessful attempt to defend them. This scene occurred several years ago, when KU won the annual tilt with K-State once in a while. The peace pace is written with hopes of stopping this and pre-game destruction of college property.

Proposed Peace Pact Revision

K-Staters Vandalizing at KU May Have To Foot the Bill

Any K-State or Kansas University student caught in an act of vandalism on the campus of the rival school before the K-State-KU football or basketball games will be held personally responsible for all damages caused, if a proposed revision of the KU-K-State Peace Pact is passed by both Student Councils.

The student also may face possible suspension from school for one semester.

Members of the KU student council met with old and new K-State Council members Friday night in the Student Union to discuss and propose revisions of the Peace Pact.

Gerry Day, former student body president, told representatives of the two schools that two problems of the Pact were enforcement and publicity. K-State students caused more than $400 damage on the campus of KU last year. However, no K-State students were caught in an act of vandalism and the Student Council paid the bill.

Last year, administrations of both schools issued warnings to students that any student caught in an act of vandalism would be dismissed from school. Pat Wilkerson, student body president, said the Council should try to get back the responsibility for punishment of acts of vandalism.

The possibility of awarding the trophy to the school with the best sportsmanship rather than to the school winning the football game was discussed and dismissed as being ineffective.

Representatives also discussed the possibility of a joint dance between the schools and possible elimination of on-field fights after each game.

Representatives of both schools agreed that the Peace Pact should be continued, that a greater effort to apprehend offending students should be made, and that final responsibility for damages should be placed upon the Councils of the two schools.

Other proposed provisions of the Peace Pact include: punishment of students apprehended in acts of vandalism should be decided by a joint committee; the committee would be composed of eight members, three members from each school's student council and one administrative official from each school; both student councils should take all action possible to reduce the publicity on the acts of offense; and official statements should not be given without the consent of both student councils.

Final approval of the Peace Pact's changes will be up to the student councils.

New Farm House Dedicated Sunday

The new Farm House frat house at 1830 College Heights road was dedicated in a ceremony at 3 p.m. yesterday. Norman Collins, chapter vice-president, presided.

Wilfred H. Pine, K-State faculty advisor on building, said the building was constructed with a gable style architecture and is solid masonry except for the roof. It will house a housemother, cook, and 56 men. In addition, it has a chapter room and large recreation room.

Dean A. D. Weber, former president of the national organization, said it was the realization of big dreams of Farm House members and he hoped the project would make an even greater force in the academic work at K-State.

Warren W. Sahs spoke as representative of the national fraternity. Preston McDaniel, secretary-treasurer of the National Farm House fraternity and editor of its magazine, was a guest.

Dean Herbert Wunderlich gave greetings from the College administration. He congratulated the fraternity for being the top scholastically of the 22 fraternities at K-State.

"I feel it is very fitting that our young agriculturalists gather together to develop scholastically and socially—as we need young men who know how to live and work together," he said.

C. D. Davis, K-State alumnus and long-time advisor to the chapter, presented a plaque to Ray Zimmerman, chapter president, as a symbol of the labor and desires of those who purchased bonds.

Staters Suffer Shock, Cuts In Auto Wreck

Three K-Staters were hospitalized Saturday afternoon when their car was forced off the road near Abilene.

Nelson Galle, AEd Jr, Larry McGhee, AH Jr, and Burke Rogers, Ag Soph, were treated for cuts and shock at the Abilene hospital. McGhee was released Saturday evening and the other two men remained until Sunday afternoon for treatment of shock and loss of blood.

Galle, president of Collegiate 4-H, said the car in which the boys were riding was crowded off the road when the driver of an approaching car fell asleep. Rogers, who was driving, attempted to prevent the accident by swerving toward the d[illegible]. The Rogers car was sideswiped and it turned over twice and landed on its top.

The boys were enroute to Hutchinson, where they had planned to sing in a Collegiate 4-H quartet over television. The accident occurred about 22 miles south of Abilene on Highway 15.

The pair co-starred in the K-State Players' recent production of Amphitryon 38.

K-State, Midland college, and the University of Omaha tied for second place.

Ag Week Activities To Be Constructive Next Year?

A constitutional amendment designed to promote more constructive Ag Week activities was passed by the Agricultural association recently. The amendment was accepted 526 to 54 by Aggies.

The amendment will change Ag Barnwarmer manager to Ag Week manager. The assistant Barnwarmer manager will become manager of the Barnwarmer dance and assistant Ag Week manager.

The amendment will also encourage departmental exhibits and more constructive activity supervised by the new Ag Week manager, according to Walt Martin, Ag association president.

Peace Pact May Become More than Laughingstock

IT MAY COME to pass that the K-State-KU Peace Pact will become something other than a laughingstock.

Any K-State or KU student caught vandalizing before a K-State-KU football or basketball game would be responsible for all damages caused, if the two student councils pass a proposed revision of the Peace Pact. The culprit also would face possible suspension from school for a semester.

A HEAVY HAND to the wallet is about the best way there is to make people stop laughing. A jab to the student's right to attend college puts quite a crimp in a college education.

If the two student councils want to stop vandalism, they need only to put some teeth in the Peace Pact, then enforce the bite. No one gets shook about rules that aren't enforced.

It would be unique if students started shaking from fear of the Peace Pact, rather than shaking with laughter at it.

THE AMATEUR ATHLETIC Union seems to think that it owns the word "Olympic."

Commissioner C. T. Mills of the Frog Olympics at Stockton, Calif., with tongue in cheek asked Dan Ferris of the AAU "what constitutes an amateur frog?" Mills also asked for recommendations for setting Olympic-style standards of eligibility.

Ferris told frog jump officials to stop using the word "Olympics." Mills is guilty of "violations of the terms of the U.S. Olympic charter," Ferris said coldly.

The Greeks would be a little surprised by all of this, since they had a mountain in Macedonia named "Olympus," and competed in "Olympian" games every fourth year from 776 B.C.

Webster describes an "Olympian" as a native of Olympia, a participator in the Olympian games or in the Olympic games.

●

THIS TALK OF the AAU brings to mind the only other pure organization, the NCAA. The Salina Journal, much incensed by the probation period given to KU, shot a few words at that venerable organization last week.

"If I were Chancellor Murphy, I would tell the NCAA to go jump in Potter lake. I would go even further: I would tell all of these athletic uplift societies to peddle their sanctimoniousness elsewhere and steer clear of Mount Oread forever. I would do so on highly moral grounds.

"THE CODES, rules, and actions of these societies are so divorced from the realities of college gamesmanship that anyone who seriously believes they are doing a pious work belongs in Doctor Menninger's institution, not on a university campus. . .

"As long as they promote phony standards, encourage technical evasions, and make subterfuge the rule, they have no place in an institution dedicated to truth regardless of the consequences."

That writer had a pretty good case until he started advocating professionalism in college athletics, plus secession from the NCAA.

Radical though I might be, I don't see how college athletics can do without the NCAA. But perhaps the NCAA should re-assess some of its policies.

GEE!!

A K-Stater did his bit for cerebral palsy last weekend when he was listening to a fund-raising telethon.

K-State veteran Richard King telephoned in a $5 gift, then drove to Topeka, composing a speech on the way. He read his speech from the TV stage, urging veterans to get behind the drive. King then pledged his next GI Bill paycheck to the fund.

K-State's Mock Political Convention Demonstrations Were Tame Compared to Riots, Fights, Shootings in Iran, Foreign Student Says

By PAT ROBERTS

K-STATE MOCK convention demonstrations were tame compared to the riots, fights, and sometimes shootings that occurred during national political rallies among Iranian students a few years ago.

"We used to have experiences similar to the K-State Mock convention all of the time in universities in my country. However, they were on a national scale and very serious," said Hekmat Hakimian, foreign student from Iran.

"Sam," as he is called by his friends, said that national politics used to enter into University life on a large scale in Iran. Students would form into political groups according to their beliefs and stage demonstrations.

"AFTER A TIME soldiers were placed on guard to stop any riots or shootings. They do not do that now, however," he said.

Sam said economic troubles and lack of industry were the two main problems of Iran. He said that over 90 per cent of the people are poor farmers, according to U.S. standards. A seven year program which stresses economic recovery, education, and industrial improvement was started in 1951, he said.

"Our program plus the United States Point-Four program is helping raise our standard of living," he said.

SAM SAID THAT most of Iran's income comes from her oil industry. Iran gets 50 per cent of the profit whereas before 1952 they didn't receive near that amount, he said.

"Before 1952 our whole industry was operated by the British. We broke relations with England in 1952 over the oil issue. Now we are satisfied," he said.

He said that his country was run similar to the English system. King Mohamad Keza Shah Pahlavi rules the land but Prime Minister Alah, former Ambassador to the United States, enacts the laws of the country. He said that the Prime Minister was similar to the United States' president.

"WE ALSO HAVE a Congress made up of a Senate (30 members appointed by the King and 30 elected by the people), and a House (136 members elected by the people). Our government came into existence about 1925," he said.

Sam said there was no real Communistic danger to Iran as far as he could see. He said Iran was part of NATO and that Russia had tried to take part of his country at the end of World War II.

"At the end of the war all of the Allies moved out. Russia put some Communists in our government and said that the Southwestern part belonged to them. We took a complaint to the UN and they ruled Russia out. We had true Iranian people back into the government quickly," he said.

"WE DON'T HAVE any segregation in my country so I am not qualified to judge conditions here in America. However, I am not in favor of segregation. It ruins the illusion of America having a true Democracy and being the best country in the world," he said.

Since the Negro fought and died for this country in the war they should be treated equal on every other means, he said.

While on the subject of religion Sam said that the Moslem faith was not too different from Christian beliefs.

"We may worship God in different ways and we do not believe Jesus Christ was the son of God but essentially the Moslem faith does not differ greatly from yours," he said.

"STUDENTS IN America should take college a little more seriously. All of the popular slang and fun-making is good for this society but on a world scale with the world tensions the way they are it doesn't fit," he said.

A few students are not getting what they should out of college but most are intelligent, friendly, and very helpful, he said.

"I think students here should be a little more world conscious. In high school in my country we learn all about other nations. During present times one should become world conscious," he said.

SAM IS MAJORING in architecture and plans to stay a few years and get his degree. Then he would like to go back to his country and help wherever he is needed.

"I like K-State very much. The students are nice and help me quite a bit in my studies. It is truly a great country that you have here," he concluded.

Ike Wants Cabinet For NATO Forces

PARIS, (U.P.)—President Eisenhower has proposed that the NATO allies form a full-time Atlantic alliance cabinet in a historic step to co-ordinate Western policy on key international issues, authoritative sources said yesterday.

The idea was suggested to the 15-nation North Atlantic Treaty council meeting here by U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, the sources said. But it was still uncertain whether the NATO allies would go along with the plan.

The international cabinet idea was disclosed after the United States, Britain, and France agreed in a big three meeting here Sunday that the Israeli-Arab conflict must be settled within the United Nations Security Council.

BUT THE WESTERN big three foreign ministers reached no agreement on a Middle East arms embargo. They also sidestepped any joint decision on whether France should send a pending new shipment of 12 Mystere jets to Israel.

Dulles took off for home after what he called the "most important NATO meeting we ever attended."

He said at the airport he was satisfied with the conference which wound up Saturday night with the naming of a three-man council of "wise-men" to draft a streamlined new western policy to meet changing Soviet tactics.

Hillbillys, Delts Take Lead In Saturday's IM Track Meet

Hillbilly trackmen ran away from the independent field in Saturday's intramural track meet as they racked up 91½ points. Delta Tau Delta leads Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Beta Theta Pi with 64 5/6 points to 56⅔ and 51⅓ in the fraternity division with the pole vault yet to be completed.

The pole vault was postponed until Wednesday and Thursday because of wind. This event could change the fraternity division with the Sig Alphs and Betas still in the race. A Hillbilly win is already cinched, their nearest competitor being almost 40 points behind.

Five places were awarded in all events including the relays. Teams picked up participation points as well, one point going to each man in an event regardless of his finish. However, no team could enter more than three in any event, nor could one man enter more than three events.

Independent pole vaulters will compete at 7 p.m. Wednesday and fraternity vaulters at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Field House. Any team could add 15 points to its total by sweeping the first three places in the event.

K-State Bowlers Top KU in Dual Meet, 2-1

K-State bowlers defeated KU two matches to one in a dual meet Saturday on Student Union alleys. The meet consisted of a men's, a co-eds', and an individual match.

The first game between the men's teams resulted in a KU defeat, 3,204 to 3,158, at the end of four lines. A game usually consists of three lines, but the match was so close that a fourth line had to be bowled to determine a winner.

The second game between co-ed teams found K-State again victorious. The score at the end of three lines was 1,824 to 1,682.

KU picked up its only win 475 to 421 when Al Austin defeated Max Schull in the men's individual game.

K-State high lines were bowled by Roy Young with 183 and Bill Jardine with 170. High scoring co-eds were Pat Berends bowling 149 and Kay Ellis with 137.

A return match is scheduled for the two teams at Lawrence May 12.

"KU was not used to our slow alleys but they caught on fast," Pete Patchin, Union games chairman said. He pointed out that K-State may be at a disadvantage next week because of KU's faster alleys.

K-State met the Jayhawks at the KU Invitational Meet last Saturday where KU placed second to the Wildcats fourth.

Buff Baseballers Bounce Wildcats Twice at Boulder

K-State batters outhit Colorado baseballers 31-19 in games Friday and Saturday at Boulder, but the Buffs won both games as they outlasted the Wildcats, 9-7, in Friday's game and came back in the bottom of the ninth inning Saturday to win, 14-13.

Colorado scored four runs in the first inning Friday, then staved off a Wildcat rally that started in the sixth with one-run homers by first baseman Wally Carlson and rightfielder Eldon Zeller.

K-State tallied twice in the seventh and twice in the ninth, but couldn't catch the Buffs.

Pitcher Bill Blume was tagged with the loss. He gave up two hits; then Bill Sinderson took over in the fourth and went the rest of the way.

In Saturday's game Colorado scored four runs in the bottom of the inning to make a clean sweep of the two-game series.

The score was 13-11, K-State, in the last half of the fatal inning and the bases were loaded when Wildcat pitcher Ron Bergren hit Colorado centerfielder Bernie Molliconi and pitcher Bob Pomeroy with pitched balls to force in the tying runs.

Jim Nylund, Buffalo shortstop, scored the winning run on a sacrifice fly by secondbaseman Lawrie Whitlock and an error by K-State's Wally Carlson.

Paul Clark, Cat third baseman, slammed a home run with one man on base in the sixth inning and Bergren aided his own cause by hititng a two-run homer in the fourth.

Tennis Streak Broken, Golfers Top Nebraska

K-State netmen stretched their winning streak to five straight dual matches with a 7-0 shutout over Nebraska Friday afternoon, then had the chain broken Saturday when Oklahoma beat them 4-3.

In the Friday match Nebraska didn't win a set and the closest any Cornhusker came was George Fisk; he forced Dick Circle 8-6 before falling in the second set.

It was a little different Saturday. K-State dropped two singles matches before John Deam beat Don Cross, 6-0, 6-2. The Cats' only other win Saturday was in the doubles where Bob Hansen and Keith Andler defeated Bob Markley and Don Cross, 6-3, 6-2.

In golf, Dave Smith shot his second under par game of the season, a two under 68, to lead Wildcat linksmen to a 9½ 2½ victory over Nebraska.

Dave Smith (68), KS, defeated Nels Jensen (75), 2½-½.

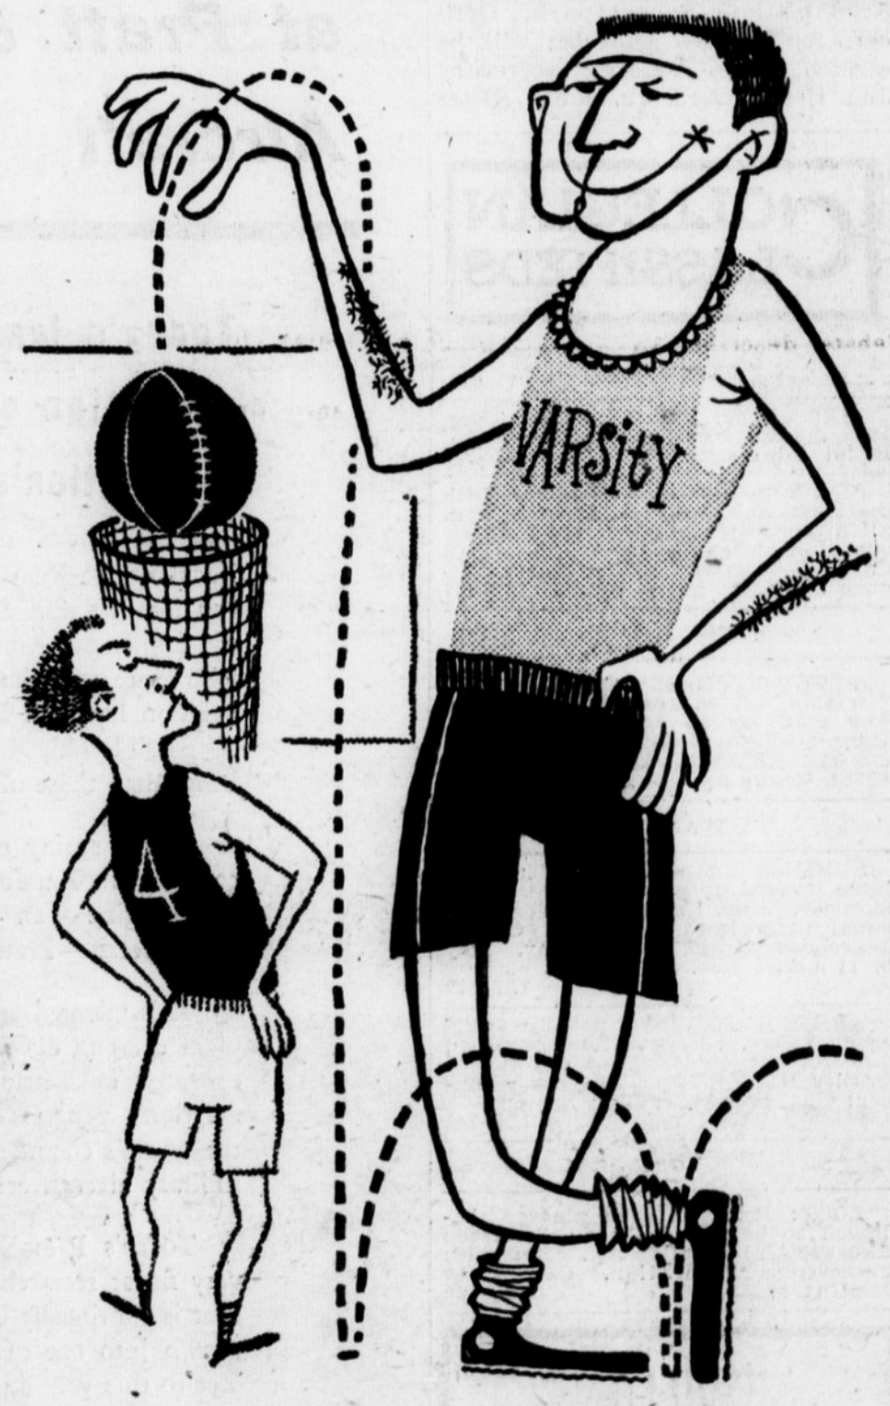

Ron Young (72), KS, defeated Jack Moore (80), 3-0.

Jerry Smith (74), KS, defeated Herb Mayer (78, 3-0.

Warren Christenson (78), NU, defeated Hayes Walker (82), 2-1.

What's doing
at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft

Today's leadership . . . a reflection of policies established in aviation's infancy

Back in The Roaring Twenties, the magic dream pictured American families someday using the light personal airplane as freely as the family car. Among the realists, however, was a handful of men who were unshakable in their conviction that the real future of aviation lay with bigger aircraft, higher speeds, greater ranges — all possible only through engines of higher power and more reliability than those of that era.

In the spring of 1925, six of these men of vision founded a company in Hartford to undertake the development of a new aircraft engine — an air-cooled type. The year's end heralded their first success — Pratt & Whitney Aircraft's "Wasp".

This talented group of men continued to improve their powerplant designs, developing engines of steadily mounting power that operated efficiently and dependably. They contributed much to aviation's progress — so much so that currently three-quarters of the world's commercial airliners and many of our nation's first line military aircraft are P & W A-powered.

Today's P & W A powerplant designs are supported by the very finest research facilities and equipment, and a technical staff that is continually being strengthened. That nucleus of six men has grown into one of the world's leading engineering organizations. Yet to this very day, engineering achievement at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft is guided by its founders' simple policy . . . the best airplanes can be designed only around the best engines.

The Original Wasp, the first P & W A engine — designed, fabricated and assembled in less than seven months. Weighing under 650 pounds and officially rated at 410 horsepower, this lightweight, air-cooled radial engine was a milestone in aviation history and set the pattern for almost three decades of record-breaking advances.

The Double Wasp, an 18-cylinder, two-row piston engine rated at 2400 horsepower for basic use. Its rating increased by water injection to 3400 horsepower, the Double Wasp was instrumental in turning many a military crisis into an aerial victory in the decisive battles of World War II.

The Wasp Major, a 28-cylinder engine with pistons arranged in four rows of seven each and a 3800-horsepower rating. Its power and performance having never been equalled, the Wasp Major represents the apex of the art of building reciprocating engines.

The J-57 Turbojet, first jet engine in history to be officially rated in the 10,000-pound-thrust class. In quantity production since early 1953, the J-57 has continuously undergone progressive development. It gives every indication of having almost unlimited growth possibilities.

The Engines of Tomorrow, advanced jet, turboprop, and nuclear. Already in various stages of development, these aircraft engines of the future will further contribute to the long history of leadership that Pratt & Whitney Aircraft has established in the field of aviation.

John Stockmyer To Receive Outstanding Senior Award

John Stockmyer, Hst Sr, will be awarded the outstanding Arts and Sciences senior award presented by Alpha Association of Phi Beta Kappa, Wednesday night.

The presentation will be made by Dr. Byron Miller, past president of Alpha Association of Phi Beta Kappa, at a dinner in the Student Union.

According to Prof. Fred L. Parrish of the history department, Stockmyer will be a half-time graduate assistant in the department and will teach civilization.

He will receive this assistantship in connection with the award, said Fred L. Parrish, professor of history. The appointment is not official however, until the Board of Regents meets in May to plan next year's budget, Parrish said.

Architecture Honor Student

Architecture senior James L. Burke of Memphis, Tenn., will graduate this spring as honor student of the department of architecture and allied arts, Prof. Theodore A. Chadwick, of the department, said.

This year Burke was awarded an American Institute of Architects' medal for high scholastic standing. He won an Alpha Rho Chi medal given annually to a senior for leadership, service to school and department, professional merit, attitude and personality.

Burke has a 2.87 grade average, is a member of Phi Kappa Phi; Delta Phi Delta art honorary; Tau Sigma Delta, architecture honorary; and American Institute of Architects.

He also was Open House chairman for the department.

Engineering Scholarship

The first L. E. Conrad $500 scholarship will be offered next fall in civil engineering.

The scholarship will pay $125 a year for four years to a male graduate of a Kansas high school who plans to major in civil engineering here, and who needs financial assistance.

Conrad, who is being honored by the scholarship, headed the CE department.

Ron Bryant Is Elected Student Council Chairman

Ron Bryant was elected chairman of the Student Council at the new Council's first formal meeting last night. The Council elected other officers and appointed members to the Apportionment Board and to Homecoming and Parents' Day committees.

Other officers elected were Neil Scott, vice-chairman; Elin McCandless, treasurer; Nancy Howard, corresponding secretary; Gilmore Dahl, parliamentarian; and Barbara Brown, recording secretary.

The Council appointed Mary Lu Compton as representative to the Union Governing board, and Gary Haynes as representative to the Homecoming committee.

The Council voted to pay KU the bill for damages to the Lawrence campus before the KU-K-State football game last fall. The bill of $386.49 was found to be "not excessive" by a committee which surveyed the damage and the repairs at KU.

Appointed to the Homecoming committee were Larry McCully, AH Jr; Barbara Ericson, Sp Soph; Royanne McMullen, TJ Soph; and Marilyn McCready, Eng Soph.

Members of the Apportionment Board appointed were Don Scoby, Hst Jr; Margery Cornwell, Eng Jr; and Jim Graves, BA Jr.

Appointed to the Parents' Day committee were George Bennett, BA Soph; Kay Berg, EEd Soph; Darlene Beeman, EEd Soph; Kirsten Peterson, EEd Fr; Rosemary Derks, ML Soph; and George Peters, PrV Soph.

Bryant appointed Jerry Holliday to investigate placing of lefthanded chairs in the classrooms. The action was taken after a petition was read from 23 lefthanders, stating that 5 of every 85 students at K-State are lefthanded and are at a disadvantage when writing on righthanded desks.

A letter from the Pratt Chamber of Commerce, inviting K-State to send a candidate to the Miss Kansas contest, was read. It was turned down because of lack of time to select a candidate.

The Council voted to send SGA President Pat Wilkerson to the president's conference of the National Students' association in Chicago August 19-21.

Bryant appointed Haynes, Anderson, and Marilyn Smith to a committee to investigate the NSA conference scheduled for August 21-31 and to see if it would be worthwhile to send a representative from K-State.

A letter from residents of the College Hill community was read concerning reckless driving on the road to Top of the World. The problem was referred to the temporary safety committee.

The Council endorsed the Mortar Board project to keep students off the grass.

Activities, Grades To Earn Honors For 33 Seniors

Thirty-three K-S seniors will receive senior leader badges and honor certificates in a senior honors assembly Thursday at 9:30 a.m. in the Auditorium, according to Prof. Golda Crawford, sponsor of the senior honors committee.

The honor seniors were selected from all seniors with a 1.75 grade average last fall when activity blanks were sent to them to be filled out.

They were selected on the basis of activities and scholastic standing. A ratio of 6 points of activities to 4 of grades, was set up to equalize the rating of activities and grades.

Seniors with a 1.75 are given 115 points; with a 2.35, 295 points; and a 2.95, 475 points. Those with higher grades and a few activities would have as good a chance as a student with a 1.75 and many activities.

In rating activity points, emphasis is put more on offices held than on membership in the various activities.

Points will range from 150 for president of the student body to 5 for membership in church groups and campus groups such as YMCA and YWCA.

The 33 seniors selected this year represent the top 3 per cent of students in each of the five schools.

Ray Sis Named Head Of KS Union Board

Ray Sis, VM Jr, was elected chairman of the Union Governing board for the next school year, at a board meeting last night.

Sis has been on the board for the past year and succeeds Leon Armantrout, Ar 04, as chairman.

The board approved the recommendations of the program council for appointments to the council. Approved by the board were Gary Rumsey, chairman; Mary Lu Compton, vice-chairman; and Royanne McMullen, secretary.

The board also approved the chairmen of the program committees as proposed by the program council.

Those approved are Philip Wright, games committee; Edwin Noyce, harmonizers; Tom Bowman, dance committee; Jay Ryan, night club committee.

Also Dixie Brown, publicity committee; Norman Keyes, movie committee; Karen Skiver, hospitality committee; Lowell Novy, campus entertainment committee; Sandra Mueller, coffee hours committee; and Kay Chappell, fine arts committee.

A statement of purpose for the Union was approved by the board and will be placed in the Union lobby temporarily. "We would like to have student opinion on the statement in order to see if it is satisfactory," said Loren Kottner, Union director.

The committee in charge of designing the statement of purpose is Henry Burmeister, Ray North, Miss Margaret Raffington, and John Watt.

The board also received a complaint from Blue Key in reference to a plaque on the Union's copper fireplace that Blue Key donated to the Union.

According to the report, Blue Key thought that the Blue Key crest and the year were to be engraved on the plaque.

Graduation Time Changed to 3 p.m.

Spring commencement will start at 3 p.m., May 27, instead of 2:30 as previously announced.

The time has been changed because of the possibility of Gov. Hall being present for the exercises.

Gov. Hall will fly to Manhattan from another engagement and has asked the starting time to be set back, according to President McCain.

Leaders School Planned for Fall

A leadership school and an Orientation Week activity night, tentatively set for early next fall, were discussed at an activities conference last weekend.

A leadership school, set for early October, will be a 6-to-8-week session of once-a-week meetings to train students.

700 Attend All Women's Day

Seven hundred women took part in All Women's day yesterday by gathering at Nichols gymnasium for the planned activities.

Following a picnic lunch and group singing led by Meredith Brink, MGS Soph, Dean Martha Peterson dean of women at KU, spoke to the group on "Educating the Lady Wildcat."

Introduced by Marilyn Clark, EEd Soph, the KU Dean of Women said that the present trend in educational circles is to get students involved in their own education.

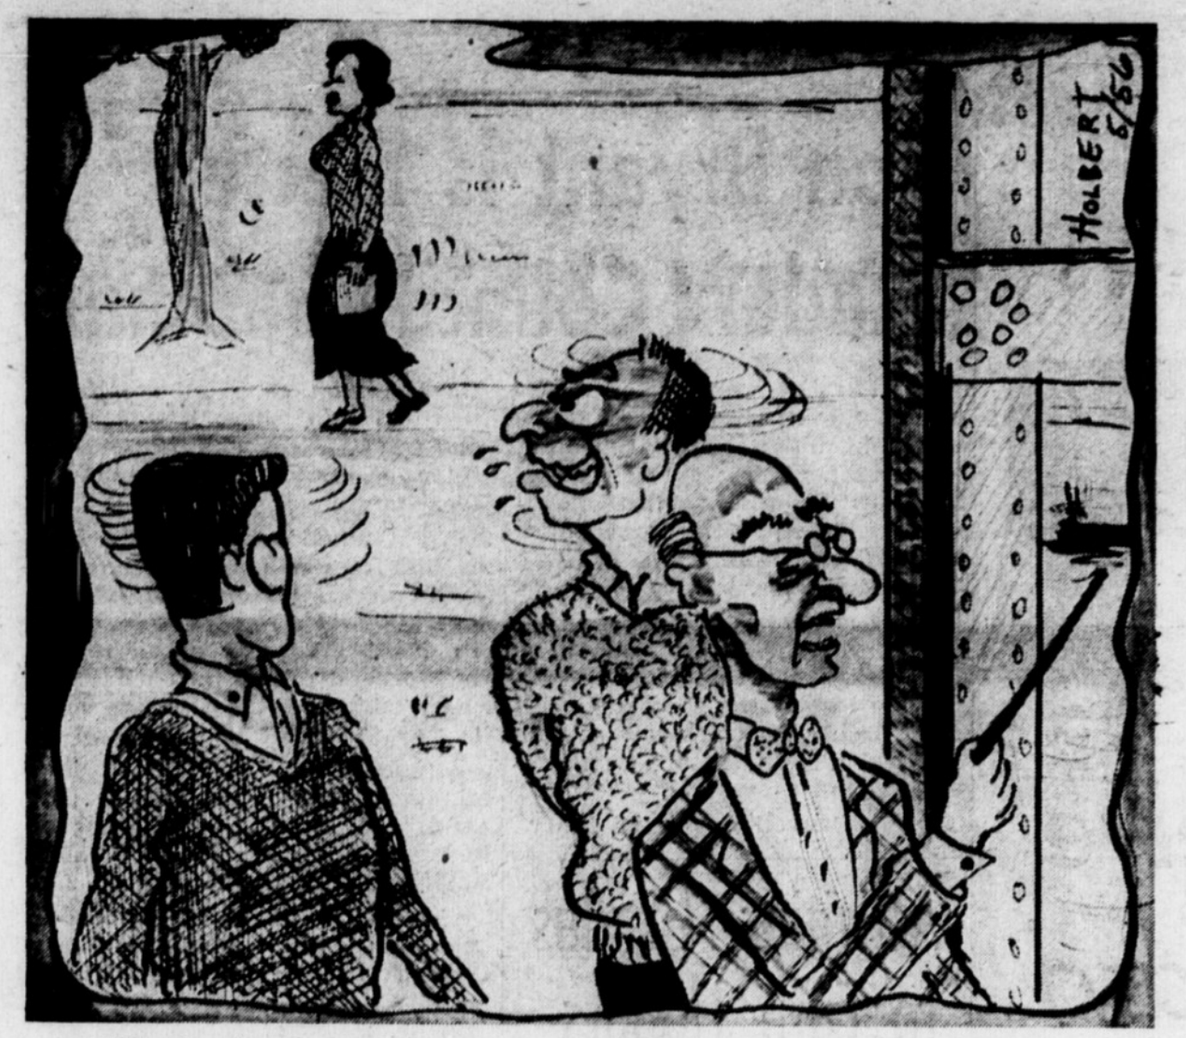

AWS is very important in helping students to get involved in their education, Dean Peterson said. She stressed the value of such an organization on all college campuses, emphasizing that AWS gives women students a chance to shoulder responsibility and to show that they are capable of making and enforcing their own rules.

Betty Lu Gard, International AWS southern regional coordinator, outlined the functions of AWS on the college campus and told of the importance of AWS on an international level.

Twenty KU AWS officers, introduced by a girl dressed in a colorful Jayhawk costume, told of the various projects that KU's AWS has begun and completed, and wished K-Staters luck in their AWS program.

A SEA OF FACES greeted speakers at the Association of Women students meeting last night in Nichols gym. After a sack lunch, girls sat on the floor and crowded around to hear speakers explain AWS, which is being organized on this campus now.

"Notice the fine structural quality of the supporting members."

Does Your Auto Indicate Emotional Stress Signs?

By Ann Weathers

DOES YOUR car need psychoanalyzing? Any signs of mental or emotional breakdown in its delicate personality? It does have one, you know, and you may be treating the secret personality in your garage all wrong according to its type, sez the Washburn Review.

Take a look at the cars in the parking lot and see if you can recognize one of these types:

First is the Playboy type, characterized by the low, sleek lines of the sports car. It appears to be going 80 when standing still, and is usually owned by similar owners. It costs a substantial amount and knows it. This type needs to be treated with a delicate respect.

The Family type is dilapidated, but dependable. On cold winter days, with a gurgle of gas and maximum effort, it finally starts in order to take the youngest off to school. A patient brand of car, it is known by its well-worn look and all-day suckers behind the upholstery.

THE FRIENDLY type car is indeed rare. It's usually a small car considered one of the family and generally owned by the daughter of said family. Always called by a pet name, this car frequently may be seen hauling ten sorority sisters to school.

The Hotrod ciassic is generally owned by the youngest generation in the various fraternities. While giving the appearance of gasping its last breath, it can usually leave the more streamlined versions far behind.

The Outdoor variety is better known as the convertible. Its drives is characterized mainly by a happy, care-free grin and a bunch of girls in the back seat in the summer and a slight disposition toward pneumonia in the winter.

●

DEDICATED TO those who are about to martyr themselves for the noble cause of senior finals:

A Temple prof told his students once: "If you just sneak a peek at the next paper, you might get away with it. But the one that gets caught is the fellow who glances at the professor first to see if he is watching. When you see those innocent blues eyes looking your way, you know the guy to watch."

●

'Long about this season, profs sharpen up their little red pencils in order to better leave those big, fat F's that one can see across the room and the tiny lead pencils for those few A's that the student has to dig out the magnifying glass to find. One Eastern college faculty group, delighting in this end-of-the-semester sport, has gone so far as to explain a "Flunk Students Club." The bylaws are as follows:

● TEST QUESTIONS on material from the text book or from lectures are too easy. Use items from foot-notes, references and from books listed in the bibliography.

● Give tests either twice a term or twice a week. Announcing quizzes ahead of time is nonsense. You'll never flunk them that way!

● Allot the students about half the time it would take you to do the test. Put the hardest question first and remember it's the answer that counts. Take off one and one-half credits for numerical mistakes.

● Unless you have a class of all "A" students (somebody has to flunk) never use a curve for marking, it's a sign of weakness!

● Last, remember the sacred motto, "They're here to work!"

Hiding Acts of Vandalism Would Serve No Purpose

"BOTH STUDENT councils should take all action possible to reduce the pubilicity on the acts of offense."

That's one of the proposed provisions for the KU-K-State Peace Pact. We fail to see the purpose it would serve.

It's possible that some students participate in the vandalism before KU-K-State games strictly for the publicity. Lack of publicity possibly would take away some of their eagerness.

Normally, however, the publicity of arrests and of fines imposed is as strong a deterrant to breaking the law as is the arrest itself. Normally, covering up the sad truth won't right a wrong.

Besides, in this case, it can't be covered up.

I'M STILL AMAZED by the contribution that K-Stater Richard King made to the cerebral palsy fund drive on WIBW-TV last weekend.

The fund drive was lagging we're told, before King drove to Topeka to appear on TV and pledge his month's GI Bill paycheck to the drive. After that, local viewers say the fund started growing by leaps and bounds, clearing the $40,000 mark.

All the veterans who depend on the GI Bill to put them through school can appreciate what a sacrifice it is to give up a month's paycheck.—Darrel Miller.

Ten Musical Productions To Highlight Kansas City's Starlight Theatre Season

TEN MUSICAL productions, opening with "Peter Pan" on June 18, have been arranged for the sixth Starlight Theater season under the stars in Swope Park, Kansas City, Mo.

The 1956 repertory includes seven shows that will be presented on the Starlight stage for the first time. Three other productions will be "Annie Get Your Gun," which ran for two weeks closing out the 1953 season, "The Desert Song," and "The Chocolate Soldier," both of which were huge successes in Starlight's opening season, in 1951.

FOLLOWING "Peter Pan," replete with all its airborne features, will be the Arabian Nights musical, "Kismet," running from June 25 through July 1. Other "firsts" on the Starlight schedule include "Best Food Forward," July 2-8; "Plain and Fancy," July 23-29; "Paint Your Wagon," August 6-12; "Wish You Were Here," August 13-19; and "The King and I," a Rodgers and Hammerstein success, closing the season, August 20-September 2.

"The Desert Song," booked for July 9-15, will be followed by "Annie Get Your Gun," the fun-filled Irving Berlin musical based on the life of the backwoods sharpshooter, Annie Oakley, who becomes an international circus favorite.

RICHARD H. BERGER, Starlight's production director, has signed television songstress, Gisele MacKenzie, singing star of "Your Hit Parade," for the role of Annie. Some of her top songs will include "Doin' What Comes Naturally," "Anything You can Do," and "You Can't Get a Man with a Gun." Opposite her, in the role of Frank Butler, will be the nationally-known baritone, Edward Roecker, who has been seen by Starlight audiences in the past.

Billy Gilbert, rotund star of movies, television, and theatre, will return as Colonel Popoff in "The Chocolate Soldier," scheduled for July 30-August 5. Mitchell Gregg and Michael Kermoyan also have been signed for roles in the production featuring the music of Oscar Strauss.

TICKETS FOR the 10 shows may be obtained by mail. Write Starlight Theater, 1217 Walnut, Kansas City, Mo., enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Ike and Estes Battle In Indiana Primary

By UNITED PRESS

WASHINGTON, (U.P.)—Five states hold primaries today with national interest centering on Indiana, where President Eisenhower and Sen. Estes Kefauver were principals in a Presidential preference vote.

Primaries also were being held in Ohio, West Virginia, Florida, and New Mexico.

Mr. Eisenhower picked up 24 GOP national convention votes and Kefauver 18 Democratic convention votes as a result of yesterday's Maryland primary. They stood to gain respectively 32 and 26 convention votes from today's Indiana balloting.

MR. EISENHOWER faced only nominal opposition in Indiana's GOP primary while Kefauver was unopposed on the Democratic side. Hence, they were pitted in something of a popularity contest, although not a true one since voters could not cross party lines.

Political observers watched normally-Republican Indiana for a comparison of the total GOP-Democratic votes cast. Indiana had no Presidential preference voting in 1952, but President Eisenhower carried the state in the 1952 Presidential election by a margin of 334,829 votes.

Democrats made notable gains in last year's municipal elections, however, and hoped farm discontent would help boost their total today.

Cats Chase Bulldogs In Golf Match Today

Wildcat golfers will take on the Drake university Bulldogs this afternoon on the Manhattan country club links in an attempt to avenge a 4½-7½ loss to the Iowans last year.

K-State will be shooting for its 9th win of this campaign. Wildcat linksmen have compiled an 8-5 overall record and have clubbed their way to a 3-1 Big Seven mark.

Dave Smith, with 12 wins and only 1 loss this season, two of which were under par victories, will be playing in the number one slot on Coach Mickey Evans' golf crew.

Ron Young, Jerry Smith, and Hayes Walker will round out the Cat quartet.

Two other matches are scheduled this week. Thursday the linksmen will play Missouri at Columbia and then travel to Lawrence to play KU in their last match before the Big Seven conference meet May 18-19.

Girls' IM Softball

Two games were postponed in women's intramural softball yesterday because of wet grounds. Kappa Delta will play Chi Omega next Monday in a make-up game and Northwest hall will meet Pi Beta Phi.

Today, Delta Delta Delta will play Southeast hall and Alpha Chi Omega will play Alpha Delta Pi.

Softball Titles Go to AGR, Junior AVMA

Fraternity and independent softball champions are Alpha Gamma Rho and Jr. AVMA who won yesterday in 5-inning intramural playoffs.

Fred Wingert pitched the AGR's to a 6-0, no-hit win over Beta Theta Pi. Wingert struck out 8 of the 15 men he faced in the five innings.

The AGR's got their 6 runs off pitcher Bill Laude in two innings. J. C. Breithaupt started the first inning with a single. A walk and a triple by Bill Bower ended the inning and scored two runs. In the fourth inning a walk, a double by Sam Strahm, two more walks, and a triple by Breithaupt accounted for four more runs.

Dave Bruster pitched a three-hitter for the Jr. AVMA's and [illegible]ed a 13-4 win over the Jones Boys for the independent title.

Lee Mills of Jr. AVMA highlighted the game with a home run with two men on base. Losing pitcher for the Jones Boys was John Boring.

Trophies will be presented to AGR and Jr. AVMA for championships in their divisions. A trophy for champion softball intramural team will go to the winner of a playoff next week.

K-State Tracksters To Host Huskers in Dual Meet Today

A trio of hurdlers will carry the brunt of the K-State cinder attack into the Cats' first dual track meet of the season in Memorial Stadium this afternoon when the Wildcats host the Nebraska Cornhuskers. The meet starts at 3:30.

Gene O'Connor, distance hurdle ace, will have to shorten his sights for this one, however, since the afternoon's program will include the 120-yard highs and 220-yard lows in place of his favorite 400-meter distance.

Joining the Hoisington sophomore will be Ray Russell and Gary Doupnik—both short distance performers. Russell has also pushed O'Connor in the 400-meter event this year.

In this year's indoor meet with the Cornhuskers Doupnik, O'Connor, and Russell swept the high hurdles and Doupnik and O'Connor ran one-two in the lows. The Cats scored a 54½-49½ win over Nebraska in the indoor meet.

At least three meet records are in danger. Two of them should be toppled by the Cornhuskers, and Joe Powell, K-State javelin star, will have a chance to better the spear mark of 207-8 which dates from 1941. The Emporia senior had a throw of 212-11 at the Colorado Relays for a new K-State varsity record.

The Huskers will be shooting at meet records in the high jump and polevault. Three Nebraskans have high jumped 6-3 this season and the meet record is 6-3½.

Husker sophomore vaulter Bernie Randolph has a 13-10 vault this season which would top the 13-3 meet record.

Tuesday's meet is K-State's only home action in track this season ahead of the Big Seven meet here May 18 and 19.

TILL WE MEET AGAIN

I always find myself yawning hugely when a comedian, having finished his act, steps out in front of the curtain, takes off his putty nose, assumes a sincere stance, and delivers an oration full of tender and lofty sentiments.

So how come I'm doing precisely the same thing right now?

Two reasons. First, because I couldn't possibly make you laugh at this time of the year; cramming for finals has left you wan, woebegone, and in no mood for innocent merriment.

Second, because this is the last column of the current series, and I'd be a liar if I didn't admit I was just a tiny bit choked up.

It was two years ago that the makers of Philip Morris asked me to write this column. My first impulse, frankly, was to say no. Though I am a man who likes a dollar as well as the next fellow, my talents just do not seem to lead me in the direction of writing advertising copy. When called upon to rhapsodize about soap or sox or cigarettes, I get to giggling uncontrollably and have to be helped home.

"Buddies," said I to the makers of Philip Morris, "I smoke Philip Morris myself, and I think it's a jim-dandy cigarette. But that's all I think it is—a cigarette. Not a graven image. Not a love object. Just a smoke. I'm afraid I can't get reverent enough to write ad copy for you."

To my astonishment, they seemed delighted. "Reverence is not required," said the people at Philip Morris. They assured me that I would not be required to write fulsome commercials—that I could rib the cigarette and the company all I liked—that my columns would be mine alone, with no editing, no suggestions, and no supervision.

"Hah!" I said by way of reply.

But they kept insisting and finally, my thin breast full of misgivings, I went to work.

For the first few weeks they were scrupulously true to their words. Not one syllable, not one comma, was ever changed; not one quarter-ounce of pressure was ever exerted. But my doubts were not laid to rest. "When will the honeymoon be over?" I kept asking myself.

..... the honeymoon is still going on

The answer, gentle readers, is that the honeymoon is still going on. This finishes my second year for Philip Morris. During that time, though I'm sure my copy caused an occasional conniption fit in the boardroom, my carte blanche has remained as blanche as the day it was issued. Whatever I've perpetrated in this column has been, as they guaranteed, mine alone.

They've been living dolls, the makers of Philip Morris, and I think I may be forgiven for getting a trifle misty. And as long as the stops are out, let me say that it's also been a big charge writing for you, the college population of America. Your response has warmed my old heart, and on the occasions when I've visited your campuses, it's been deeply gratifying to see that you're still as pleasantly disorganized as ever. I figure that as long as the likes of you exist, I'm in business.

So, for now, goodbye. Stay well. Stay happy. Stay loose.

©Max Shulman, 1956

Old Max has said it all. We, the makers of Philip Morris, can only add a heartfelt second chorus: Stay well. Stay happy. Stay loose.

About 1,400 Are Expected To Attend Summer School

"About 1,400 students are expected to enroll in summer school this year," Paul Young, director of summer school, said.

"Of course, we have no real way of knowing just how many are going to attend summer school, so we must base our figures on last year's enrollment."

This year's schedule has been aranged so that almost anyone can take some courses during the summer, Young said. The main goal of students at summer school is to speed up graduation. There are also many people from public schools and business concerns who attend to get a few extra hours of credit, he said.

Enrollment for the 9-week session is June 4. Summer school ends August 3 with commencement exercises the same night.

Students may enroll for 9 hours as a regular assignment, or for fewer hours as a part-time assignment. Undergraduate students with a B average the previous semester may enroll in 10 hours with the dean's approval.

The College has planned a series of 3-week sessions. Courses offered carry 1, 2, or 3 credit hours. Maximum assignment is 3 hours. The student cannot enroll in the 9-week session and in a 3-week session also.

"A recreational program is being worked out, in conjunction with the Union, to entertain students during summer school," Young said.

Parking Tickets May Be Excused

Students parked in the emergency ward parking area by Student Health will not be subject to parking tickets received while they are receiving medical treatmetn in the clinic, Dr. B. J. Lafene, director, said.

Tickets will be issued when the 30-minute parking limit is exceeded, but may be excused by obtaining a permit from the clinic, he said.

COFFEE MONEY??—Warren Bennett, Eng Fr, and Dee Ann Oberg, Eng Fr, (right) ask Mary Beth McCoy, HE Fr, winner of the Larry Woods Memorial speech contest last night, as she looks at the $30 certificate she won. Bennett placed second and Miss Oberg third.

McCoy, Bennett, Oberg Win Speech Contest

"When you get out of bed in the morning compare yourself with Mr. America," Mary Beth McCoy, HE Fr, implored her audience last night as she won the Larry Woods Memorial speech contest.

Miss McCoy, whose prize was $30, explained how everyone can be "The Ideal American Citizen."

Warren Bennett, Eng Fr, won the second prize of $20 with his "Common Man—the Hero's Backside." Bennett contended that the public, 85 per cent of which considers itself middle class, has set the common man on a faculty pedestal.

Dee Ann Oberg, Eng Fr, won the $10 third prize with her plea for "Your Heart." Miss Oberg said that people think its more important to build hydrogen bombs than to save people from heart disease.

Idea for the winning speech came from "I Dare You," a book by William Danforth. Miss McCoy built her speech around Danforth's words—"Stand tall, think tall, smile tall, and you'll live tall."

Other finalists and their speeches were Larry Steele, "The Moment of Truth;" Dwight Bennett, "Bridey Murphy and Flying Saucers;" Richard Brantingham, "The Test of Time;" Michael Kinsella, "Flying Saucers;" and Evert Asjes, "United States' Handout Policy."

Judges were Mr. Evan Griffith, Mrs. H. L. Ibsen, Dr. C. H. Kitselman, the Rev. J. E. Leach, and Mrs. J. L. Rosenberg.

Dr. Howard T. Hill, speech department, presided.

The three winners were picked from a field of 750 oral communications students. The eight finalists were chosen last Tuesday by professors in the speech department.

Destruction of Property Charged to 2 Staters

Faced with $100 fines and 30 days in jail, or both, K-Staters Richard Leon Vann, PrL Soph, and Cecil Wayne Williams, BAA Jr, are free on $25 bond while awaiting trial Friday on a charge of destruction of property and malicious mischief.

At least one tire was slashed, the steering wheel of a car was bent, and air was let out of 48 tires on sorority row in the vicinity of Laramie, Denison, and Fairchild streets last night, Manhattan police report.

One complaint has been filed and other charges may be filed, police said. At least 26 cars were tampered with. Maximum penalty for the offense would be $100 fine and 30 days in jail, or both, Richard Green, prosecuting attorney for the city, said.

Typical of the activities charged against Vann, of 11 Vista Lane, and against Williams, of 1411 Denison, was the tampering with six cars at the Chi Omega house, 1803 Laramie. Two tires on each car were flattened by removing the valve stems and allowing the air to escape.

Two Chi Omegas saw someone tampering with cars and called police. Vann and Williams were arrested next door in the Pi Beta Phi parking lot, 505 Denison.

Attorney General Rules

K-State's Architect Works 5 Years for Wrong Party

By LANCE GILMORE

KANSAS ATTORNEY General John Anderson's recent ruling that "Kansas State college has no authority to hire an architect" poses a question of who College architect Vincent Cool is working for.

For five years Cool has been employed by the College as far as anyone knew.

A recent article in the Topeka Daily Capital carried the story on the state's ruling. It mentioned that K-State had been Cool's employing authority for some time but the state had decided this authority should rest with the State Architect.

IT QUOTED State Architect Dwight Brown as saying that Cool has been "working under our jurisdiction, but we are not his employing authority." Cool has always submitted his plans for Brown's approval.

When contacted, Cool said that as far as he knew, "the College still has the right to hire and fire me." He added that either way, "the salary will still come from the same place in the long run."

President McCain has been out of town and has not yet commented on the ruling. Cool seemed to think that McCain's opinion on the situation could have a bearing on the outcome.

ASKED WHY he thought the state should suddenly object to his not being under the state's jurisdiction after five years, Cool replied, "no comment."

Attorney General Anderson described the controversy over who was hiring Cool as "an interdepartmental scrap."

It is still not clear who will have the authority to hire and fire. Cool's statement indicates that he feels the College has that right. The state ruling says the College doesn't have the right.

THE MATTER seems to be still pending, or at least if it is settled, it isn't clear just what the outcome was.

At any rate, Cool will go right on planning, either under state authority, or K-State authority.

Hubert Brighton, secretary of the State Board of Regents, which sets policy for state schools, said, "There's no controversy really. We don't care whose payroll he's on just so K-State gets its plans expedited."

Some of the major structures Cool has planned or is working on, are the extension building, married students' housing, the ag engineering wing, the animal industries building, and an elevator for the animal husbandry department.

"Look sharp down there."

U.S. Sees 'Grounds for Hope' of Peace In Middle East, Secretary of State Says

By UNITED PRESS

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The United States sees "grounds for hope" of peace in the Middle East now that Russia seems to have quit "playing fast and loose with peace in the area."

This note of guarded optimism for settling Israeli-Arab tensions was sounded last night by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in a major foreign policy address.

Dulles told the B'nai B'rith Triennial convention that the job of reaching settlements in the Middle East will be difficult. But he based his hope for the future on Moscow's new attitude toward the troubled region and on U.S. peace efforts.

THE HARD-traveling Secretary of State linked his fresh report on the Middle East with a report on the just-concluded Paris meeting of the 15 North Atlantic Treaty powers, which he attended.

Dulles said the NATO powers intend that Israel shall be maintained in its independence." But he said they ruled out an arms race that would be "ominous for peace." The main goal of the NATO nations, he said is friendly relations with all the nations of the area on an impartial basis.

Speaking of the NATO meeting, Dulles then said:

"THERE WAS grave concern that the Soviet Union has sought to further its end by playing fast and loose with peace in the area. There was the feeling that that very fact made it more important for the Western nations to act with firm deliberation and with care.

"There was recognition at Paris that wide discrepancies in armed strengths would be likely to create tensions. There was also a conviction that the safety of the countries of the Middle East is not to be found in an arms race, particularly one which tended to pit great world powers against each other.

"THERE WAS a belief that reliance should, above all, be placed upon the processes of the United Nations, and that we can perhaps, do so now with greater confidence, since the Soviet Union seems increasingly aware of the dangerous consequences of reckless action, and ahs indicated that it too would be prepared to support a solution through the United Nations."

Dulles said the United States believes that "solid reliance" can be placed on the United Nations in the Middle East crisis. And he said U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold's mission to the area seems to have produced some positive results.

Five Primaries Give Ike Wide 'Corn Belt' Victory

By UNITED PRESS

FIVE PRIMARIES gave President Eisenhower a "corn belt" vote of confidence in Indiana and produced some surprises in other states today.

The President, running against token Republican opposition, rolled to an easy "popularity" contest victory over Sen. Estes Kefauver (D. Tenn.) in Indiana's first Presidential primary since 1928 yesterday.

The other primaries in Florida, Ohio, West Virginia, and New Mexico, did not feature bona fide Presidential races. Surprises included Florida Gov. Leroy Collins' landslide re-election and Ohio Gov. Frank J. Lausche's failure to capture all 58 Democratic Presidential convention delegates.

HOOSIER FARMERS stayed in the Republican ranks in the first farm belt primary since the President's controversial farm bill veto.

Kefauver, unopposed in the Democratic primary, had hoped to stir up a farm protest vote. But the President rolled up a vote edge of about 80,000 over the Tennesseean, whose strength was primarily concentrated in traditionally Democratic city areas.

The primary gave the President 32 first-round Republican convention votes and Kefauver 26. Mr. Eisenhower also picked up 56 Ohio votes, although they are nominally pledged to favorite son Sen. John W. Bricker.

THE OTHER primaries at a glance:

● Florida—Collins became the first Governor in Florida's history to succeed himself and the first to win the Democratic nomination, tantamount to election, without a runoff.

He rolled up a heavy margin over five candidates. The closest was Sumter Lowry, who campaigned on a pledge to block racial segregation while Collins took a more moderate stand. Former Gov. Fuller Warren ran a poor fourth.

Sen. George Smathers won an easy Democratic primary victory and has no GOP opposition.

● OHIO—Attorney General C. William O'Neill, who has never lost an election, won the Republican nomination for Governor and former federal price stabilizer Michael V. Disalle got the Democratic nod. Both were smashing victories.

Lausche suffered a blow to his prestige when he lost two, and perhaps three, of Ohio's Democratic national convention delegates. He wanted them to back up his "favorite son" candidacy, even though he says he is not a Presidential candidate and is expected to release his delegates to Adlai E. Stevenson.

● WEST VIRGINIA—Rep. Robert Mollohan, running against the powerful Democratic "statehouse" organization and carrying the potent backing of veteran Democratic Sen. Matthew W. Neely, appeared to have won his party's nomination for governor. He led the "statehouse" candidate, Milton J. Ferguson, and another contender.

Incumbent Gov. William C. Marland had a slight edge over another Democrat, Attorney General John G. Fox, in their race to fill the unexpired term of the late U.S. Sen. Harley M. Kilgore. Former Sen. Chapman Revercomb led in the fight for the GOP nomination.

Voting was heavy in West Virginia. Kefauver backers entered a nearly full slate of convention delegates, but a United Press poll showed the 67 delegate candidates were 3 to 1 in favor of Adlai E. Stevenson.

● NEW MEXICO—Gov. John F. Simms, a Stevenson backer, pulled to an early lead in his campaign for re-nomination on the Democratic ticket. But he began to lose ground fast to corporation Commissioner Ingram B. Pickett when returns from outlying areas began coming in.

Pickett is a backer of New York Gov. Averell Harriman.

Golfers Edge Drake; Play MU Tomorrow

K-State golfers will be ready to re-enter Big Seven competition against Missouri tomorrow after beating the Drake university Bulldogs yesterday 6-5 on the Manhattan country club links.

Dave Smith won medalist honors for the afternoon shooting a one over par 71, beating Gary Orlich 3-0 for half the Wildcat total.

Hayes Walker got K-State's other three points by shooting a 77 to beat Drake's Bill Mann 3-0. Yesterday's win gives the golf squad a 3-1 record in the Big Seven and an overall mark of 9-5.

"It was a good close match and we were lucky to squeeze by," coach Mickey Evans said.

The golfers have two more matches remaining this week. Thursday they journey to Columbia to play Missouri. "Missouri beat KU and KU beat us so it's going to be tough," Evans said.

Saturday morning at 10:30 Cat linksmen will play KU there. "We'll probably have trouble with them too," the golf mentor said.

Summaries:

Dave Smith, KS, (71) defeated Gary Orlich, (75) 3-0.

Phil Thompson, Drake, (74) defeated Ron Young, (77) 3-0.

George Benoit, Drake, (81) defeated Jerry Smith, (83), 2-1.

Hayes Walker, KS, (77) defeated Bill Mann, (84), 3-0.
